

Charlie Frank Quits As Cracker Manager After Stormy Career

Poor Health Given as Cause—Winning Team Now Promised Atlanta, by President Spiller.

SAYS BIG LEAGUERS DO NOT LIKE FRANK

Many Changes in the Team Lineup Are Expected as Spiller Leaves for East.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Accepting the advice of physicians that he devote the whole of his attention to battling physical ailments, Charlie Frank has resigned as manager of the Atlanta baseball club, President R. J. Spiller announced yesterday, shortly before he left on a plane for New York, which will carry him to Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and New York.

Frank will have no connection whatever with the club this summer. Mr. Spiller stated, although by next year if Frank is in good health he will be called in an advisory capacity. He was in his seventh year as manager of the Atlanta team.

His successor has not been named, it was stated. Spiller and his associates have under consideration two major league stars who have expressed a desire to manage clubs in the Southern circuit. There is a chance, too, that one of the players now on the local roster will be elevated to the managerial berth.

Nothing along this line was given out save that Roy Ellam, in his official capacity as team captain, would continue to look after the outfit until Spiller returns from his journey. He was undecided about the length of the stay yesterday, declaring that he would first visit Cincinnati, hoping to get back before the end of the week.

The First Step.
Charlie Frank's resignation is regarded in baseball circles as Spiller's first step toward giving the Atlanta franchise the winning team their patrons so richly warrant.

As smart a baseball man as ever entered the profession, Frank was not favorably looked upon by the big league moguls. Many of the deals he engineered seemed sour to the major magnates, whose final ultimatum was that they would have no dealing with the Atlanta club as long as Frank had anything to do with the local franchise.

Frank was the outstanding figure in practically every controversy that has raged in the Southern league since its birth twenty-one years ago. After the circuit had been flourishing but a year or two, Frank threatened its very existence with the first of his battles, and although he lost out in a court struggle where the issues were aired, he won his every point later by organizing an outlaw association.

While Frank was regarded as a very successful baseball manager, his chief claim to fame was in his ability as a baseball lawyer. He made few mistakes in assuming various positions on matters of importance and has long been regarded as one of the smartest of the minor league managers.

Many of the squabbles in which he participated are still in the courts, among them the Keller Hasty controversy involving the Atlanta and the Mobile franchises. The Cliff Merkle deal was another that brought the attention of the baseball world to the Southern league's stormy petrel.

Frank's success with the Atlanta franchise was largely due to the shrewdness he possessed. Frank's idea has always been to keep his activities before the reading public all the time and the small little fortune he amassed, where others had failed miserably, proves the worth of his system.

President Spiller, his back to the wall desperate over the situation, and supported by Frank's physician, was forced to ask that Frank step down, and be it said to the everlasting glory of this old war-horse of Southern league warfare, he consented to turn over his lead to other hands, although his five-year contract started but last fall. Frank, while he took no active part in the training routine, hovering near death as the candidates worked out, was instrumental in rigging up the present Atlanta team and as long as he was nominally in command, Spiller declined to take any hand in arranging the combination.

Predicts Changes.
Now that Frank is no longer manager, Spiller asserts that the next few days will see many changes in the personnel of the club. In Cincinnati he expects to get a pitcher. We are informed that he will make every effort to purchase Cliff Markle, the curve-ball specialist who won so many games for the Crackers last season and the year before. Garry Herrmann also talks. Mr. Spiller declares, of possessing an infielder that would prove of much assistance.

Continued on page 14, column 2.

Mayor Waggoner To Face Charges At Court Session

Impeachment proceedings brought against Mayor E. L. Waggoner, of Clarkston, charged with exceeding the authority granted him by the city charter will be heard before Judge John B. Hutcheson, of the DeKalb Superior court at a session held at Clarkston at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

The charge against the mayor grew out of a controversy that developed after the mayor had assessed several large fines against automobile owners for speeding.

The charges will be heard by Judge Hutcheson who will sit in the presence of the city council of Clarkston. Mayor Waggoner will be represented by Attorney Leslie Steel while the town of Clarkston will be represented by Paul Lindsey, city attorney.

BILL WOULD EASE RESERVE SYSTEM ADMISSION RULES

Senator Harris Introduces Measure to Permit State Banks With $15,000 Capital to Join.

BANK MUST INCREASE CAPITAL BY INCOME

Reserve Board Reported as Favoring Bill to Amend Act Along These Lines.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN.

Constitution Bureau.

Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, May 1.—(By Constitution Bureau.)—A bill introduced by Senator Harris, of Georgia, today would permit state banks with a capital of as much as $15,000 to join the federal reserve system. The present law requires all state banks to have a minimum capital the same as prescribed by law for national banks which is $25,000. The bill prescribes that applying banks for membership may have a capital of at least sixty per cent of the amount sufficient to entitle it to become a national banking association in the place where it is situated under the restrictions of the national bank act. It requires the bank to set aside an amount of not less than twenty per cent of its net income of the preceding year and it increases its capital from such fund from time to time until it possesses a paid up and unimpaired capital of not less than the capital which would have been required if it had been admitted to membership under the law as it now stands.

Senator Harris said today that small state banks were directly interested in agricultural credits for farmers and they were now ineligible for membership in the system because of their small capital. He said Georgia had 229 banks in the state which are barred from the system under the present law, and 298 banks who are eligible but not members.

Favored by Board.
The federal reserve board informed Senator Harris some days ago when he proposed the measure to them that they favored an amendment along this line. They are expected to formally discuss the bill when it is referred to them by the senate banking and currency committee. Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director of the war finance corporation, in a recommendation to the president, has approved the proposal to allow small banks to come into the federal reserve system.

The text of the Harris bill follows:
Text of Bill.

"No applying bank shall be admitted to membership in a federal reserve bank unless (A) it possesses a paid-up, unimpaired, capital sufficient to entitle it to become a national banking association in the place where it is situated under the provisions of the national bank act, or (B) it possesses a paid-up, unimpaired capital of at least sixty per centum of the amount sufficient to entitle it to become a national banking association in the place where it is situated under the provisions of the national bank act, and such rules and regulations as the federal reserve board may prescribe it sets aside annually in a fund an amount not less than twenty per centum of its net income from the preceding year and it increases its capital from such fund from time to time until it possesses a paid-up and unimpaired capital not less than the capital which would have been required if such bank had been admitted to membership under the provisions of subdivision (A) of this paragraph."

Continued on page 2, column 4.

FOUNDER OF G. O. P., AGED 99, IS DEAD

Chicago, May 1.—Edmund Abbott West, reputed to have been one of the founders of the republican party, who celebrated his 99th birthday anniversary last Friday, died here yesterday. His death was caused by pneumonia contracted in his childhood.

Continued on page 2, column 4.

COUNCIL PLANNING FOR 'SHOWDOWN' ON AUDIT CHARGES

C. H. Lapsley Fails to Appear at Meeting After Invitation Is Extended to Him.

GRAFT IS INTIMATED BY ERNEST CLAYTON

Councilman Seawright Says He Will Be Summoned to Appear Before Investigating Board.

City council took action Monday afternoon to compel C. H. Lapsley, Atlanta accountant, to a "showdown" of charges he made that "certain city politicians" had promised him the contract to audit the city's books if he would "divide profits."

Charges by another accountant intimating motives of graft on the part of certain council members, came as another new feature of the audit controversy.

Ernest Clayton, of the accounting Sausy, declared Monday night that council disregarded his firm's bid to award the contract to a higher bidder. He said his firm wouldn't have divided profits with anybody, "which, in all probability, caused our bid to be rejected."

Will Summon Clayton.
Councilman J. R. Seawright, chairman of the finance committee, stated Monday night that Clayton will be called to testify in a probe council ordered the finance committee to make a graft charges in connection with the proposed audit.

Lapsley has been extended an invitation to appear before the council and substantiate or retract his charges. He failed to respond, and the city marshal was dispatched to find him. He was unsuccessful in his search.

Council then adopted a resolution introduced by Councilman Claude Ashby, authorizing an investigation by the finance committee into the accountant's accusations, and empowered the committee to subpoena and require the attendance of witnesses and to issue subpoenas duces tecum for the production of documentary records.

Lapsley wrote a communication to the mayor and council containing the "certain city politicians" charges while bids for the auditing contract were pending before the finance committee.

This committee started an inquiry and invited Lapsley to appear and tell what city politicians were at tempting graft.

He failed to show up, but had a stenographer present at the meeting.

Continued on page 2, column 4.

MAYOR IS SCORED BY EDGAR WATKINS

Councilman Declares Key Has "Departed From the Truth"—Tax Collector's Election Postponed.

Sharply scoring Mayor Key as having departed from the truth in his veto message disapproving a resolution to have printed 1,000 copies of each of the three charter plans for public distribution, Councilman Edgar Watkins, original author of the measure, urged council Monday afternoon to override the veto.

The mayor, in his message, said he had been informed that Mr. Watkins, who introduced the Atlanta plan, had substituted a second charter with the city clerk "without anything as a matter of record to disclose the difference," and stated that "no one can tell now as a matter of law whether he is voting on the first paper of the second paper filed."

"That statement is untrue," declared the councilman. "It's very unfortunate the mayor made it in view of the fact that as either knew the statements was not true when he made it, or by some investigation he could have learned it was not true."

"I would not say this now if I had not already said the same thing to the mayor."

Election Is Postponed.
Council postponed until the next meeting two weeks hence the election of a city tax collector to succeed Frank F. Smith, resigned.

Action on the choice of a south side school site for the Girls' High school was delayed also until a recommendation is received from the bond commission.

Although having voted unanimously for the Watkins plan to print and distribute the three proposed charters, council declined to override the mayor's veto.

Continued on page 2, column 4.

Crocker Children May Renew Fight For Big Estate

Death of Former Tammany Chief Revives Interest in Famous "Incompetency" Trial.

New York, May 1.—The death of Richard Crocker may result in one of the most intricate cases ever decided by a United States court.

The one-time boss of Tammany hall married, against his children's wishes, Beulah Benton Edmonson, of Florida, who styles herself an Indian princess. Opposition of his sons and daughters to the match is said to have embittered the father so deeply that he revoked early wills in which the estate—then estimated at nearly ten million dollars—was to have been divided between them.

Then, it is believed, in order to assure the entire estate going to his wife, Crocker turned the entire property over to Mrs. Crocker, bit by bit.

Father Wins Decision.
It was this action that led to the hotly contested case in Florida, in which Richard Crocker, Jr., Howard Crocker, the countess Marjani, and Ethel F. White, sons and daughters of the politician, sought to have him proved incompetent. The court, after listening to Richard senior's comments on life in general, decided the old man was capable of administering his affairs.

Thereupon Crocker signalled his victory by turning over to Mrs. Crocker property at Palm Beach valued at nearly $2,000,000, and the famous Glencairn estate in Ireland, said to be worth $400,000.

Accordingly, when he died it is believed Crocker made no will for the patent reason that he had nothing left to give away.

Appeal Pending.

The children have appealed from the finding of the lower Florida court, and the question is now before the supreme court. This is the action on which attorneys for the children base their expectations of a long and involved suit for the entire property. If the supreme court holds that the elder Crocker was actually incompetent, and therefore had no legal right to turn his property entirely over to his "Indian princess" bride, new actions to recover the property will have to be instituted.

Harold Nathan, attorney for the senior Crocker, however, believes that with the death of the old-time boss all litigation automatically dies, and that no further action will hold. He estimates the Crocker estate as worth between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000.

Shattered War Romance Bared In Court Trial

Girl Attacked by Woman Who Alleges She Was Betrayed by Savannah Man.

BY D. G. BICKERS.

Savannah, Ga., May 1.—(Special.) A shattered romance of the world war—shattered by an American soldier to whom she gave her heart and fortune of a million francs—caused Marie Pickard, pretty young French widow, to attack Miss Georgia Lee, who was receiving attentions of the war veteran, Sunday.

This was the story she told the recorder today, when she was arraigned in court and given a sixty day sentence in jail, which was immediately suspended. Back of the court record is a story of romance and pathos which would form the basis for a novel.

Mrs. Pickard was a vivacious widow during the world war. She fell in love with W. D. Adams, of Savannah, a member of the expeditionary forces, she told the court, and gave him all the money left by her husband, who died a year before she met the American.

Child Is Born.

Before Adams came home a baby was born. She named him for Adams, who promised to return and legally marry her, she asserted.

But Adams did not return. After much trouble, she secured enough money to come to this country in search of him, according to her story. She overcame incredible difficulties, but finally located him here, only to find that he was paying earnest attention to Miss Lee.

Feminine and desperate, she said she met the young Savannah woman who had taken her place in the heart of the man to whom she had given all and yesterday she attacked Miss Lee on the street. She was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Adams and placed under heavy bond.

Ordered From Court.
She told her story through an interpreter to the recorder who compared the signature of the warrant with letters the French woman shows, as having been written by Adams, promising to join her.

The recorder ordered Adams out of his sight then the latter attempted to speak and declared he wished the jurisdiction extended to France.

Mrs. Pickard is working for less than $5 a week in a local cannery factory. She once owned an estate in France and had half a dozen servants.

RUMOR SAYS JAPS SECRETLY ASSIST CHINESE INVADER

Forces of Wu Pei Fu, Defending Peking, Are Standing Ground, Confused Reports Indicate.

BUT NEITHER SIDE HAS WON VICTORY

Fear That Conflict May Involve Powers Grows as American Official Is Stopped in Train.

Peking, May 1.—Out of the name of conflicting reports from the battles now raging on three fronts around Peking, it is evident that the forces of General Wu Pei Fu, fighting to hold off the invading army of General Chang Tso Lin, are standing their ground. Neither army appears to have yet won any strategic advantage.

Reports that Japan is secretly aiding Chang, the Manchurian leader, seeking to place him in control of the northern government in the hope that he would prove a valuable friend in extending liberal concessions, are believed to have infused new strength in the defending army.

If these reports prove to have a real basis, it is possible that Chang will find a growing hostile sentiment through northern China which would be of material aid to General Wu Pei Fu.

The possibility of allied interference has been brought nearer by several incidents, the last of which was the turning back by Chang of a train which was carrying Secretary Atherton of the American legation from Peking to Mukden. Representatives of foreign powers, fearing this will lead to further encroachments of the liberty of foreigners, have protested to Chang for blocking railway traffic. It is, they notified him, a violation of the protocol signed in 1901 between China and the foreign nations.

May Income Powers.
Although movements of foreigners have been interfered with very little since Peking was placed under martial law, restrictions are expected to become more rigid probably causing international complications which may lead to general protests from the powers.

Descriptions of bitter fighting at Chang-Sin Tien are being brought here by hundreds of wounded Feng Tien troops, defeated in the severe engagements. Their comrades are retiring eastward on this sector, but are advancing on the middle front toward Kao Pei Tien, the returning wounded report. Heavy fighting is continuing on the third front near Ta-Cheng, but no details as to whether either force is gaining could be obtained.

Many Prisoners.

Hundreds of prisoners were taken by the forces of Chang Tso Lin, in a victorious engagement at Ma-Chang, according to the general's own communication. His claim: were borne out by the wounded here.

Reports that Japan is backing Chang received partial support by Justin Brandt, American business man, who said that while traveling with Manchurian troops on the Peking-Mukden railway, he passed many trains carrying soldiers dressed in what appeared to be Chinese uniforms but who were actually talking in Japanese.

MAY BRING UNITED CHINA.

Washington, May 1.—Unification of China may result from the civil war now in progress, in the opinion of Chinese officials here.

If Sun Yat Sen, president of the Canton or South China government, should join forces with Chang Tso Lin, the defeat of the army under Wu Pei Fu is considered certain. Then the way would be open for an understanding between the Peking and Canton governments, with Chang as head of a common army. Wu Pei Fu's forces have acted as a wedge between the Canton and Peking areas.

Chang has been quoted as willing to end the system of government by military dictators, once Wu's armies are dispersed.

Would Aid Nation.
A strong central government, which China has not possessed since the revolution, would go far in aiding that nation along the path laid out at the Washington conference. In the opinion of diplomats here, demobilization of the armies maintained by the provincial military chiefs, whose allegiance to the central government is only nominal, is held to be a necessary preliminary to China's restoration.

Fear has been felt in some quarters that the new civil war would deprive China of the benefits derived from the Washington conference, and would prevent the powers from adhering to the policy of non-interference in Chinese affairs. But a strong central government, able to carry out its obligations, would avoid this.

American Forces.

Admiral Strauss, in command of the Asiatic squadron, is expected to

Recognition by U. S. Not for Soviet Now, Hughes Makes Clear

SAY RUSS SOVIET MUST RECOGNIZE
OLD REGIME DEBTS

Allied Ultimatum Makes Assumption of Czarist and Kerensky Obligations Condition of Aid.

MUST ALSO RENOUNCE ALL COUNTER-CLAIMS

Soviet Is Expected to Reject Demands, Which Will Probably Mean Collapse of Genoa Parley.

BY RALPH H. TURNER.

Genoa, May 1.—Soviet Russia must recognize the Czarist and Kerensky debts if she expects constructive aid from the allies, according to the terms of the so-called ultimatum just finished by the political sub-committee of the conference.

If Russia will agree to this recognition of obligations, the allies will make no immediate demand for either capital or interest and will seek to have their respective parliaments reduce the amounts due from the Soviets.

Russia, however, must not only recognize all her old debts in full, but also renounce all counter-claims against the allies, if she expects to obtain any ultimate reduction in her debt.

Rejection Indicated.

These are the provisions agreed upon by the political sub-committee. They probably will be ratified without much debate by the allies and fourthly handed to the Russian delegation. All advance indications are that these terms will be unacceptable to the Russians. The Soviets not only must abandon all their protestations against recognizing the old debts, but they must sacrifice the very valuable bargaining asset of counter claims against the allies for damages incurred during invasions of the White army and for other attacks which the Bolsheviks claim were financed by outside nations.

And for this, they get only a promise that the allies will ease up the matter of scaling down Russia's debt in their respective parliaments. Later, and a promise that no pressure will be exerted for immediate collection of the debt or interest payments.

Continued on page 2, column 2.

SLAYS ONE MAN, WOUNDS ANOTHER

En Route to Stand Preliminary Trial, Jakin Farmer Opens Fire on Accusers.

Donaldsonville, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—F. C. Pace, who resides near Jakin, today shot and instantly killed J. J. Hill and seriously wounded Joe Eason, who resides in the same neighborhood.

The shooting is said to have resulted from the swearing out of a warrant by Hill against the Pace boys, charging them with manufacturing illicit liquor.

A commitment trial on the charges was being held in Jakin at the time the shooting occurred. Pace drove into town in his buggy. He had a shotgun in his hand, it was stated, and as soon as he saw Hill and Eason opened fire. He did not make any statement before shooting.

Pace, who is a farmer, is being held in the county jail.

FATHER SHOTS SON AND ASSAILANT IN FIGHT.

Dublin, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Rexwell A. Youmans, prominent Emanuel county farmer, shot and probably fatally wounded Bill Kirby and seriously wounded his own son, Carl Youmans, aged 17, late Sunday afternoon when he went to the rescue of his young son who was being severely beaten by Kirby and Homer Corbin.

Kirby is in a Stateboro hospital in a grave condition and Carl Youmans is in a Dublin hospital, where one of his legs was amputated Friday, as a result of being accidentally shot by his father during the affray. No arrests have been made. According to information, had Kirby been killed for some time between Kirby and Bill Kirby.

Continued on page 2, column 4.

Statement Serves Notice on European Powers That U. S. Will Not Follow Their Lead.

SECRETARY ANSWERS PETITION OF WOMEN

Also Makes Clear That Present Russia Can Get No Government Credit in This Country.

BY JOHN GLEISSNER.

Washington, May 1.—America will not recognize Russia until the Soviets establish a government that is capable of discharging international obligations, and until a disposition to discharge those obligations is evidenced.

That is the position of this government. It was made known Monday by Secretary Hughes, in reply to a petition from the Women's National league for peace and freedom. The petition asked immediate recognition of the Soviet republic, the far eastern republic, and the autonomous states carved out of the former Russian empire.

While Hughes' reply was addressed to the women, it constitutes a formal declaration of policy for the information of the world. It notifies the European powers that America will not join with them, in event they decide to extend recognition to Russia under existing conditions. The European powers are considering this in their conference at Genoa.

No Credit Here.

Hughes went further, and virtually served notice on the powers that the credit which Russia needs, and which she is seeking at Genoa, will not come from America. It is idle for Soviet Russia to expect credit, Hughes declared, until conditions within the country are such as to form a basis on which credit can be extended.

"Political recognition follows the establishment of a sound basis for intercourse," Hughes told the petitioners. "Political recognition is dependent upon the existence of a government that is competent to discharge and shows a disposition to discharge its international obligations. This whole matter is in the control of those who dominate the affairs of Russia. We are most desirous to do what we can to aid Russia's recuperation, but they must establish the basis for recuperation."

"With respect to intercourse, it is quite evident that you are under a serious misapprehension. There are no legal obstacles to trade with Russia. The obstacles that exist to trade with Russia are due to the situation in Russia which is in the control of those who dominate the affairs of Russia. Some time ago I pointed out the essential conditions for a return to productivity in Russia. That was not a formula; that was not an artificial conception; that was simply a statement of fact."

Must Supply Bank.

"Russia needs credit, but it is idle to expect credit unless there is a basis for credit. That basis for credit cannot be supplied from the outside. That

Continued on page 2, column 2.

The Weather

MOSTLY CLOUDY.

Washington.—Forecast:

Georgia: Mostly cloudy Tuesday and Wednesday, little change in temperature; moderate easterly winds.

Local Weather Report.

Highest temperature..... 71

Lowest temperature..... 61

Mean temperature..... 66

Normal temperature..... 66

Rainfall in past 24 hrs., inch..... 0.0

Deficiency since last inch..... .07

Excess since Jan. 21, inches..... 6.78

7 a.m. Noon 7 p.m.

Dry temperature 58 68 63

Wet bulb..... 50 59 59

Relative humidity 60 59 59

Reports of Weather Bureau Stations.

STATIONS and State of WEATHER.

Temp. Rain.

24 hrs. 24 hrs.

ATLANTA, Ga., 63 71 .00

Bham., Ala., 63 74 .00

Boston, Mass., 60 68 .00

Buffalo, N. Y., 58 66 .00

Charleston, S. C., 63 70 .02

Chicago, Ill., 60 70 .00

Denver, Colo., 56 62 .18

Des Moines, Ia., 60 66 .01

Detroit, Mich., 74 74 .16

Galveston, Tex., 62 68 .00

Harve, La., 60 64 .02

Jacksonville, Fla., 70 74 .01

K. City, Mo., 63 68 .00

Memphis, Tenn., 64 68 .00

Miami, Fla., 74 80 .00

Mobile, Ala., 72 76 .00

Montgomery, Ala., 72 76 .00

N. Orleans, La., 72 76 .00

New York, N. Y., 62 68 .00

N. Platts, N. Y., 62 64 .00

Okla. City, Okla., 62 68 .00

basis for credit has got to be supplied inside of Russia."

Hughes' declaration revealed that there has been no change in the policy of this government toward the soviet, despite the disposition of the European governments to make settlements. It showed further that the present proposed change of front in the communistic program, under which it was claimed there was at least a partial recognition of the capitalistic system, did not go far enough to win the approval of this government.

The American policy continues to be one of non-interference in the internal affairs of Russia. Recognition hinges on the assumption of the debts of the Russian nation by the soviet government; on the willingness and ability of the soviets to recognize and guarantee private property and protect lives and property of foreigners; and on their willingness to guarantee the sanctity of contracts. Until this is done, the government holds, it is useless to expect Russia to recover, and useless for this government to extend recognition.

Interested in People.
Hughes said the government is deeply interested in the Russian people. "It is hardly necessary to refer to the concern that we all feel with respect to the welfare of the people of Russia," he said. "Our interest in the people of Russia has been manifested in the most unmistakable manner, and I do not think that it requires any statement at this time to indicate how anxious we are for the full restoration of the economic power of the Russian people and for their well-being in every way."

"There is no disposition to interfere with the Russian people in working out their own destiny. There is no desire to interfere in their internal affairs. The principle that is involved is one that we cherish here. Its application has been somewhat complicated by the organized efforts on the part of the soviet regime to interfere in the domestic affairs of other peoples."

SOVIET MUST ASSUME DEBTS OF OLD REGIME

Continued From First Page.

These are harder terms than Lloyd George originally was willing to offer, but the insistence of France, and her threats to leave the conference unless a firm position was taken, have resulted in a marked stiffening of the allied demands.

The memorandum states that the question of reducing Russia's war debt cannot be taken up until after the allies have arranged for liquidation or rearrangement of their own war debts.

The allies, it appears, are not willing to let go of any Russian claims until they know just how their negotiations with the United States debt funding commission come out.

Indefinite Promise.
But when this funding is arranged, the "allied governments will submit to their parliaments measures for reducing or modifying the amount due from the Soviet government on similar lines and with due regard for the economic and financial condition of Russia," the memorandum says.

The articles dealing with tribunals were revised providing for a mixed arbitral commission of three members, the president to be chosen by the chief justice of the United States, one to be selected by foreign bondholders, and one by the Soviets themselves. This commission would consider the question of remission of Russia's interest payments, the method of payment, Russia's capacity to pay, and other similar problems.

Then a pre-war debts commission is provided for, to act on behalf of bondholders in all countries holding obligations of the Russian government. Bondholders would first try to make their own arrangements with the Soviets for repayment, but if unable to get a definite understanding by a fixed date, the debts commission would take over the negotiations.

Group of Tribunals.
To deal with the restoration of property formerly belonging to the allies, or to adjust compensation therefor, a group of mixed arbitral tribunals, one for each nationality, is proposed, the chairman of each to be named by the head of the mixed commission.

This clause was adopted over the protest of Belgium who voted against it after a sharp fight between Lloyd George and foreign minister Jasper of Belgium.

Jasper proposed an amendment which would deny Russia an option between restoration or compensation for property. This was voted down after Lloyd George declared it would be construed by Russia as an invasion of sovereignty and would make an agreement impossible.

In addition, Admiral Strauss has under his command seven gunboats and eighteen destroyers.

U. S. GUNBOATS ARE EXPECTED

Continued From First Page.

Tientsin, May 1.—American and Italian gunboats are expected to arrive within a short time to protect foreign interests during the course of the civil war raging around Peking.

According to dispatches from the front, the Chinese forces have been favored with a number of minor successes in the fighting thus far. No decision is expected, however, until General Wu Pei Fu, whose troops are on the defensive between the city of Peking and Chang's forces, throws his picked soldiers into the battle. Wu's best fighting outfits are expected to reinforce the units already on the front.

SLAYS ONE MAN, WOUNDS ANOTHER

Continued From First Page.

and the Youmans' family and only last Saturday the Kirby brothers assaulted the elder Youmans, it is alleged. On Sunday afternoon, Homer Corbin, a friend of the Kirbys and Bill Kirby again sought, it is alleged, to see Youmans.

Foiled in their attempt, they met Carl Youmans and soon a fight was provoked, in which the junior Youmans was badly beaten. It was stated outside of the city which this thoroughfare traverses be incorporated. The petition was referred to the charter revision committee.

T. J. Williams, of the fifth ward, and J. J. Walls, of the sixth ward, were re-elected to succeed themselves as members of the Carnegie library board.

Edith Thompson and Charles Zeigler were re-elected to succeed themselves as members of the board of public welfare.

IMMENSE CROWDS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF BIG MAY SALE

Continued From First Page.

Large crowds thronged the big store of M. Rich & Bros. Co. Monday on the opening day of the May sale which is being given by this firm in observance of the fifty-fifth anniversary of its establishment in Atlanta.

This sale is an annual event with this store and M. Rich & Bros. Co. purchased more than $50,000 worth of goods particularly for this sale.

Special attention was given this year to select goods which are in vogue and to the announcement. For several weeks officers and buyers of the company have been preparing for the anniversary sale. The store has been decorated for the occasion, and arrangements have been made to look after the comfort of buyers from other cities.

The firm has made special concessions in prices and this year has been fortunate in obtaining an unusually high grade of merchandise which will be sold at particularly attractive prices according to the announcement.

The outside of the store met satisfaction over the results of the first day of the anniversary sale which has become an annual event in Atlanta and are making every effort to make the sale this year the greatest in the history of the firm.

GARRETT'S FACE TRIAL IN FEDERAL COURT THURSDAY

Columbus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.) The United States court convened in Columbus this morning with Judge Samuel H. Sibbey presiding, and a large attendance from west Georgia points. In charging the grand jury Judge Sibbey gave special attention to the narcotic act and the prohibition laws. The grand jury organized by electing Albert Hill, of Greenville, as foreman.

Alfred, Enoch and Napoleon Garrett, charged with conspiracy to obstruct federal officers in the discharge of their duty, in connection with the killing near Reynolds December 19, 1920, of R. W. Jackson, federal prohibition agent, were brought from Atlanta today by deputy United States marshals and incarcerated in the Muscogee county jail, where they will be held awaiting the calling of their cases for trial Thursday morning.

Fired by Sheriff, Deputy Is Elected City Chief of Police

Augusta, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—T. M. Butler, deputy sheriff of Aiken county, who was asked by the sheriff of Aiken county to resign after a sensational raid on a still in that county last week was last night elected chief of police of North Augusta, at a meeting of the town council.

Butler was fired by the sheriff, after he had refused to resign his office.

REV. J. L. R. BARRETT IS LAID TO REST

Guineville, Ga., May 1.—(Special.) The funeral services of Rev. J. L. R. Barrett, 81, were held in the First Baptist church here Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Dr. Campbell. Mr. Barrett was a minister for a period of over 50 years. He was connected with the Baptist State Mission board for about 40 years. Most of his work under the board was that of organizing and building new Baptist churches in northern Georgia.

He was president of the Chattahoochee Baptist association for two terms.

Tribute was paid to his memory by W. L. Hobbs and Professor T. E. Robertson in brief talks at the funeral.

He was a brother-in-law to the late A. A. Ainsworth, and had married his sister, Miss Mattie Ainsworth, in 1870. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. A. N. Cox, of Guineville, and one son, E. D. Barrett, of College Park.

LAST SERVICE TODAY FOR VICTIM OF TRAIN

The body of Ernest G. Harris, who was killed Monday morning by a train in Cobb county, was brought to Atlanta for interment. The funeral will be conducted at the Decatur Baptist church at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Interment will be in Danwood cemetery.

Autry & Lowndes in charge. Mr. Harris is survived by his mother, Mrs. M. M. Harris, five sons, and one brother, F. O. Harris, of Birmingham. The body is at the home of his mother, 215 Atlanta avenue, Decatur, Ga.

Ching Wang Tao, from which a force can be sent south to Peking by rail.

The Hunan, commanded by Captain C. D. Stearns, carries three companies of marines and could land in addition about 100 bluejackets. Two cruisers, the Albany and New Orleans, at Shanghai, are the nearest other candidates to enter the field.

Council adopted a report of its special investigating committee, composed of Councilmen W. H. Rogers, Alderman Cogoli, and Alderman Davis, recommending that authority to collect the rents on the Edgewood avenue public market property be taken over by the city.

The committee reported that the Rogers company had been negligent in turning over the proceeds to the city and had also failed in its duty to collect all the rentals.

A resolution to allow the Georgia Baptist hospital to pay a nominal sum of one-fourth of its assessed city taxes, was adopted. It was later referred to the park committee.

The contract expires December 31, 1922.

Property owners in the Chickasaw section submitted a petition asking that this district be removed from an industrial to a residential classification under the zoning law. The petition was referred to the planning commission.

Council approved the board of education's and bond commission's recommendation that additional and be purchased at the Calhoun Street school for the price of $33,700, and that a new site for the Mitchell Street and Rosh Street schools, colored, a tract of four acres, bounded by the city of Atlanta, be bought for $12,500.

Citizens of Cascade avenue asked in a petition that a portion of the city outside of the city which this thoroughfare traverses be incorporated. The petition was referred to the charter revision committee.

T. J. Williams, of the fifth ward, and J. J. Walls, of the sixth ward, were re-elected to succeed themselves as members of the Carnegie library board.

Edith Thompson and Charles Zeigler were re-elected to succeed themselves as members of the board of public welfare.

PLANNING SHOWDOWN ON AUDIT CHARGES

Continued From First Page.

to take down any remarks that might be made against him. Gordon scored him for refusal to back up his charges and branded him as a "liar" and a "publicity seeker."

Deacon E. E. Eiden, chosen as the finance committee split into four factions over the award of a bid. The four corners fight was settled in council Monday afternoon, when the council of Lawson & Eiden was awarded a firm which had no maximum on the work and the bid of the firm which was named as the successful bidder.

The bids submitted by the successful applicant called for $132.50 per diem for each of the eight men who were to work on the audit, while there was no maximum placed on the amount the work was to finally cost the city. There were other bids submitted on the per diem plan which called for a smaller expenditure.

What is the matter with the members of city council? asked Mr. Clayton, in conclusion.

MAYOR IS SCORED BY EDGAR WATKINS

Continued From First Page.

that he filed Mr. Watkins' substitute charter himself. He said he carried the charter to the clerk's desk in open council session and there was nothing secretive about it.

Members, voting to sustain the veto, said they did so because the time is too short before the election on May 16 to get the charter printed and out to the voters.

Acting Collector Named.
Alderman I. N. Ragsdale, chairman of the tax committee, was named as acting city collector in the interim until a successor to the former collector is elected.

Three candidates were expected to be nominated had the election taken place at the meeting Monday. They were Marvin P. Roane, Harry Perkinson and Drew Liddell. There were reports that the names of other candidates will enter the field.

Council adopted a report of its special investigating committee, composed of Councilmen W. H. Rogers, Alderman Cogoli, and Alderman Davis, recommending that authority to collect the rents on the Edgewood avenue public market property be taken over by the city.

The committee reported that the Rogers company had been negligent in turning over the proceeds to the city and had also failed in its duty to collect all the rentals.

A resolution to allow the Georgia Baptist hospital to pay a nominal sum of one-fourth of its assessed city taxes, was adopted. It was later referred to the park committee.

The contract expires December 31, 1922.

Property owners in the Chickasaw section submitted a petition asking that this district be removed from an industrial to a residential classification under the zoning law. The petition was referred to the planning commission.

Council approved the board of education's and bond commission's recommendation that additional and be purchased at the Calhoun Street school for the price of $33,700, and that a new site for the Mitchell Street and Rosh Street schools, colored, a tract of four acres, bounded by the city of Atlanta, be bought for $12,500.

Citizens of Cascade avenue asked in a petition that a portion of the city outside of the city which this thoroughfare traverses be incorporated. The petition was referred to the charter revision committee.

T. J. Williams, of the fifth ward, and J. J. Walls, of the sixth ward, were re-elected to succeed themselves as members of the Carnegie library board.

Edith Thompson and Charles Zeigler were re-elected to succeed themselves as members of the board of public welfare.

IMMENSE CROWDS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF BIG MAY SALE

Continued From First Page.

Large crowds thronged the big store of M. Rich & Bros. Co. Monday on the opening day of the May sale which is being given by this firm in observance of the fifty-fifth anniversary of its establishment in Atlanta.

This sale is an annual event with this store and M. Rich & Bros. Co. purchased more than $50,000 worth of goods particularly for this sale.

Special attention was given this year to select goods which are in vogue and to the announcement. For several weeks officers and buyers of the company have been preparing for the anniversary sale. The store has been decorated for the occasion, and arrangements have been made to look after the comfort of buyers from other cities.

The firm has made special concessions in prices and this year has been fortunate in obtaining an unusually high grade of merchandise which will be sold at particularly attractive prices according to the announcement.

The outside of the store met satisfaction over the results of the first day of the anniversary sale which has become an annual event in Atlanta and are making every effort to make the sale this year the greatest in the history of the firm.

GARRETT'S FACE TRIAL IN FEDERAL COURT THURSDAY

Continued From First Page.

Columbus, Ga., May 1.—(Special.) The United States court convened in Columbus this morning with Judge Samuel H. Sibbey presiding, and a large attendance from west Georgia points. In charging the grand jury Judge Sibbey gave special attention to the narcotic act and the prohibition laws. The grand jury organized by electing Albert Hill, of Greenville, as foreman.

Alfred, Enoch and Napoleon Garrett, charged with conspiracy to obstruct federal officers in the discharge of their duty, in connection with the killing near Reynolds December 19, 1920, of R. W. Jackson, federal prohibition agent, were brought from Atlanta today by deputy United States marshals and incarcerated in the Muscogee county jail, where they will be held awaiting the calling of their cases for trial Thursday morning.

Fired by Sheriff, Deputy Is Elected City Chief of Police

Augusta, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—T. M. Butler, deputy sheriff of Aiken county, who was asked by the sheriff of Aiken county to resign after a sensational raid on a still in that county last week was last night elected chief of police of North Augusta, at a meeting of the town council.

Butler was fired by the sheriff, after he had refused to resign his office.

REV. J. L. R. BARRETT IS LAID TO REST

Guineville, Ga., May 1.—(Special.) The funeral services of Rev. J. L. R. Barrett, 81, were held in the First Baptist church here Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Dr. Campbell. Mr. Barrett was a minister for a period of over 50 years. He was connected with the Baptist State Mission board for about 40 years. Most of his work under the board was that of organizing and building new Baptist churches in northern Georgia.

He was president of the Chattahoochee Baptist association for two terms.

Tribute was paid to his memory by W. L. Hobbs and Professor T. E. Robertson in brief talks at the funeral.

He was a brother-in-law to the late A. A. Ainsworth, and had married his sister, Miss Mattie Ainsworth, in 1870. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. A. N. Cox, of Guineville, and one son, E. D. Barrett, of College Park.

LAST SERVICE TODAY FOR VICTIM OF TRAIN

The body of Ernest G. Harris, who was killed Monday morning by a train in Cobb county, was brought to Atlanta for interment. The funeral will be conducted at the Decatur Baptist church at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Interment will be in Danwood cemetery.

Autry & Lowndes in charge. Mr. Harris is survived by his mother, Mrs. M. M. Harris, five sons, and one brother, F. O. Harris, of Birmingham. The body is at the home of his mother, 215 Atlanta avenue, Decatur, Ga.

'VOITURE' ORGANIZED BY LEGION MEMBERS

A local chapter of "voiture" of the famous story "des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux" was organized by a group of American Legionnaires at a meeting in the rooms of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

This is a secret society composed only of members of the American Legion who have performed some distinctive service to the legion and on behalf of ex-service men. Most of the proceedings are conducted in the French language and it gave those present at the meeting a chance to brush up on their A. E. F. French.

The following permanent officers were elected to serve during the coming year: J. G. C. Bloodworth, Jr., chef de gare (president); Evan P. Howell, chef de train (vice president); James A. Bankston, commissaire intendant (treasurer); Stephen Mitchell, correspondant locale (local secretary); Joseph E. Cooke, conducteur (master of ceremonies); J. M. B. Bloodworth, Rufus Barnett and A. S. Grove, gardes des prisonniers (guides to initiates); D. J. Meyerhardt, garde de porte (doorkeeper); and Basil Stockbridge, garde aux chevaux (corral keeper).

An executive committee, or "Le Cheminot Local," was selected, composed of J. G. C. Bloodworth, Evan P. Howell, Stephen Mitchell, B. P. Gambrell, R. H. Troutman and Eugene Oberdorfer, Jr.

The organization made plans to attend the forthcoming state convention of the legion at Waycross in July. They will journey thence in a box car marked "40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux," which is the famous legend chalked on all the box cars that hailed the doughboys across France. The next meeting of the local society will be held at the Capital City club early in June and a class of more than 20 initiates will be received.

The society is a national one, having more than two hundred local units and numbering nearly 10,000 members.

SIX YOUNG BANDITS ROB BANK MESSENGER

Oakland, Cal., May 1.—Six young masked bandits held up a messenger for the Central Bank, of Oakland, in a residence district today and robbed him of $12,000 which he was taking in an automobile to a branch house.

The Chesapeake & Ohio railway's new summer resort folder may be had by addressing Jno. D. Harris, P. T. M., C. & O. railway, Richmond, Va.—(adv.)

If "Time" Is a Consideration

And you are in a special big hurry for that prescription, or anything else that comes from a well-stocked drug store, phone

MUNN'S

IVY 13

Broad at Walton Street

STEWART'S

Junior Shoe Department

Just received a complete stock of Children's Black and White Kid Ballets for dancing.

Sizes 2½ to 6 At $2.50

Send Mail Orders

Stewart

TEXACO GASOLINE THE VOLATILE GAS

(Volatility: the readiness with which gasoline flows up its power)

FEWER FILLING STOPS

TEXACO GASOLINE TEXACO MOTOR OILS

ATLANTA CONSTITUTION New Universities Dictionary

COUPON

How to Get It

For the Most Nominal Cost of Manufacture and Distribution

3 Coupons and 98c

secure this NEW, authentic Dictionary bound in black and gold, illustrated with full pages in color and duotone.

Present or mail to this paper three Coupons with ninety-eight cents to cover cost of handling, packing, etc., etc.

MAIL ORDERS WILL BE FILLED

Add 12c for postage up to 300 miles, from 300 to 600 miles, 15c. For greater distance, add 25c.

22 DICTIONARIES IN ONE

All dictionaries published by the publisher since 1910 and 1911

Get it from COOLEGE

Special Price on

Fulton Lead

Made in white and all colors.

Mr. H. Shannon, one of the largest paint contractors in the South, said: "Fulton is one of the best leads I ever used."

Manufactured by

F. J. Coole & Sons

14 N. Forsyth Street

Phone IVY 371

Paints Plate Glass

Stains Window Glass

Varnishes Mirrors

WE SELL FORD CARS

A. L. BELLE ELE - IVY 807

National Under Warehouse

WE SELL FORD CARS

1000 Market St. - IVY 1000

BRUCE WOOD

—with roll front and lock that keeps your tie looking right

Collars & Shirts

EARL S. WILSON - IVY 1000

GOODHART TOMPKINS

1000 Market St. - IVY 1000

WE SELL FORD CARS

1000 Market St. - IVY 1000

WE SELL FORD CARS

1000 Market St. - IVY 1000

WE SELL FORD CARS

1000 Market St. - IVY 1000

WE SELL FORD CARS

1000 Market St. - IVY 1000

WE SELL FORD CARS

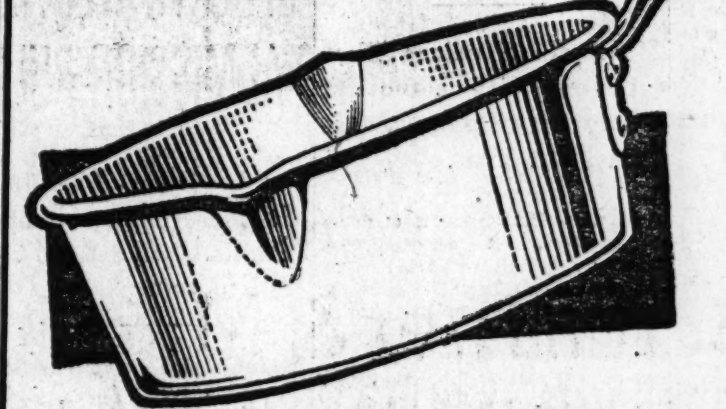

1000 Market St. - IVY 1000

WE SELL FORD CARS

1000 Market St. - IVY 1000

Sale and Demonstration of "Wear-Ever"

Two-Quart Aluminum Stew Pan

5,000 To Sell at

59c

Regular Price

$1.30

Special Offer Applies

From May 1 to 13 Only

Courtland Street Improvement Plans Will Be Discussed

H. A. Alexander, chairman of the Courtland Street Improvement association, announced Monday that not only residents and property owners of Courtland street, but the residents and property owners of Washington street, and other southside streets, as well as on Juniper street and other north side streets, are invited to attend the big mass meeting of the association that will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the assembly hall of the chamber of commerce.

At this time a large delegation of Courtland street residents and property owners will be organized to present the advantages of improving

Daniel Bros. Company
Headquarters for Hart Schaffner & Marx fine clothes

Money cheerfully refunded

Copyright 1922 Hart Schaffner & Marx

Folks needed no coaxing to come and buy those

Hart Schaffner & Marx fine spring suits specially priced at $40

THEY wonder why all stores can't sell good clothes at such a low price. Nothing to wonder about, though—it's our enormous volume that enables us to operate on a narrow margin of profit

Daniel's three-piece suits $27 up
Daniel's two-piece suits $15 up

Daniel Bros. Company

Founded 1896 Home of Hart Schaffner & Marx fine clothes 46-49 Peachtree

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA SHOWS RAILWAYS ARE SAFE AND ARE GROWING SAFER

It has been more than five years since a passenger riding in a coach of the Central of Georgia Railway has been fatally injured, and during that period more than 29,000,000 passengers have been handled.

This record, splendid as it is, we do not claim is exceptional. It merely goes to show, as do other figures, that American railways as a whole are making an excellent record in the reduction of fatalities. The reason for this is to be found in the fact that railway men have been trained to give safety precedence over all other things. To them the most familiar rule in the standard book of railway rules reads: "In case of doubt or uncertainty, the safe course must be taken."

While railway traffic has greatly increased in recent years fatalities on the railroads have been decreasing. 1920 was a record year for traffic, yet the number of fatalities was the smallest in 22 years. 1921 in turn broke this record by a reduction of 14 per cent in the number of fatalities, according to the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The unit by which freight traffic is measured is the ton mile and the unit of passenger traffic is the passenger mile. Statistics show that there has been a steady increase in both for the past ten years, the increase in ton miles in 1920 over 1911 being 64 per cent and the increase in passenger miles being 42 per cent. Yet despite this vast increase in business which required many more employees to handle the greater tonnage and which subjected so many more passengers to danger, the total fatalities decreased 33 per cent in 1920 from 1911.

In 1920 the railroads of the United States carried 16,239,774 passengers to each passenger, fatally injured in a train accident. Trespassing and automobile grade-crossing accidents contribute heavily to the fatalities on the railroads. In 1920 trespassers fatally injured numbered 1273. Together these accounted for nearly one-half of all the fatalities on the railroads during the year.

Not many would believe that there are nearly as many persons accidentally drowned in a year as are fatally injured on the railways. The rate of deaths per hundred thousand population in the United States in 1920 from some of the commoner causes of fatalities was as follows: Falls, 12.3; Automobile, 10.8; Burns (not conflagrations), 7.9; Railroads, 6.6; Drownings, 5.9.

The Central of Georgia Railway has handled its share of increased business and at the same time has been able to show a substantial lessening of fatalities on its lines. In 1920, for instance, the ton miles showed an increase of 54 per cent over 1914; the passenger miles an increase of 32 per cent, while the fatalities showed a decrease of 26 per cent.

We believe that the public will agree with us that the handling of a heavier business with a smaller number of fatalities is a barometer of railway efficiency. The Central of Georgia Railway pledges renewed effort toward rendering the public a transportation service of safety and satisfaction and asks the co-operation of the public.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

W. A. WINBURN,
President, Central of Georgia Railway Company.

Big Still Is Found Near Center of City

Photo by Francis E. Price.

One of the biggest whisky stills ever captured in this section is shown in the picture. The men compose the raiding party which discovered the still Sunday in the basement of an apartment at 153 1/2 Whitehall street. From left to right they are Deputy Sheriffs White and Mayo, and Detective Lieutenant Ryan and Detectives Wiley and Cochran, of the city force. A. W. Little, aged 70, who was arrested and charged with operating the plant, was released from the tower Monday after furnishing bonds aggregating $1,500. He is said to have admitted that he owned the still. He claimed to have been manufacturing the liquor for medicinal purposes, it is said. The still had a capacity of 300 gallons. About 4,000 gallons of fermenting beer and 200 gallons of whisky were confiscated.

NEWMAN WINS HIGH SCHOOL LOVING CUP

West Point, Ga., May 1.—Newman High school, with 47 1-2 points, is winner of the Hoke Smith loving cup, which was competed for at the fourth district high school meet held here on last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Newman's score was 23 points in literary and 24 1-2 in athletics. West Point High school, who was second with 47 points, captured 19 points in literary events and 28 in athletics. The field meet was held Saturday afternoon, and the events follow: 100-Yard Dash—Haynes, West Point; Goodman, Newman; Durham, Chipley. Time 12 seconds. Shotput (12 lb.)—Pearce, Carrollton; Haynes, West Point; Dixon, Newman. Distance, 43 feet, 8 1/2 inches. 220-Yard Dash—Haynes, West Point; Murphy, Carrollton; A. M. Goodman, Newman. Time, 23 3/4 seconds. Broad Jump—Pearce, Carrollton; Logan, Newman; Lillian, West Point. Distance, 18 feet, 9 1/2 inches. 120-Yard Low Hurdles—Haynes, West Point; Mayfield, Newman; Edwards, LaGrange. Time, 16 seconds. High Jump—Pearce, Carrollton; Hadley, Chipley; Holder, Buena Vista. Height, 6 feet 1 1/2 inches. 440-Yard Dash—Lillian, West Point; Pulcher, Newman; Edwards, LaGrange. Time, 21 seconds. Pole Vault—Logan, Newman; Pulcher, West Point; Hadley, Chipley. Height, 9 feet, 11 inches. Relay Race—Newman, first; LaGrange, second; West Point, third. Time, 4 minutes, 43 1/2 seconds. Haynes, of West Point High, was leading point score with 18 points.

Alice, of Boston, Starts Trek To Old Home Town

Alice Lincoln has been spending the winter in the balmy clime of Florida and now that balm has changed to plain old fashioned summer heat, Alice Lincoln is starting for that dear old Boston Common, which she left to mingle with the oranges and the mocking birds and the magnolia blooms. Wherever Alice Lincoln, Monday afternoon strapped her puttees around her shapely limbs, gave her trousers a determined hitch and started hobnobbing it from Atlanta to the land of the baked bean.

She says that she is going to walk all the way, eschewing the aid of farm wagons, Ford cars and the choo-choo trains. She believes that she can do it without any trouble, for she walked all the way from Madison, Fla., to Atlanta and her tender toes also remained in excellent shape.

GOOD PROGRAM READY FOR LIONS' CLUB TODAY

The program committee of the Lions' club has arranged a very interesting program for its members for the regular weekly luncheon to be held Tuesday at the Piedmont hotel at 1 o'clock. The Southern Bell Telephone company has arranged to put on a "switchboard demonstration," showing to the Lions all the difficulties encountered by an operator, and how to overcome some of these troubles. "Dick" Smith will make a brief address on the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, which convenes in this city May 8-11. The honor guests of the day will be Miss Clara Reed, the leading lady of the Forsyth Players, accompanied by her husband, Mr. Boyd. Twelve attendance prizes will also be given out to the members present. All Lions are urged to be present, as in addition to the program, matters of civic importance are to be discussed.

Willingham Loses Plea And Trial Is Postponed

Former Financier Is in Macon and Preliminary Trial May Become Necessary.

Macon, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Richard F. Willingham, under indictment on fourteen counts, charging larceny after trust growing out of the failure in July, 1920, of enterprises he headed, is in the city, but will not go to trial tomorrow morning. An agreement has been reached between counsel for Mr. Willingham and Solicitor General Charles H. Garrett whereby all preliminary matters will be adjusted tomorrow morning or as soon thereafter during this week as possible, and Mr. Willingham will go on trial during this term of court.

Under the agreement, said to be final, it is contemplated to arraign him on one of the fourteen indictments during the first week in June. There has also been a rumor of a guilty plea being made by Mr. Willingham under certain conditions, and with certain stipulations, but counsel for Mr. Willingham entered a flat denial.

Sustains Demurrer.

A conference was held today in the chambers of the court at which Walter A. Harris and J. Elsworth Hall, for the defense, and Solicitor General Garrett and Judge Mathews were present. Judge Mathews announced his sustenance of the demurrer presented by the solicitor general to the plea in abatement of the defense, which involves only the questions of law in the plea.

However, there are questions of fact brought out in the plea and an effort is now being made to reach some agreement. It was thought probable tonight that an agreement will be reached so the questions can be submitted as questions of law for the decision of Judge Mathews, but if an

TO those who say Beaufont is too high-priced, we can only say we are happy that no person can say its quality is not high enough.

Beaufont Ginger Ale is sold wherever quality is the only inducement to the purchaser.

BEAUFONT
The Ginger Ale from Virginia.

gradley & Wertz—Wholesale Distributors
329 Simpson St. Phone—IVY 2324

Safe Milk for INFANTS and INVALIDS

ASK FOR Horlick's
the Original Avoid Imitations and Substitutes

For Infants, Invalids and Growing Children
The Original Food—Delicious For All Ages

With milk, melted grain extracts in Powder
No Cooking—No Boiling—No Digesting agreement cannot be reached it will since he shot his brother-in-law, it is necessary to have a preliminary trial before a jury on the questions of fact involved.

Returned in 1920.

The agreement reached provides, however, that all intervening matters must be completed this week, so the case can go to trial on its merits before the term expires. In the event a preliminary trial is necessary Mr. Willingham will be present.

The questions of fact concern the swearing of certain grand jurors; the ascertainment of the number of jurors actually serving at the time the fourteen indictments were returned, and a question involving the correct identity of a grand juror.

SLAYER OF HART WRITES HE PLANS TRIP TO ATLANTA

J. B. Satterfield, for whom a nation-wide search has been conducted Hart, to death, is contemplating returning to Atlanta, according to a letter he is said to have written to Mrs. Florence Bowen, of Seattle, Wash., and all officers in the country have been ordered to be on the lookout for him.

Chief of Detectives Lamar Pool received a wire Monday from the chief of police at Seattle in which it was stated that Mrs. Bowen, a relative of Hart, had received a letter from the fugitive postmarked Marietta, Texas. In the letter Hart said that he would return to Atlanta at an early date.

Satterfield shot Hart to death at the corner of Whitehall street and Trinity avenue on the night of December 28. He escaped and several days later he addressed a letter to a local newspaper in which he admitted the shooting but at the same time claimed it was justifiable. The shooting is said to have been the result of domestic troubles.

Lady Parker, wife of Sir Gilbert Parker, the novelist, played extra in Elinor Glyn's story, "The Great Moment," recently produced in photoplay form.

Main Floor—Ladies' Dept.

Greatest Value-Giving Sale of the Season

Some of Our Latest Models in High-Grade Slippers and Oxfords

WE offer 28 STYLES of Ladies' fine new Slippers and Oxfords—Choice Models purchased for our regular Spring and Summer trade, in values formerly selling up to $13.50 the pair, at $5.00

Below are some of the styles offered

Neat and trim Black Satin Slipper, as pictured, with Baby Louis heel, at $5.00

Dainty and very stylish Patent Leather 3-Strap with French heel, regular $10 value at $5.00

Beautiful white Reingcloth with low rubber heel as pictured. Regular $7.50 value; also same style with lower heel at $5.00

This Two-Strap Slipper is shown in Brown or Black Kid, both regular $10.00 values, at $5.00

A pretty Brown Kid 1-Strap with Baby Louis heel; a $7.50 value reduced to $5.00

Here is shown a Tan Calf Oxford with red stitching, a $12.50 value, to go at $5.00

A most stylish Black Suede with Patent Leather Straps, one of our regular $12.50 values, at $5.00

A very fine grade of Black Kid 1-Strap Slippers with Baby Louis heels, a $10.00 value, at $5.00

Something very pretty in a Tan Calf 2-Strap with Military heel; another $10.00 value at $5.00

Splendid value in a Black or Brown Kid low rubber heel Oxford at $5.00

Prompt Mail Order Service

Stewart

JAMES WATT DIES IN THOMASVILLE

Prominent South Georgia Financier Succumbs Monday After Illness of Several Months.

Thomasville, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—James Watt, one of Thomasville's most prominent citizens, died at his residence here today, after an illness of several months.

Mr. Watt was a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, where he was born April 22, 1844. He came to Thomasville in 1866. Later, he went to Bainbridge for a few years, but returned to Thomasville and in 1873 he organized with his brother, the late John T. Watt, the hardware firm of James Watt & Brother. He also established a chain of branch stores in Waycross, Cordele and other towns.

For many years, he was vice president of the Bank of Thomasville and director in a number of enterprises. He is survived by his wife, who was a daughter of the late Judge Augustin H. Hensell and six children, William A. Watt, Hansell Watt, John Watt, Dr. Charles Watt, and Mrs. E. K. McLean, of this city, and Mrs. McChesney Jeffries, of Norfolk, Va.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at the First Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Watt had long been a ruling elder, and will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Campbell Symonds, assisted by Rev. S. L. McCarty, of Augusta.

The pallbearers will be the four sons and two nephews, J. T. Watt, Waycross, and James Watt, Albany. There also will be a list of honorary pallbearers. All places of business will close during the services.

Indiana Loses.

Tokio, May 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Waseda university baseball nine shut out Indiana university today, 6 to 0.

B. Y. P. U. CONVENTION WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY

Carrollton, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—The second Central-Western Regional B. Y. P. U. convention will open here Wednesday and remain in session through Thursday night.

The following is the program:

Wednesday Afternoon.
 2:00 O'clock—Good singing, W. N. Nichols, leader.
 3:15—Welcome to Carrollton, Mayor A. E. Sneed, Dr. Gilbert Jones and Pastor W. L. Hambrick.
 3:30—Keynote address, Dr. Frank D. Wadley, Atlanta.
 4:45—Reports from delegates, from the floor.
 5:00—The Local B. Y. P. U., "H. Lewis Davis, state B. Y. P. U. secretary.
 5:30—Special music, First Baptist church, Carrollton.
 6:45—"The Place of the Young People in the Local Church," Rev. Herbert Massey, Jonesboro.

Wednesday Evening.

7:30 O'clock—Good singing, W. N. Nichols, leader.
 8:00—Devotional, Miss Minnie Marie Davis, Columbus.
 8:15—"What the B. Y. P. U. Has Done for You," W. N. Nichols, leader.
 8:45—Address, Rev. C. A. DeVane, Odeon.

Thursday Morning (Session).

9:00 O'clock—Silent prayer.
 9:15—The morning message, Dr. Leon M. Lathrop, Griffin.
 9:30—O'clock—Good singing, W. N. Nichols, leader.
 9:45—Devotional, Cecil Moncrief, Hogansville.

9:55—"Young Christians Need Special Training," Guy Jones, Locust Grove institute.
 10:10—"The Local B. Y. P. U.," H. L. Davis, leader.

10:45—Special music, Locust Grove institute.
 11:00—"Underlying All Our Work," Louis D. Newton, editor The Christian Index.

11:30—Address, Dr. Leon M. Lathrop.

Thursday Afternoon.

2:00 O'clock—Good singing, W. N. Nichols, leader.
 2:15—"With the Juniors and the Intermediates," (a) Devotional, William Turner, Droid Hills, Atlanta; (b) Sword drill, Juniors, Tabernacle, Atlanta; (c) Special music, Juniors, Tabernacle, Carrollton.
 2:45—"With the associational officers," (a) With the president; (b) The Harrison County association, Mr. C. W. Pope, president.

3:10—Special music, Locust Grove institute.
 3:15—"Christian Education," Dr. C. B. Williams, Mercer university.

3:45—Conference (everybody will go into one of these half-hour conferences). Juniors and intermediates leaders, pastors, presidents and group captains, committee and association leaders.

Thursday Evening.
 7:30 O'clock—Good singing, W. N. Nichols, leader.

7:45—Devotional, Miss Laine Johnson, Kirkwood.

7:55—"The Past and Future of My Union," Lorena Reeves, Barnesville.

8:05—"Youth and the Christian Life," Mr. Stephen Schaefer, West Point.

8:20—Special music, Miss Vivian Reed, Carrollton.

8:25—Report of committees.

8:55—"Baptist Young People Challenged," Dr. C. B. Williams, Mercer university.

ELKS' SUMMER ROOM OPENED WITH DANCE

The Summer Room of the Atlanta Elks lodge was opened last night with more than fifty couples in attendance.

The program of the evening was in charge of John S. McClelland, past exalted ruler of the lodge, and chairman of the house committee. The opening was in the nature of a dinner-dance and the dinner party was greatly augmented by after-theatre parties.

The regular dances of the lodge, which have been held throughout the winter season will be discontinued during the summer months in lieu of the new arrangement. The ball room has been converted into a cafe where Elks and their families and friends may come to enjoy instrumental and vocal selections while eating, as well as dance, according to Mr. McClelland.

VERDICT SAYS SON KILLED HIS FATHER

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 1.—The coroner's jury investigating the killing of Dr. Gus Shipley, member of the state board of medical examiners, at Athens Sunday night, today returned a verdict that the doctor came to his death at the hands of his son, Jack Shipley.

Miss Mattie Shipley, daughter of the doctor, testified that her father came home drunk and when he attacked his wife, who is an invalid, choking and otherwise abusing her, that the son shot the father. Young Shipley will be given a preliminary hearing tomorrow.

PURE ENGLISH WANTED AT BIG SCHOOLS

The latest Oxford movement is an association of learned professors to encourage the campaign for the speaking and writing of pure English started by the poet laureate, Robert Bridges. It is supported by Thomas Hardy, the novelist, and Sir Walter Raleigh, professor of English literature at Oxford university, and other prominent men.

The exact objects of the society have not yet been announced, but it is understood that there will be lectures and publications in favor of the purity of the written and spoken language and against the incorporation of foreign words. An effort will be made to make polite speech consist of terse, vigorous English words instead of elaborate derived synonyms and inaccurate pronunciation as "maycher" for "nature," which the poet laureate cited as a typical example of the manner in which the speech of educated English persons is being deplorably changed.

We are assisting this movement by means of the New Universities Dictionary, which we are now offering to our readers almost as a gift. It contains 40,000 words with their pronunciation and definition.

Its distribution is ending this week, because no more books can be obtained. Your chance of getting a copy will soon be gone. Read and clip the coupon and secure one of the remaining copies of this fine book.

(Adv.)

Veterans' Bureau Has Sole Charge of War Disabled

BY J. A. HOLLOMON.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, May 1.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—An executive order just signed by President Harding transfers to the United States veterans' bureau, now in operation, one purveying depot and nine hospitals under construction, which, prior to that date, were under the supervision of the United States public health service and operated for disabled soldiers. This transfer was effected under the authority obtained in section 9 of the Sweet bill.

All facilities, property and equipment in these hospitals were transferred to the veterans' bureau. The commissioned personnel of the United States public health service on duty in these hospitals will be detailed by the surgeon general of the public health service to the United States veterans' bureau. The personnel on duty in the public health service who are paid out of the veterans' bureau fund will be transferred and given appointments in the United States veterans' bureau.

The transfer of these hospitals to the United States veterans' bureau places all the work and responsibility for caring for disabled veterans under the direction of Colonel Charles R. Forbes, director of the United States veterans' bureau.

"The transfer of these hospitals to the United States veterans' bureau places the hospitalization of the disabled veterans under one organization, which will facilitate their hospitalization and materially lessen the administrative difficulties of this bureau," Colonel Forbes stated today. "The responsibility for the care and treatment of disabled ex-service men is now in the hands of the United States veterans' bureau, and that responsibility will be squarely faced. This transfer is a natural development under the authority granted under section 9 of the act to have established the veterans' bureau, approved August 9, 1921."

The following is a list of hospitals in the south thus transferred:

Number 13, Southern infirmary annex, Mobile, Ala.; No. 14, annex to New Orleans marine hospital, Algiers, La.; No. 25, Houston, Tex.; No. 26, Greenville, S. C.; No. 27, Alexandria, La.; No. 28, Norfolk, Va. (Sewall's Point); No. 31, Corpus Christi, Tex.; No. 33, Jacksonville, Ga.; No. 45, Baltimore, N. C.; No. 48, Atlanta, Ga.; No. 58, New Orleans, La.; No. 61, Florida street; No. 60, Oteen, N. C.; No. 62, Augusta, Ga.; No. 63, Lake City, Fla.; No. 74, Gulfport, Miss.; No. —, hospital at Tuskegee, Ala.

Fund for Georgia Roads Provided By House Monday

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, May 1.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—Under the federal road bill, which passed the house today Georgia will have available a fund of $1,731,000 for the fiscal year 1923 and $1,908,000 for the year 1924 for the construction of highways in the state. The use of the funds, as provided in the bill, is dependent upon the state spending an equal sum in highway construction in the existing federal aid basis of 50-50.

For the present year, a sum of $75,000,000 is provided for federal aid in the building of rural post roads of this amount, the state of Georgia is entitled to nearly two million dollars. The bill just passed, however, which calls for a two-year program, will cause a slight reduction in the sum which the state may obtain from the government. This sum, as computed by officials of the road commission, is $200,400 less than the amount now available but will be increased to the present amount for the fiscal year 1924.

Judge Larsen, of Georgia, and other democratic members of the house road committee fought for a larger appropriation, on the grounds that it would interfere with the various state programs for the federal government to reduce the sum permitted. Many of the states, it was pointed out, have already passed bond issues on a basis of increased government assistance and will have to abandon plans.

DECISION POSTPONED IN RED RIVER ISSUE.

Washington, May 1.—The supreme court today declined to decide at this time what constitutes the south bank of the Red river—an issue in the controversy between Texas and Oklahoma involving rich oil lands—but in an opinion delivered by Justice Van Devanter declared the claim of Oklahoma to the bed of the river, was not well founded.

The court in a decision a year ago held that the south bank of the river constituted the boundary between the two states but in today's opinion did not say whether the river bluffs or the "out bank" was the boundary.

The court today held that the riparian rights of the claimants holding as Indian allottees extended only to the middle of the river and not to the south bank, but that the south half of the river belonged to the United States. This conclusion as to federal ownership, Justice Van Devanter said, was binding upon all claimants.

Another finding of the court announced today is that the river along the stretch in controversy is not navigable, thereby restraining the contention of the federal government and rejecting the claim of Oklahoma to the bed of the river. Justice Van Devanter said the court rejected the claim of those interveners which were based on Oklahoma's claim to the bed of the river.

METHODISTS LEAVE FOR BIG CONFERENCE

Thirty delegates have been sent from Georgia to the quadrennial session of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which will be held at Hot Springs, Ark., beginning Wednesday. A number of the Atlanta and Georgia delegates left here in a body at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, to attend the conference, which will last three or four weeks.

Three Georgians are said to be probable candidates for election in this conference as bishops. They are Dr. F. N. Parker, dean of the Emory university School of Theology, who declined the bishopric when elected at the last conference; Dr. James E. Dickey, former pastor of the First church in Atlanta, now at First Methodist church, Griffin, Ga.; and Dr. T. D. Ellis, pastor of Mulberry Street Methodist church, Macon.

Many important issues involving substantial policy changes, administration and church government will be included in the business of the present session. Among the questions which will be brought up are:

Settlement of the question as to uniting with the Northern Methodist church;

Removal of the time limit on pastoral appointments;

Proposals to ordain women to preach in the Methodist church;

Restriction of power for Methodist bishops;

Proposal to have presiding elders elected at annual conference, rather than be appointed by bishops;

Proposed elimination of the word "south" from the name;

Requiring bishops to live within their episcopal districts;

Establishing a brotherhood insurance plan for church property;

Changing the creed so as to substitute synonymous words for the expression "The Holy Catholic Church";

Abolition of the general rules;

Consolidation of the Nashville Christian Advocate, the Methodist Quarterly Review, the Epworth Era, and the Missionary Voice into one publication;

Providing an open cabinet for all conferences without nomination by the pastor;

Adequate provision for superannuated preachers;

Adoption of a constitution.

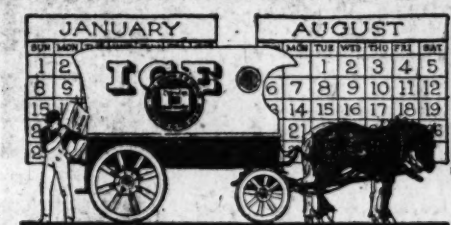

SIX MAKE ESCAPES FROM COURTHOUSE

Memphis, Tenn., May 1.—Six prisoners, two white and four negroes, all either under indictment or sentenced to terms in the penitentiary, escaped from the cage in the basement of the court house here late today by tunnelling through a ten-inch wall. The men had been in court and were awaiting removal to the county jail. None had been recaptured tonight.

Most of the bucket shops that failed had phantom officers and a ouija board of directors.—Life.

FIVE NEGROES KILLED IN MYSTERIOUS BLAS.

Kansas City, May 1.—Five negroes were killed and a number of others injured early today in an explosion in a rooming house. The cause of the explosion has not yet been determined. The building was wrecked.

People who live well take ice the year 'round

BY LIVING well we mean getting the full flavor and the full nutriment out of food which we eat. That need not mean expensive materials; but it does mean fresh food well cooked. It must be kept fresh. Just as soon as food becomes stale—that is, infected by bacteria—it loses that appetizing flavor which makes eating a pleasure and that wholesome quality which nourishes.

The only safe way to keep food from spoiling is by keeping it in an even, dry cold. That means a well-iced refrigerator the year 'round. At no season of the year can you keep milk, meat and butter in prime condition in a cellar, pantry or out of doors.

Consumers Ice Company
 Ponce de Leon Ice Mfg. Co.
 Southern Ice and Fuel Company
 Crystal Ice Company
 Polar Ice Company

The combined daily ice-making capacity of the above plants is One Million Pounds.

MEMBER NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF ICE INDUSTRIES
 Pledged to Purity, Full Weight, Good Service

This emblem your protection

Established 30 Years

Come To
Dr. Griffin

With Your Tooth Troubles

You Will Find His Work and Prices RIGHT!

Set of $10 Bridge work $5 22k Gold $4
 Teeth Per Tooth Crowns
 All Other Prices Proportionately Low.

Dr. E. G. Griffin's
 Gate City Dental Rooms
 63½ Whitehall St.—Corner Hunter
 Open Daily 8 to 6 Lady Attendant Phone M. 1708

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

Five-passenger, 50-horsepower
 118-inch wheelbase
 Cord Tires Standard Equipment
 $1475
 F. O. B. Factory

SPECIAL-SIX

The intrinsic value and enduring quality of the Special-Six have won for it the hearty endorsement of thousands of owners. It will win you, too, when you consider:

- its comfort—seat cushions of soft, genuine leather, nine inches deep; long semi-elliptic springs, front and rear. Seats five without crowding.
- its power—L-head motor, 3½ x 5, which develops 50 horsepower. Remarkable for its flexibility.
- its economy—low maintenance cost and infrequent repair shop attention.
- its beauty—body of harmonious lines built by Studebaker experts, with tailored top, which holds large plate glass rear window.
- its equipment—jeweled eight-day clock; one-piece, rainproof windshield with windshield wiper; tonneau light with extension cord; transmission lock which reduces rate of theft insurance to owner 15 to 20 per cent; one key locks tool compartment in left front door, ignition switch and transmission lock.
- its background—Studebaker's prestige and seventy years' experience in building quality vehicles assures complete satisfaction.

Touring, $1475; 3-Passenger Roadster, $1435; 4-Passenger Roadster, $1475; Coupe, $2150; Sedan, $2350. All prices f. o. b. factory.

HILL-YARBROUGH MOTOR CO.
 DISTRIBUTORS
 247 Peachtree St. Ivy 151

"Built Like a Skyscraper"

Jump into the open drawer. Jump hard! You can't harm it. The drawer will still "coast" in or out at a touch afterward.

SHAW-WALKER
STEEL
LETTER FILES

BUILT like a skyscraper—with skyscraper uprights, cross-pieces, girders, etc., of channel steel.

Even go skyscrapers one better, because electricwelded into one solid piece. No nuts—no bolts—no rivets—no rods—no screws.

Drawers silent and speedy. Will run 100 years without repair or attention.

Guaranteed the best file you ever used—or your money back.

HORNE DESK & FIXTURE CO.
 W. A. HORNE NEWTON C. WING
 President Sec'y and Treas.

Desks, Chairs and Commercial Furniture, Card and Filing Systems, Filing Devices in Wood and Steel, Steel Safes, Lockers and Sanitation Office Partitions.
 69 NORTH PRYOR STREET ATLANTA

REMEMBER
Jno. L. Moore & Sons
 Opticians
 New Location
 77 Peachtree St.
 3 Doors North of Auburn "Gets-It" Relieves Corns in 30 Seconds

Ask Your Friends—They Know
Thousands of people have only themselves to blame for corn agony, blood poison, etc. Trimming and "treating," cutting and paring merely makes a bad matter worse. Millions of others are wiser. They know how easily and quickly "Gets-It" shrivels and peels corns and calluses off in one piece. Get your money back if it fails. Wear new shoes with comfort. Get a bottle today. B. Lawrence & Co., Mfr., Chicago. Costs but a trifle—everywhere. (adv.)

No smarting no burning—only blessed relief when you use RESINOL

Soothing and Healing
Some ointments irritate sensitive skin while healing it. Resinol produces only cool comfort while clearing away skin trouble.

Make the treatment complete. Use Resinol Soap. At all druggists.

Caribbean sea outings

BREAK away from the old vacation habit this summer, and make a cruise with the Great White Fleet. Novel, interesting—every hour a new delight. Nothing like a sea voyage to tone you up mentally and physically.

Cuba, Jamaica, Panama, Costa Rica, Colombia, Guatemala. Quaint cities, picturesque seaports, glamor of old adventure.

16-day Cruise from New Orleans $240 up.
New Orleans-Havana and return $75 up.
22-day Cruise from New York $315 up.

Free illustrated folder, "Sea Outings" folder and cabin plans. Write today.

ADDRESS LOCAL TICKET or TOURIST AGENTS, or United Fruit Company, 321 St. Charles St., New Orleans, La.

GREAT WHITE FLEET

FIVE-CENT FARE CONTRACT UPHOLD

Contracts of the city of College Park and the town of Decatur with the Georgia Railway and Power company requiring the maintenance of 5-cent street car fares to those points are valid, according to a decision rendered by the supreme court Monday. In these cases, this is the second time in eight months that the supreme court has upheld the validity of the contracts. When the first decision was rendered in the case last fall, the street railway company redemned all rebate checks outstanding which were given to the passengers to cover the 2-cent difference in fare pending a final decision by the supreme court.

When the state railroad commission allowed the street railway company to charge 6 cents fare on its line in Atlanta, the city of College Park and the town of Decatur objected to the payment of 6 cents on those lines on the ground that they possessed contracts which provided for a perpetual 5-cent fare. Later the fare in Atlanta was raised to 7 cents by the commission while the litigation of Decatur and College Park was pending.

In Fulton superior court an injunction restraining the company from charging 7 cents was issued by Judge John B. Hutcheson, but a supersedeas was granted allowing the company to charge the increased fare provided rebate checks for 2 cents were given to each passenger to College Park. In similar proceedings brought in the DeKalb superior court before Judge John B. Hutcheson, a temporary injunction restraining the company from charging 7 cents fare was granted. Judge Hutcheson, however, declined to grant a supersedeas permitting the company to charge 7 cents pending a decision of the supreme court.

Both interlocutory injunctions were appealed to the supreme court by the street railway company. The supreme court affirmed the decisions of the lower court and under the decision the company had the right to accept the decision or to demand a trial by jury. In order to appeal the case to their United States supreme court, if desired, it was necessary that company obtain a verdict from a jury and also a final decision in the supreme court, and it was for this purpose that the case was carried to the supreme court the second time.

Because four members of the supreme court were disqualified from serving in the case because of relationship to stockholders in the company, Governor Thomas W. Hardwick appointed Justices Moses Wright, of R. C. Bell, Cairo, and W. W. Shepard, of Clayton, to sit in the case with Presiding Justice Beck and Judge Price Gilbert.

RED CROSS WILL HELP IN SENDING FOOD TO RUSSIA

Cooperating with the American Relief administration for sending food to Russia, the Atlanta chapter, American Red Cross, is prepared to assist relatives in filling out blanks and forwarding food orders to their families in Russia.

Information received by the Red Cross from the Russian Food Relief administration, 42 Broadway, New York city, states that the list of warehouses established by the American Relief administration is now as follows: Petrograd, Moscow, Kazan, Ufa, Simbirsk, Orenburg, Saratov, Tzaritsin, Minsk, Samara, Odessa, Kiev, Ekaterinopol, Mogilev, Vitebsk and Gomel.

The administration will endeavor to deliver to the beneficiary designated an assortment of food from the following or other commodities: beans, cocoa, flour, honey, cooking fats, canned milk, rice, sugar and tea. The amount of each donor's food remittance may be for $10, $20, $30, $40, $50, or any other multiple of $10.

Already a number of applications have been brought to the local Red Cross chapter which will continue to assist in the clerical and forwarding money orders to relatives on this side attempting to send food to relatives in the famine districts of Russia.

LITTLE THEATER GUILD OF ATLANTA MEETS WEDNESDAY

The Little Theater Guild of Atlanta will hold its regular meeting in Steinway hall Wednesday evening, at 8:15. Charles Chalmers, president, announces many new members will be introduced.

Owing to the fact that the membership has grown very rapidly the governing board of the Guild has found it necessary to institute an admission fee of fifty cents to be paid at the door by non-members. However, everybody will be admitted free Wednesday evening.

The program includes the card scene from "Carmen," sung by Mrs. James Buchanan as "Trasquito," Miss Mabel Whitney as "Carmen" and Miss Mary Jerome as "Mercedes."

Georgia Hebrews Want Palestine As Jew Homeland

Many Communications Supporting Lodge Resolution Received in Washington.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Constitution Bureau,
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, May 1.—(By Constitution Bureau.)—Members of the Georgia Hebrew association have taken an active interest in the Lodge resolution endorsing the declaration of Sir Arthur Balfour for the return of Palestine as a homeland for the Jews. The resolution was introduced by Senator Lodge, the republican leader, and is awaiting consideration in the upper chamber; a concurrent measure has also been introduced to the house by Representative Fish, republican, of New York.

Both Senator Harris and Senator Watson, as well as a number of the state delegation, including Representative W. D. Uphaw, of Atlanta, have received numerous communications from various Hebrew organizations soliciting their support of the resolution.

The resolution favors the establishment in Palestine of the national home for Jewish people, in accordance with provisions contained in the declaration of the British government of November 2, 1917, known as the Balfour declaration, "it being clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine, or the rights and political status enjoyed by Jews in any other country." The resolution further asserts that holy places and religious buildings and sites in Palestine shall be adequately protected.

Harris to Support.
In replying to communications from A. J. Garfunkel, president of the Exchange bank of Savannah, and Max Isaac, representing a large number of citizens of that city, Senator Harris expressed his purpose to vote for the resolution when it is presented to the upper branch.

Representative Uphaw is in receipt of telegrams from Rabbi T. Gefen in behalf of the combined membership of the congregation of Sha'alit Israel, of Atlanta, soliciting support of the measure. Congressman Uphaw also received communications from the United Hebrew Benevolent association and Lodge No. 403, I. O. E. A., both of Atlanta, stating the full membership of those organizations were in favor of the action.

In commenting on the Lodge resolution, Max Morris, secretary of the Hebrew Benevolent association, stated that the Balfour declaration "expresses the longing and hope of the Jewish people for two thousand years."

No Opposition Seen.
Senator Watson and Representative Uphaw could not be reached today, but they have expressed no opposition to the question.

No objection has developed in the senate to date, it being explained that there is nothing in the bill which could be construed as bringing the United States in any kind of foreign entanglement, as concurrence in the Balfour declaration is merely expressed.

Whether or not there will be an emigration of Jews to the Holy Land when final restitution of territory is made, has not been indicated. It is thought that members of the race in America are merely expressing their favor of Palestine being the national homeland of the Jews where a system of government of their own may be established.

GLEE CLUB PREPARES FOR LAST APPEARANCE

The final performance of the Tech Glee club will be held Saturday night at the Atlanta theater. This is always a gala occasion for Tech, as all the students get together for a big college night.

The club has just returned from a most successful trip through Georgia. In every town, it enjoyed the thrill of playing before a packed house, and in Savannah, only standing room was available for the performance after 6 o'clock. The itinerary included Barnesville, Macon, Savannah, Valdosta and Americus. People who heard the club in these towns were very enthusiastic over the performance, and requests were made for an appearance next year.

The club this year offers a program varied enough to appeal to everybody. There will be classical singing for those who still have a good hang-over, jazz for those who would have it, wit for the clever and good harmony for the musical.

PAINT DEMONSTRATION STAGED IN ATLANTA

Devoe & Reynolds company, manufacturers of paints and varnishes for 108 years, is staging a demonstration of its products at the Quality Paint store, 77 South Broad street, which is especially designed to show proper methods of application of their products in the renovating and finishing of household articles of furniture, and as it is used in interior decorating.

Miss Amelia Stanley, of New York, is in charge of the demonstration, and is being assisted by H. L. Myers, local salesman for the Devoe people. An interesting feature of Miss Stanley's artistic work is in the creating of imitation grained woodwork which she demonstrates for home beautifiers in a manner and with a method that makes it easily handled by anyone who can hold a brush.

The demonstration will continue through Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

BARKER TO ADDRESS SECRETARIES' MEET

R. S. Barker, secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, is in Nashville to attend the annual meeting of the Southern Commercial Secretaries' association, which opened Monday to continue through Thursday. Mr. Barker will address the gathering.

Sunday the chamber of commerce here entertained a number of the delegates passing through to this convention. They were taken on an automobile sight-seeing tour to Stone Mountain, returning through the residential section of the city, where the visitors were shown many of Atlanta's most beautiful homes.

A luncheon at the Daffodil and dinner at the Piedmont hotel completed the entertainment of the delegates. Secretary Barker is expected to return to the city Thursday.

GRIFFIN TRADE BOARD BOOSTS GOOD ROADS

The Georgia Good Roads Association is in receipt of the following letter from the Griffin and Spalding County Board of Trade, heartily endorsing the proposed good roads bond issue.

"The movement to raise $75,000,000 and every detail of the project for good roads—erroneously called 'bond issue'—in Georgia certainly has the unanimous approval of the Griffin and Spalding County Board of Trade, and we all hope and believe that the people of Georgia, women and men, will so record themselves when the issue comes to a vote.

Another strong endorsement received at headquarters of the good roads association came from G. H. Harman, secretary of the Southern Sash, Door and Millwork manufacturers association, who said:

"I favor anything having tendency to improve the state and to keep it abreast or forward of the other states. Good roads in every county of the state are as essential to prosperity as anything we can think of. We heartily endorse the bond issue of $75,000,000 for Georgia. Alabama our sister state, has already voted her bond issue and Georgia must do the same.

A good roads meeting at Douglas Monday, before which Judge G. R. Howard spoke on the issue, heartily endorsed the bonds for completing the state highway system of good roads.

RECORD BUSINESS DONE BY HOTELS IN OPERA WEEK

Atlanta hostesses enjoyed the largest patronage during the last three days of grand opera week, just over, of any in their history, according to reports made Monday by managers.

Many of the opera visitors from points in the southern and middle Atlantic states, and a number from Cuba and others of the West Indies, are taking advantage of their visit to Atlanta by remaining over in the city for an additional few days.

"Our business during opera week was the best we have ever had," said Carling J. Dinkler, manager of the Hotel Ansley. "We had a full house the entire week and were forced to reject hundreds of applications for rooms. Our cuisine business was all that we could handle."

The same reports were forthcoming from W. C. Rorer, manager of the Piedmont; J. N. Couch, manager of the Georgian Terrace; Cecil Cannon, manager of the Cecil; H. C. Callaway, manager of the Kimball House and A. B. Moody, manager of the Wincoff. All of the smaller hotels also enjoyed their proportion of the opera week trade, it was stated.

NEW ATLANTA CHARTER WILL BE CONSIDERED

"Does Atlanta Need a New Charter?" This question will be discussed by three Rotarians at the meeting of the Atlanta Rotary club, to be held at noon today at the Capital City Club. The speakers will bring firsthand information on the situation in Atlanta today, which will be closely followed by members of the club.

Dr. David Marx will speak "From the Citizen's Standpoint," Bolling Jones will discuss the subject "From the Business Standpoint," and Harry Goodhart, "From the Political Standpoint."

Phone Company Reports Revenue And Its Expenses

After hearing testimony of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company officials covering expenses and revenues derived from toll lines in Georgia, which constituted the second phase of the telephone rate revision case the state railroad commission Monday announced that a date will be set later for a submission of testimony of subscribers, municipalities and others who have any evidence to show that telephone rates in Georgia should be revised.

Recently the commission issued a rule nisi against the telephone company requiring the company to appear and show cause why rates should not be revised. When the case was first heard last month a mass of testimony covering exchange revenues and expenses was submitted by the company. When that evidence was submitted the commission asked the company to prepare evidence covering the expenses and revenues of toll lines. This evidence was presented.

Chairman C. M. Candler, of the railroad commission, stated Monday that the commission will hold an executive session this week to set a date for the submission of evidence by persons or municipalities who are in favor of reductions in telephone rates.

At the hearing Monday J. J. McTiernan, chief accountant of the telephone company and J. E. Jagoe, assistant to the vice-president, were principal witnesses. They submitted masses of testimony which was mainly statistical. It was shown in these figures that the telephone company received a net income in Georgia in 1921 of 5.1 per cent on the company's investment. Detailed statements were submitted showing wage scales, commercial expenses, maintenance expenses, depreciation and other charges.

MORE MARSHALS WILL BE NEEDED, AKERMAN SAYS

Appointment of five additional deputy marshals to handle the work of this district will be required if an additional federal judgeship is established, according to Marshal Walter Akerman, who Monday addressed a letter to senator Knute Nelson, of the senate judiciary committee, relative to advisable changes in the event a new judge is appointed. It will require two years' time to clear up the congested court dockets of this district when an additional judge is appointed, according to Mr. Akerman.

HEARING ON TANLAC CASE IS POSTPONED

Because of the illness of Judge W. D. Ellis the hearing of the litigation being waged for the control of 35,000 shares of stock in the International Proprietaries company, the Tanlac case, was postponed Monday. The case includes an injunction suit brought by S. C. Satterthwait, Jr., against S. A. Lynch, theatrical manager, to restrain Lynch from transferring control of this stock from Satterthwait to himself. The hearing began last week and was to have been taken up again Monday. It is probable that the case will be heard Tuesday.

WHITEHALL STREET BRANCH BANK OPENS

Marking an important step in the expansion of Atlanta's banking facilities, the new Whitehall street branch of the Citizens and Southern bank, at the southeast corner of Whitehall and Mitchell streets, was opened Monday, and was given an enthusiastic reception and patronage by the business houses of that vicinity.

Officials of the bank stated Monday afternoon, after the doors of the bank had closed, that the deposits for the first day were more than double the amount they had anticipated receiving. Although a great many of the depositors were old customers who merely transferred their accounts to the branch, a large number of new customers were secured.

Bank officials were being congratulated on the enterprise of the institution in establishing a branch on Whitehall street with every financial facility afforded by the main bank. Henry S. Cohen is branch manager. He was visited on opening day by W. W. Banks, executive manager of the Citizens and Southern bank; Frank Hawkins, chairman of the board of directors; Cashier W. V. Crowley and other high officials.

ASKS RIGID LAWS TO BAR VAGRANCY AND PISTOL TOTTING

Condemnation of vagrancy in all forms and of pistol toting were features of Judge John D. Humphries' charge to the new grand jury delivered Monday in the Fulton superior court. The judge called for the passage of more rigid laws covering both vagrancy and the possession of dangerous fire arms.

In his charge to the grand jury, Judge Humphries took occasion to commend Will H. Hays for the suppression of films made by "a well-known film comedian" whom his hearers took to be "Fatty" Arbuckle.

Judge Humphries also touched on the stealing of automobiles and declared that a bill requesting a person to present a bill of sale in selling a used automobile would have a beneficial effect.

The crest of the crime wave in Fulton county has been passed, in the opinion of Judge Humphries, but he said the people are not far enough past the crest to do any bragging.

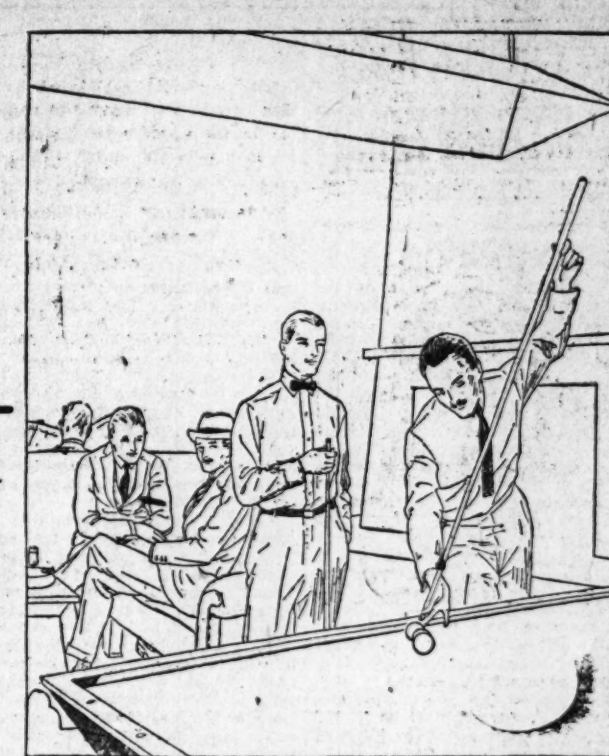

MANY TITLE BONDS ARE FILED MONDAY

Bonds for title recorded at the Fulton county courthouse were reported by the Atlanta Title and Trust company Monday in a list as follows:

$5,500—Mrs. Naomie J. Pope to Cherry Transfer and Storage company, Inc., No. 196 Mills street, 50x100.
$1,600—Mrs. Gusie G. Taylor to J. F. Smith, lot north line land lot in Lakewood avenue, 77 feet east of northwest corner landlot 81 at intersection Stewart avenue and Lakewood avenue, 50x237.

$1,300—W. J. Chapman to W. J. Clayton, lot north side Floyd street on east side 10-foot alley, 139 feet from Epworth street, 50x190; September 11, 1919; transferred to J. A. Robinson.

$2,700—E. D. Williams to Mrs. Mary C. Bafter, lot east side Roswell road, 150 feet north of landlot line, between landlots 97 and 98, seventeenth district, 110x154.
$840—J. N. Day to George F. Morrell, lot east side Hill street, 150 feet north of Pine street, 50x150.

MANHATTAN

Shirts for Sport or Business—with collar attached or without—white or colors. Madras with or without the silk stripes. Silk and Linen Mixt. All Silk. Genuine English Broadcloth.

Collar Attached	No Collar
$3.00 to $5.00	$3.25 to $7.00
SILKS
$8.50	and $12.00

Special White Oxfords

Made for Us under $1.50 a Special Label—
Collar attached

PARKS-CHAMBERS-HARDWICK CO.

If You Live on the South Side You Will Be Interested in the Whitehall Street Office of the Citizens and Southern Bank

YESTERDAY morning the Whitehall Street Office of the Citizens and Southern Bank opened for business. The welcome given this new bank by the business men and individuals of the south side was most cordial, and clearly indicates the approval and co-operation of the people the bank is intended to serve.

We sincerely appreciate this hearty welcome, and will show our appreciation by giving a real banking service at Whitehall and Mitchell.

No pains or expense have been spared in equipping this new bank. Every convenience known to modern banking has been installed. The active management has been placed in the hands of some of our most competent people, and we are very sure that the service you will receive will be of the same high standard that has always been characteristic of the Citizens and Southern Bank.

If you live on the south side you will find the Whitehall Street Office at the Citizens and Southern Bank most convenient for your banking needs.

CITIZENS and SOUTHERN BANK

H. S. COHEN, Manager Whitehall Street Office
In Atlanta at Marietta and Forsyth and Whitehall and Mitchell

New Models in Hamilton Watches

Fifteen new models of Hamilton Watches have just been received.

They are the men's popular 42 size open face models. They have the new fancy dials, some with raised gold figures.

Most of them have fancy carved centers. They come in both White and Green Gold.

Prices range from $43.00 to $205.00.

They make ideal graduation gifts.

We are headquarters for Hamilton watches and bracelet watches.

Call and see the line or write for twenty-seventh annual watch and jewelry catalogue.

Maier & Berkele, Inc.,

Gold and Silversmiths
31 Whitehall Street
Established 1887

1921 PACKER ACT UPHELD BY COURT

Washington, May 1.—The packer and stock yard regulation act of 1921, which was put through congress largely through the efforts of the agricultural bloc, was held constitutional today by the supreme court.

Declaring the stock yards "are not a place of rest or final destination, but a place through which the live stock business is conducted in interstate commerce," the court described the yards as interstate in character.

Congress in the act "treats the various stock yards of the country as great national public utilities to promote the flow of commerce."

Chief Justice Taft stated in delivering the opinion of the court, "and assumed that they conduct a business affected by a public use of a national character and subject to national regulations. That it is a business within the power of regulation by legislative action needs no discussion."

Suits Instituted.
The law was challenged by certain commission merchants and dealers in the Chicago stock yards, who brought separate suits in an effort to restrain the secretary of agriculture from enforcing the law. The suits raised, aside from the constitutional question, was whether the business done in the stock yards between the receipt of the live stock and its shipment is a part of interstate commerce. The court answered that question and was disposed of in the Swift case, saying "the judgment in that case gives a clear, comprehensive exposition which leaves to this case little but the obvious application of the principles there declared." The court added that these principles "have become fixed rules of this court in the construction and application of the commerce clause of the constitution."

Chief Justice Taft said it was manifest that congress framed the packer and stock yard act in keeping with the Swift decision and that "what congress had in mind primarily was to prevent such conspiracies by supervision of the agencies which would be likely to be employed in such a matter unless the authority of congress to punish conspiracies for restraint of trade in the stock yards under the Sherman anti-trust law, be continued, and certainly it may provide regulations to prevent their formation."

Reviews Proceedings.
The opinion reviewed at length the frequent court proceedings involving the enforcement of the act against the yards against the packers and announced that "whatever amounts to more or less constant practice and threats to obstruct or unlawfully interfere with the free flow of interstate commerce is within the regulatory power of congress, under the commerce clause."

It is primarily for congress to consider and decide the fact of the danger and meet it," he continued. "This court will certainly not substitute its judgment for that of congress in such a matter unless the relation of the subject to interstate commerce and its effect upon it are clearly non-existent."

Explaining that the commission merchants at the stock yards sell on commission or brokerage live stock consigned to them, Chief Justice Taft dismissed as without foundation their contention that they are not engaged in interstate commerce. He stated that the principle announced by the court in the transportation act case in which federal jurisdiction was upheld over state commerce, where it is so carried on as to work undue, unreasonable advantage or preference in favor of persons or localities in interstate commerce as against those in interstate commerce, or an undue, unjust or unreasonable discrimination against interstate commerce itself, indicated the extent to which congress could regulate interstate commerce.

Under the act, interstate transactions that affect interstate commerce under its protection.

Has Found Evil.
"Congress has found as an evil to be apprehended and to be prevented the act here in question in the use and control of stock yards and the commission men to promote a packers monopoly of interstate commerce," said the chief justice.

The act finds and imparts this injurious direct effect of such agencies upon interstate commerce just as the intent of the conspiracy charged in the indictment in the Swift case tied together the parts of the scheme there attacked and imported their direct effect upon interstate commerce.

Justice Day did not participate in the case and Justice McReynolds dissented.

FOUR CAMPS NAMED PERMANENT POSTS

Washington, May 1.—Under a general order made public today at the war department, Camp Bragg, North Carolina; Camp Normandy, Texas; Bolling Field, Washington, D. C.; and Edgewood Arsenal, Maryland, are designated as permanent army posts. The effect of the order is to remove these posts from the list of camps and other stations considered for possible abandonment.

Under the war department policy the names of the two camps will be changed to Fort Bragg and Fort Normandy. Fort Bragg is the station selected for the third artillery brigade and is one of the great artillery training centers of the army. It was recommended for this use by a board of officers because of the extensive terrain it included, permitting large maneuvers and long tests of artillery.

Ford Has Secret To Make Cheaper Fertilizer, Claim

Washington, May 1.—A secret process for making cheaper fertilizers has been discovered and is intended for commercial use at the government's nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, W. B. Mayo, chief engineer for Henry Ford, told the senate agriculture committee when it began examination today of the Ford modified proposal for purchase and lease of the Muscle Shoals properties.

Mr. Mayo declined, when questioned regarding the discovery to give the committee any detailed information, but committee members were left to understand that if the Ford offer for Muscle Shoals were accepted by congress the new process would be put into operation there.

Head of Experiments.
Government chemists attending the committee hearing, later said they had heard unofficially of experiments being made by chemists in Mr. Ford's employment, but none had any information as to discovery of a new process.

Should all efforts fail to make a cheaper commercial fertilizer for the farmers, Mr. Mayo said, it would be possible that Mr. Ford would come to congress for relief.

Senator Harrell, republican, Oklahoma, pointed out that there was no provision in the modified proposal to require Mr. Ford to continue fertilizer production throughout the 110-year lease period. He and Senator Norris jointly declared that the two purposes the committee had in mind were to get the cheapest fertilizers possible and to maintain the nitrate plants for use in war preparedness.

"They are the two chief ideas we had in making this offer," Mr. Mayo said.

New Modification.
He agreed, in this connection, to further modify the offer by specifying that the cost of fertilizer should be based on the cheapest source of power that could be used.

Senator Norris said it would be possible under the existing offer to use the cheap power in the production of metals and automobile parts and add to the cost of fertilizers by using higher priced power in their parts and add to the cost of fertilizers using higher priced power in their manufacture.

"That could be arranged so as to remove all doubt," Mr. Mayo asserted. The witness added that Mr. Ford intended to invest about $500,000 in developing Muscle Shoals industrially including a vast program for increasing power production.

Development Possibilities.
The possibilities of power increases on the upper Tennessee are great," he said. "Personally, I think the only thing to do would be to develop them."

Mr. Ford has declined to reduce the 100-year lease term to fifty years, Mr. Mayo said, adding that "he stands pat on that."

"That power produced could be consumed under Mr. Ford's plans Mr. Mayo said, in the manufacturing enterprise he intends to establish, and none would remain for sale to private interests.

Committee Adjourns.
The senate committee adjourned until tomorrow at Senator Norris' suggestion and planned to continue hearings on the Ford offer with Mr. Mayo on the stand.

Hugh L. Cooper, consulting engineer to the government on Muscle Shoals construction, testified again today before the house military committee in executive session. It was understood that the committee inquired into various phases of construction contracts awarded to Muscle Shoals, giving particular attention to the Wilson dam project, which it recently agreed informally should be completed.

The house committee was requested to continue its session tomorrow for the purpose of further discussing the report which it is preparing to submit to the house when the private proposals it has investigated are returned to that body for final decision.

In every five are bees whose duty it is to keep it ventilated by fanning their wings.

Laying of Cornerstone

The laying by the Odd Fellows of Georgia of the cornerstone of the Robert T. Daniel Memorial Orphan's home at Griffin, April 26. The picture shows the officers of the Grand Lodge of Georgia being presented to the vast assembly, just as the cornerstone was put in place.

Number of Atlanta Scout Honor Courts Is Doubled

Many Additions Made to Membership as Interest Grows Among Boys of Local Council.

Interest of Atlanta Boy Scouts in merit badge work has developed to such an extent that it has become necessary to double the membership of the court of honor and to secure it into four divisions. At a recent meeting of the executive committee the following men were appointed as additional members of the court of honor:

W. C. Jones, Robert Gregg, H. S. Collinsworth, Paul F. Voss, John S. Shaw, Dr. Walter Holmes, W. A. Alexander, F. L. Butler, Knoxville McWhorter, L. W. Roberts, Asa W. Chandler, R. H. Martin, Earl Green, S. E. Finley, Dr. W. P. Nicholson, J. D. W. Webb, Hal F. Hentz, J. E. Addicks, L. M. Stout and Dr. Fred Hodgson.

The membership of the different divisions of the court is as follows:

Division No. 1, Colonel E. S. Pomroy, chairman; W. Jones, Robert Gregg, H. S. Collinsworth, Dr. Walter Holmes, Paul F. Voss, Julian V. Boehm, John S. Shaw, Division No. 2, Dr. Fred Hodgson, chairman; J. E. Addicks, A. D. Adair, W. A. Alexander, F. L. Butler, Knoxville McWhorter, L. W. Roberts, Asa W. Chandler, R. H. Martin, Earl Green, S. E. Finley, Dr. W. P. Nicholson, J. D. W. Webb, Hal F. Hentz, J. E. Addicks, L. M. Stout and Dr. Fred Hodgson.

On Monday night four divisions will meet simultaneously at 7:45 o'clock in the following places: Division No. 1 at Y. M. C. A. building; Division No. 2, in room 315, court house; Division No. 3, in room 315, court house; Division No. 4, in room 315, court house.

On Monday night four divisions will meet simultaneously at 7:45 o'clock in the following places: Division No. 1 at Y. M. C. A. building; Division No. 2, in room 315, court house; Division No. 3, in room 315, court house; Division No. 4, in room 315, court house.

On Monday night four divisions will meet simultaneously at 7:45 o'clock in the following places: Division No. 1 at Y. M. C. A. building; Division No. 2, in room 315, court house; Division No. 3, in room 315, court house; Division No. 4, in room 315, court house.

OCEAN TAKES TOLL OF THREE VESSELS

San Francisco, May 1.—The tank steamer Whittier, of the Union Oil company, which went on the rocks at a point a mile south of Point Arena last night, is a total loss, the company was advised today by radio. The steamer's cargo of 10,000 barrels of oil was lost also. The crew of 26 was saved.

DISASTER CALL CAUGHT BY RADIO.

Boston, May 1.—A distress call intercepted by radio stations here today told that the steamer William A. McKenney was totally disabled with a broken tail shaft. The position given was latitude 38.03; longitude 74.33 off Cape May. The steamer is bound from New York for Pacific ports, probably without passengers. The Lewis K. Thurlow, 200 miles away, was ordered to tow her to Norfolk.

BRITISH WRECK IS REPORTED.

Galveston, Texas, May 1.—The British steamship Victoria de Larrea was wrecked on a reef, sixty miles north of the coast of Haiti, on April 30, according to a message from the master of the American steamship Lake Fairlie to the Lone Star Steamship company, of this city.

CAN SUE SHIP BOARD, SUPREME COURT SAYS

Washington, May 1.—The Emergency Fleet Corporation of the United States Shipping board, is not a governmental agency in the sense that it cannot be sued without its consent, the supreme court today decided.

The decision of the court was considered highly important by the government because of the number of cases pending before the corporation. The opinion was delivered in case brought by the Shona Shippers' corporation against the state of Washington and the Astoria Marine Works of Oregon, contending the corporation was private, and by the corporation against Roger P. Woods, trustee in bankruptcy of the Eastern Shore Shipbuilding corporation on the ground that as a government agency it was entitled to priority in the distribution of the bankrupt's estate.

The court reversed the first two cases which had been decided by the lower courts in favor of the government, and affirmed the judgment in the last case which was against the government. Chief Justice Taft delivered a dissenting opinion and stated that Justices Clark and Van Devanter joined with him.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

PECAN ASSOCIATION PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Many Growers Will Meet in Thomasville on May 24 and 25.

Thomasville, Ga., May 1.—(Special.)—Secretary Slater Wright, of the Georgia-Florida Pecan Association, has just completed the full program of the meeting of the association, which will be held in Thomasville, May 24-25.

The association is composed of men who are in the pecan business in Georgia and Florida and for this reason the meetings are especially interesting as matters are taken up that pertain particularly to conditions affecting the growing of these nuts here.

The meetings will begin Wednesday morning and will be held in the city hall, the headquarters of the association being at the Tocco hotel.

The following is the program. Call to order—10:30 a. m. Eastern time. Invocation—Rev. I. P. Tison.

Address—Welcome—Hon. H. J. McIntyre, mayor.

Response—H. H. Simmons, Jacksonville, Fla.

President's Address—J. M. Patterson, Putnam, Fla.

Joint Working Papers: Some Methods and Results—O. M. Haddley, Thomasville.

W. B. Mayo, chief engineer for Henry Ford, told the senate agriculture committee when it began examination today of the Ford modified proposal for purchase and lease of the Muscle Shoals properties.

Mr. Mayo declined, when questioned regarding the discovery to give the committee any detailed information, but committee members were left to understand that if the Ford offer for Muscle Shoals were accepted by congress the new process would be put into operation there.

"We believe we can make fertilizers at one-half their present cost of production," Mr. Mayo testified, adding that it was Mr. Ford's purpose to produce the cheapest soil foods possible and exhaust every available source for means to attain that objective.

Head of Experiments.

Government chemists attending the committee hearing, later said they had heard unofficially of experiments being made by chemists in Mr. Ford's employment, but none had any information as to discovery of a new process.

Should all efforts fail to make a cheaper commercial fertilizer for the farmers, Mr. Mayo said, it would be possible that Mr. Ford would come to congress for relief.

Senator Harrell, republican, Oklahoma, pointed out that there was no provision in the modified proposal to require Mr. Ford to continue fertilizer production throughout the 110-year lease period. He and Senator Norris jointly declared that the two purposes the committee had in mind were to get the cheapest fertilizers possible and to maintain the nitrate plants for use in war preparedness.

"They are the two chief ideas we had in making this offer," Mr. Mayo said.

He agreed, in this connection, to further modify the offer by specifying that the cost of fertilizer should be based on the cheapest source of power that could be used.

Senator Norris said it would be possible under the existing offer to use the cheap power in the production of metals and automobile parts and add to the cost of fertilizers by using higher priced power in their parts and add to the cost of fertilizers using higher priced power in their manufacture.

"That could be arranged so as to remove all doubt," Mr. Mayo asserted. The witness added that Mr. Ford intended to invest about $500,000 in developing Muscle Shoals industrially including a vast program for increasing power production.

The possibilities of power increases on the upper Tennessee are great," he said. "Personally, I think the only thing to do would be to develop them."

Mr. Ford has declined to reduce the 100-year lease term to fifty years, Mr. Mayo said, adding that "he stands pat on that."

"That power produced could be consumed under Mr. Ford's plans Mr. Mayo said, in the manufacturing enterprise he intends to establish, and none would remain for sale to private interests.

The senate committee adjourned until tomorrow at Senator Norris' suggestion and planned to continue hearings on the Ford offer with Mr. Mayo on the stand.

Hugh L. Cooper, consulting engineer to the government on Muscle Shoals construction, testified again today before the house military committee in executive session. It was understood that the committee inquired into various phases of construction contracts awarded to Muscle Shoals, giving particular attention to the Wilson dam project, which it recently agreed informally should be completed.

The house committee was requested to continue its session tomorrow for the purpose of further discussing the report which it is preparing to submit to the house when the private proposals it has investigated are returned to that body for final decision.

In every five are bees whose duty it is to keep it ventilated by fanning their wings.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Every yard of woolen cloth contains about a mile of yarn.

Spectators Start To Flee At Trial As Lie Is Passed

Charleston, W. Va., May 1.—The trial of West Virginia miners for alleged treason in connection with the crusade into Mingo county last year grew so tense at one time Monday that the spectators, fearing gun play, made a move for the doors almost en masse.

This incident came when Attorney Harold W. Houston, for the defense, passed the lie to Prosecuting Attorney A. M. Belcher. The half submerged bitterness between union and operator factions threatened to blaze out with realistic fury, and the crowd remembered Houston's warning that gunmen were present at the trial.

Lawyers Clash.
Houston, pleading to the allowed by the court to continue a line of questioning he had adopted in cross-examination of Deputy Sheriff Holly of Logan county, declared:

"We will show that the gentlemen who are backing the prosecution in this case have known that enormous sums are being paid to hire men to make war on the miners. These sums of money ran to $300,000 and $400,000 a year and during the first nine months of last year they paid out over $300,000 to employ these deputy sheriffs."

Here Belcher interrupted:

Fight Imminent.
"Now I want to say that the miners have never wanted to deal with this organization. This sheriff, Don Chaffin, in the headquarters of the United Mine Workers at Charleston, by William Petry, district vice president, after a conference with you, Mr. Houston."

"If you say I know anything about this, you lie," shouted Houston, shaking his fist and moving toward Belcher.

Belcher with equal heat, returned the stare.

Court attaches leaped to intervene, as it looked as if a fist fight and perhaps worse was inevitable. Judge Wood, however, was able to smooth the matter over, and after both attorneys had cooled down they apologized to the court and the frightened spectators resumed their seats.

A LAST GOOD-BYE TO OUR NEW UNIVERSITIES DICTIONARY

The few remaining days of our great distribution of the New University Dictionary will probably be taken advantage of by hundreds, who, for some reason or other have not yet secured a copy. This great "multum in parvo" book is one that has secured a firm hold on the affections of the people at large, and its influence will doubtless be felt more and more as the years go on in this community. The wide distribution of the work has already exceeded our anticipations, and we are more than gratified at the hearty welcome that has attended our efforts. Indeed, it would seem that we not only hit upon the right book for our readers, but that we chose the right moment to present it. We are sure that it is the best book of its kind, and that every owner will, many times in the future, congratulate himself, and feel grateful to this paper, for the possession of a dictionary that shall answer the many questions that arise daily in the school, the home, the office, the study and the work-shop. The distribution closes positively this week, and our contract cannot be renewed with the publishers. Read the coupon in today's paper for terms—(adv.)

For full details consult the French Line Agent in this city.

COMPANY'S OFFICE
1108 Canfield Bldg.
Atlanta, Ga.

WHITE STAR
New York, Charleston, Southampton; N. Y. Queens town, Liverpool, Philadelphia, Queens town, Liverpool.

RED STAR LINE
New York, Plymouth, Cherbourg, Antwerp, London, Hamburg, Bremen, Danzig.

AMERICAN LINE
New York, Plymouth, Cherbourg, Hamburg, Bremen, Danzig.

For sailings and other information apply International Mercantile Marine Company, 30 Broadway, New York, or to the local agent.

HONOLULU
SUNVA, AUCLAND, SYDNEY
The Well Equipped Royal Mail Steamers, "NIAGARA" (10,500 tons), May 19 July 31 "MAUI" (10,500 tons), May 19 July 31

For fares, etc., apply to the local agent, or to the Canadian Australasian Lines, 1111 Broadway, New York, or to the local agent.

UNITED JOINT HAMBURG
AMERICAN SERVICE AMERICAN LINES WITH A LINE

TO PLYMOUTH, BOULOGNE
By New American-Flag Steamers
Reschedule May 10, June 19, July 11
Reschedule May 20, June 27, July 18

TO HAMBURG DIRECT
Sailings every Thursday, by the popular steamer Mount Clay, Mount Carmel, Mount Clinton, Mount Beyer, Wuerstemberg, with special cabin and improved third class accommodations.

UNITED AMERICAN LINES, INC.
30 Broadway, New York or Local Agents

WE SELL FORD CARS
A. L. BELLE ISLE — IVY 507

PICTURE FRAMES
GOODHART-TOMPKINS
83 PEACHTREE

ARCHER

The ARROW COLLAR

INTRODUCTION
FOR SPRING ~
Cluett, Peabody & Co., Inc.

CUTICURA
CARES FOR YOUR HAIR

Nothing like shampoos with Cuticura Soap and hot water, preceded by touches of Cuticura Ointment to spots of dandruff and itching, to keep the scalp and hair healthy. They are ideal for all toilet uses.

Sample Book Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 107, Malden, Mass." Send 10c for sample book and 25c for Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

Make Your Money Work

THERE is no more reason why your money should be idle than there would be for you quitting work yourself. Deposit the money you will not use before July First in our Savings Department on or before May Fifth, and we will pay you on July First, Interest for Two Months.

This applies to both New Accounts and to deposits made by old customers.

The Citizens & Southern Bank

Rich's May Sale of Silks!

—"The First Silk Store of the South" invites you to share the fruits of its finest and greatest effort—its most remarkable achievement in 55 years of remarkable achievement!

—Here are gracious silks, beautiful and lovely beyond words, the prime and perfect silks of all the world, at prices affording unparalleled economy!

—This is true for sound and very simple reasons—the axiomatic and implacable laws of business—the lever of quantity buying resting on the fulcrum of cash payments. We have bought enormous quantities from first hands—the mills—eliminating all intermediate costs.

—The Sale, in its wide, capacious embrace, holds everything. From the plain and staple taffetas and so forth, to gorgeous and exotic things, the tropic fruits of the looms.

—One hundred thousand dollars in purchases alone. Atlanta and Georgia never had such a silk festival!

Crepe Romaine $2.95
Regularly $5.50

—40 inches wide. Crepe Romaine, in navy, tan, gray, white, brown and the wanted light colors. Some of the prettiest dresses of the season are made of this soft, clinging fabric.

Canton Crepe $2.39
Regularly $4.50

—40 inches wide. All pure silk Canton crepe, one of the most fashionable materials of the season. Navy, brown, tan, gray, French blue, black and white. Good, heavy quality.

Chiffon Taffeta $1.15
Regularly $2

—36 inches wide. Excellent taffeta, in navy, brown, gray, tan, rose, white, black and evening colors. This is one of the most extraordinary offerings in the entire Anniversary.

Crepe Knit $1.95
Regularly $3.95

—40 inches wide. Navy, henna, French blue, tan, rose, red and other colors. Crepe Knit is one of the newest and most popular materials of spring; to find it at $1.95 is remarkable.

Taffeta $1.19
Regularly $2

—36 in. wide. Broadcloth taffeta in navy, black, brown, gray, tan, rose, pink, orchid, etc. Every yard guaranteed.

Crepe 55¢
Regularly $1.50

—33 inches wide. Peau de crepe, all pure silk and washable. In small, dainty patterns to be used for dresses and linings.

Voile $1.69
Regularly $4.50

—40 inches wide. Mallinson's indestructible voile. Embroidered in figures in navy, black, henna, tan, red, gray, etc.

Crepe Knit $1.95
Regularly $3.95

—40 inches wide. In all colors—navy, white, black, henna, brown, turquoise, French blue, etc. A good value.

Sports Silks $1.95
Regularly $3.50

—40 inches wide. Tallyho sports silk, in stripes and plaids for skirts. A beautiful, heavy quality for $1.95 to buy.

Crepe $1.95
Regularly $4.50

—40 inches wide. Mallinson's Maravian crepe, in stripes and plaids for separate skirts. One of the best values offered.

Poplin $1.95
Regularly $3

—40 inches wide. Brocaded silk poplin for dresses and separate skirts. Brocaded in self-tone effects in good colors.

Crepe $2.95
Regularly $4.50

—40 inches wide. Mallinson's Mandarin crepe, in black, brown, navy and henna. A heavy weight spiral crepe for capes.

Crepe $1.95
Regularly $4.50

—40 inches wide. Cashmere crepe de Chine. Wanted colors in lovely grays, tans; also navy, brown, white and black.

Crepe $2.39
Regularly $5.50

—40-inch crepe faille. A heavy quality. Navy, brown, tan, gray, black and French blue are the colors.

$6 Taffeta at $2.95

—36-inch eyelet and embroidered flouncing taffeta. Also embroidered in metal tinsel.

$6 Taffetas at $2.39

—48-inch broad taffeta. Small and large designs. Navy, black and brown. Guaranteed.

$2.50 Crepe at $1.05

—30-inch Korean crepe. All pure silk and washable. For underwear dresses and drapery.

$2 Silks at $1.15 —30-inch Shikie silk, in Japanese designs. All pure silk. In kimono and in drapery patterns.

$3.50 Onderle, $1.59

—24-inch crepe Onderle. A heavy corkscrew weave. In black only. Fine for making the new capes.

$4.50 Moire at $1.45

—40-inch crepe moire. All pure silk in black, navy and brown. Also crepe back satin moire.

$6 Silk at $1.45

—54-inch needle cord silk. A soft material that's easy to drape. Lovely for capes. Black and navy.

$3 Satin at $1.00

—33-inch crepe satin in sports colors. Nile green, rose, lavender and tan. Easily washable.

$3.50 Crepe at $1.49

—40 inches wide. Isabella crepe in a heavy quality. Navy, black, brown, white and evening shades.

$4 Foulard at $1.69

—40 inches wide. Satin faced foulard in black and white, navy and white and other figures.

$5 Moire, $1.95

—40-in. Canton moire. All-silk in black only. Very new and much used for capes and dresses.

$8.50 Canton, $3.29

—40-in. brocaded Canton. Many are the new spring dresses of this in navy, black and brown.

$3 Crepe, $1.95

—40-in. printed crepe de Chine. Such pretty designs, both large and small, in all colors.

$3.50 Jersey, $1.95

—40-in. crepe Jersey. The new spring dresses fashion easily, of black, navy, flesh, white.

$3.50 Satin, $1.49

—36-in. monotone satin. Heavy quality for dresses and capes. Navy, brown and black.

$3 Jersey, $1.49

—40-in. Paisley silk jersey. In all colors. The newest material for sports clothes.

$3.50 Crepe at $1.95

—40-in. Crepe de Chine. Extra heavy. Black, navy, brown, flesh, white and henna.

$6 Crepe at $3.29

—40-in. crepe Jacquard. All pure silk. In all the pretty evening shades, navy and black.

Crepe $1.55
Regularly $2.50

—40-inch heavy crepe de Chine, made of real Canton silk. For spring and summer dresses, in navy, black, brown, ivory, turquoise, white, orchid, jade, etc.

Georgette $1.95
Regularly $3.50

—40-inch striped Georgette. Small pin striped kind, that is, white grounds with pretty colored stripes. An extra heavy weight that will wear the summer long and after.

Shirting $1.00
Regularly $1.50

—33-inch washable broadcloth tub shirt. Fine satin stripes for wash dresses and men's shirts. This is very popular for spring and summer wear and priced low.

Charmeuse $1.79
Regularly $3

—40-inch heavy satin charmeuse. The much-sought-after leather finish satin charmeuse. Black, navy, brown and evening shades. Fine for capes and spring dresses.

Fischer Maid $1.29
Regularly $2.50

—Mallinson's Fischer Maid. An all pure silk, in pink, tan, gray, white, jade, orchid, navy, black, turquoise and French blue. For sweaters, skirts, etc.

Tricolette $1.19
Regularly $3

—40 inches wide. Heavy quality. Jersey striped tricolette. To be used in the making of sweaters for Summer wear. The most wanted light and dark colors.

Satin $1.19
Regularly $2.50

—36 inches wide. Washable satin of an extra heavy quality. In white, pink, orchid, jade, lavender and sky blue. An offering not to be overlooked.

Broadcloth $1.00
Regularly $1.50

—33 inches wide. White broadcloth, all pure silk and washable. Thrifty women will buy enough to make a full supply of shirts for the men of the family.

Shirting $1.29
Regularly $3.50

—5,000 yards of silk shirting. Small pin stripes that are suitable for making men's shirts and women's waists and dresses. Washes easily. Fine for summer wear.

Taffeta $1.65
Regularly $3.50

—36-inch chiffon taffeta. A really beautiful quality with Swiss finish. There are twenty-five exquisite shades to choose from, in street and evening shades.

Rich's

Crepe Satin $1.19
Regularly $2.50

—33-inch crepe satin. A quality that drapes into the moods of the mode with unusual adaptability. All colors.

White Pongee $1.39
Regularly $3

—33-inch, white pongee. As easily washable as a linen handkerchief and quite as serviceable. The price is unusually low.

Rich's

SIDE TALKS

BY RUTH CAMERON

Some years ago there used to be among my acquaintances two sisters. One was a semi-invalid, who suffered from sleepless nights, and weakness, and pains, and miseries of a thousand kinds more or less. Her sister was the mother of several children, she was well and strong but she had to work very hard and she got very tired, and she could not see why anyone who had no more to do than her sister should always be complaining.

On the other hand the invalid sister thought the well one was terribly unsympathetic. She could not see how anyone who had the blessing of health should not have more sympathy for one who lacked it.

Alfred Their Grievances. I happened to be intimate with the well one I was told how outrageous it was for the sick one to be so whiny and complaining when everything possible was done for her. And whenever I talked with the sick I was told how cruel it was for the well one to be so hard and unsympathetic and to tell her she was too nervous herself. And the queer part of the whole thing was that apart from each other the invalid never seemed whiny to me and the well sister never seemed unsympathetic.

That was some years ago but lately there have come into my ken certain similar conditions which have seemed to cast a search light back on that experience. I think that each one of those sisters made the other act differently with her from what she did with other people, by her effort to justify her own position.

That's a terrible weller of hers, isn't it?

"You Are Nervous." But that is what I mean. The well one said: "You are nervous about yourself." That put the sick one on the defensive. She said to herself: "She does not know how sick I am and I must make her realize it," and she always complained about her condition when she talked with her sister, though she did not complain to other people. That made the healthy sister more sure than ever that she was just nervous; moreover she knew she was being considered unsympathetic and so she tried to defend herself by proving to the other that she complained too much and exaggerated her case.

The result was that each in trying to justify her own position constantly criticized the other and dwelt upon facts that would not otherwise have been so much in the limelight. Inevitable irritation and misunderstanding developed. Each thought the other was trying to assert herself, while each felt that she was simply defending herself against the other.

It seems to me that a great many conflicts of viewpoint in married life bring about these same conditions. Each asserts his own point of view in self-defense while each thinks the other one is asserting his because he wants to impose it upon him. If each could realize that the other was only defending himself it might be easier to cease hostilities.

If you have ever had such an experience I think you will know what I mean. If you haven't, I am afraid you will think I am talking nonsense. But maybe you will look back some day and say, "That must be the kind of thing she meant."

Tomorrow—"Mrs. S. Will Think It Over."

(Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

The Constitution Patterns

AN EVER POPULAR MODEL. 3808. As a dressmaker a thing like this does a good housekeeper require her apron. A model such as is here pictured has the advantage of being easily made and easily adjusted. It is also trim and neat. In figured percale, with binding of a contrasting color, or in checked gingham with trimming of rick-rack braid, this style will be sure to please.

The pattern is cut in four sizes—small, medium, large and extra large. A medium size requires 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

In ordering patterns write name and address plainly on a sheet of paper. Order by number and include price in silver or stamps. Do not mail letters to The Constitution building in Atlanta, but address it as follows: Fashion Department, The Constitution, 1188-90 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We Teach Beauty Culture

Increasing demand for operators in Hair Dressing and Manicuring Parlors. Also work on the face, neck and throat. Personal instruction given. Write today for terms.

THE E. A. CLAYTON CO.

1188-90 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

MARGOT ASQUITH SEES AMERICA

Woman with the serpent's tongue, frank and fearless as when she wrote diary that rocked England's aristocracy, tells her American impressions—Daring comments on society people—Intimate descriptions of nation's leaders.

America No Longer a Free Country, She Declares—Rich Get All the Drinks.

BY MARGOT ASQUITH.

Wife of the ex-Prime Minister of Great Britain.

An ardent temperance advocate, under prohibition I expected to find the Americans sober and happy. They are certainly happy.

Prohibition is a measure of such exaggerated interference with private life that no truthful person can call America a free country.

For the information of anyone who may think as I did, that drink has decreased and that in consequence everyone in the United States is wiser and richer, I can only say the reverse is the truth.

I cannot write of the poorer classes, on whom, in any case, the law is hard, but among the rich I do not suppose there was ever so much alcohol concealed and enjoyed as at the present moment.

Young men and maidens, who before this exaggerated interference would have been content with lemonade, think it smart now to break the law every day and night of their lives.

I confirm all that, in spite of Lord Lee's statement to the effect that in thirty years of observation in America, he had never seen harm done by prohibition.

Editor's note: The statement by Lee to which Mrs. Asquith refers was carried in an Associated Press cablegram from London as follows:

"Margot Asquith's assertion that drunkenness was prevalent among young Americans of both sexes was termed as 'judicious' as it was cruel and untrue" by Lord Lee of Fareham, first Lord of the Admiralty, in an address before the English-speaking union.

"He said he had not planned to mention America," prohibition, but felt obliged to do so in view of the reported utterances of one of his countrywomen.

"His remarks," he said, "were based upon 30 years of observation in America, including the prohibition era."

In reply Mrs. Asquith, then at Providence, said:

"Lord Lee declares that in the thirty years he lived here he never observed the harm done by prohibition. Prohibition has not been here thirty years. I've always been for it, but I find it isn't quite what I thought it was."

It does not seem to me that prohibition works fairly as between the rich and the poor. Lord Lee says: "I say your young maidens are frequently intoxicated."

I did not say that. I said they break the law every day.

I am speaking seriously and am a prohibitionist. Liqueur control has been among many other reforms, a political ideal of my husband, ever since he became a cabinet minister, but, since what is called "the trade" has the votes and blessing of the Conservative party in England, all our endeavours to control it were frustrated by the House of Lords.

We drink less than our forbears, not because we are more moral, but for reasons of health.

Our people are fond of sport, and you neither shoot or ride as straight if you indulge in champagne, port, liquors and brandies-and-sodas over night.

Prohibition Lulicrous and Cruel. The first question I was asked when I landed upon American soil was whether I approved of prohibition. I said then that I thought it was a fine idea and an example that would ultimately be followed by the whole world. I presumed that light wines and beer would in time modify this somewhat exaggerated measure, but as most of the men convicted of crimes of violence had been proved to be under the influence of liquor the prisons and asylums would gradually be emptied.

"Young men and women share with their friends and admirers all the pleasures that go with defying the law."

I added that many of the world's famous men, and many of the young of promise, (as well as some of the best servants I had known in my life) had been ruined by drink, and that it was a subject upon which I felt deeply.

I could see at once that what I said was unpopular, but I repeated the same opinion in all my early lectures, adding that gout, rheumatism, arthritis, and other nervous diseases have been, if not contracted, certainly assisted by alcoholic poisoning inherited from generations of men who drank too much.

A very short visit over here has convinced me that prohibition, as at present administered, is both "judicious and cruel."

The well-to-do can get the drinks they want, and young men and women, as well as adults, share with their friends and admirers all the pleasures that go with defying the law.

It cannot be right for young people to see their parents and friends cheating the law every day of their lives, and which of them think of cheering up the poor, who presumably get as tired from their work as the idle get from their pleasures.

What I have said upon every platform and which Lord Lee, in a generous desire to defend the youth of this country, denies, is not "cruel, ludicrous, and untrue," but a platitude.

I have no doubt from what I have been told that the power of the alcohol lobby had to be smashed, and that the men who accomplished it deserve the highest praise, but can anyone truly say the prohibition law is kept?

Are Mr. Volstead or Mr. Fawcett Johnston satisfied with the present condition of things in their country?

There is a text in St. John: "The truth shall make you free." There is no lack of truth over here, but there is a lack of freedom, and I think the press might do much more with its powers than it does.

After the Lord Lee's statement and I had made my position perfectly clear, I was sent a press cutting from a paper.

"Margot lines up with foes of prohibition; she has swung round to the anti-prohibitionists."

This is characteristic of the inaccuracy of the American press. Editors do not distinguish between half a tea and full shouts; but you need not take it seriously, as new sensational headlines soon make their readers forget either what Lord Lee said or I contravened.

A Temperance Chairman. Prohibition is a never ending-topic of conversation, no less in parts of Canada than in the United States. I recall a rather humorous incident of my lecture in Toronto, where my chairman, the Rev. Byron Stauffer, made a wonderful speech. When he introduced me I related to my audience that Mr. Clemens, (better known as Mark Twain), had taken me into dinner at the home of a name-sake of mine (Mrs. Charles Tennant's, whose daughter Dorothy married Stanley), and had told me of a great American temperance orator who, having exercised his voice too much, had asked the chairman to provide milk instead of water at his meeting.

Turning to the Rev. Mr. Stauffer, (who is a great temperance preacher, of which I was aware) I said: "The chairman—probably a kind man, like my own—put rum into the milk, and when the orator, pausing in one of his dramatic periods, stopped to clear his throat, he drained the glass, and putting it down, exclaimed:

"Gosh! What cows!"

I went on to tell of a lady who was letting her house, and, after instructing the auctioneer as to the value of her chairs, furniture, and china, had left him in the dining room where the side board had several bottles of wine and whiskey on it.

She waited for a long time hoping he would return and show her the inventory. As he did not appear she went into the dining room where she found him unconscious upon the floor. She looked at the paper he held in his hand and read:

"To one reviving carpet."

(Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

(Copyrighted in Great Britain by Thornton Butterworth, Ltd.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

NEW "EYEGLASS" VEIL FOR PARIS AND AMERICA

"Oh, east is east and west is west, and never the twain shall meet," at least so it seems, for Oriental ladies wear a veil from their eyes down, while fashionable women of Paris and America do just the opposite—wear the new eyeglass veil which consists of two little lace medallions, one dropping over each eye.

The Housewife's Idea Box

To Remove Black Stains From Aluminum.

Certain foods will make black stains on aluminum utensils. An easy way to remove such stains is partly fill the pot or pan with water into which you have placed one teaspoonful of vinegar. Place the pot on the stove and boil the water for several minutes. Wash the pot in the usual way, and the black stains will come off easily.

THE HOUSEWIFE.

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

(Copyright, 1922 for The Constitution.)

ZINNIAS

The following is one of a series of articles written by Mrs. E. P. Crenshaw, of College Park, Ga., one of the best known flower-growers in this section.

Mrs. Crenshaw has won many blue ribbons at state fairs and flower shows. She writes in this issue of our paper on "Zinnias" and will write on the following subjects:

Blue Ribbon Chrysanthemums. Zinnias. Porek boxes. Anthers. Snapdragons. Roses. Bulbs.

Many other subjects of interest to flower growers will be discussed by Mrs. Crenshaw in these columns. Write to her, enclosing stamps for reply, and she will answer your questions on flower growing.

BY MRS. E. P. CRENSHAW.

Now is the time to plant that old-fashioned flower garden. The kind that gave you pure delight when you were a child, because you could gather an armful of blossoms and be sure there would be more for tomorrow.

Of all the beautiful flowers that grew in the garden the zinnias out ranked them all.

Busy people can grow them for they require but little attention. No matter how you treat them they give you a profusion of flowers.

If care and attention are given them, they will repay many times in gorgeous blooms as large as dahlias and almost as many bright colors.

Now is the time to buy these seeds and sow in shallow boxes, filled with good rich garden soil. The seed should be covered lightly with the soil. One-fourth of an inch is a good rule to use in covering seeds, then pack top soil down firmly. When the plants have four leaves on them, transplant to your garden plot which has previously been plowed or spaded well.

I find it is easier to cultivate plants when set in rows because they can be plowed and one plowing is worth several spadings or hoeings. Rows should be three feet apart, and plants set two feet apart in rows. Well rotted stable manure should be put between rows. In this way the food is applied gradually and the plants do not parch or burn from the hot sun.

When the plants are about one foot high the tops should be pinched out.

After the plants are growing well an application of well rotted stable manure can be applied between rows every three weeks. If this is not convenient any of the commercial fertilizers can be applied at a safe distance from roots of plants.

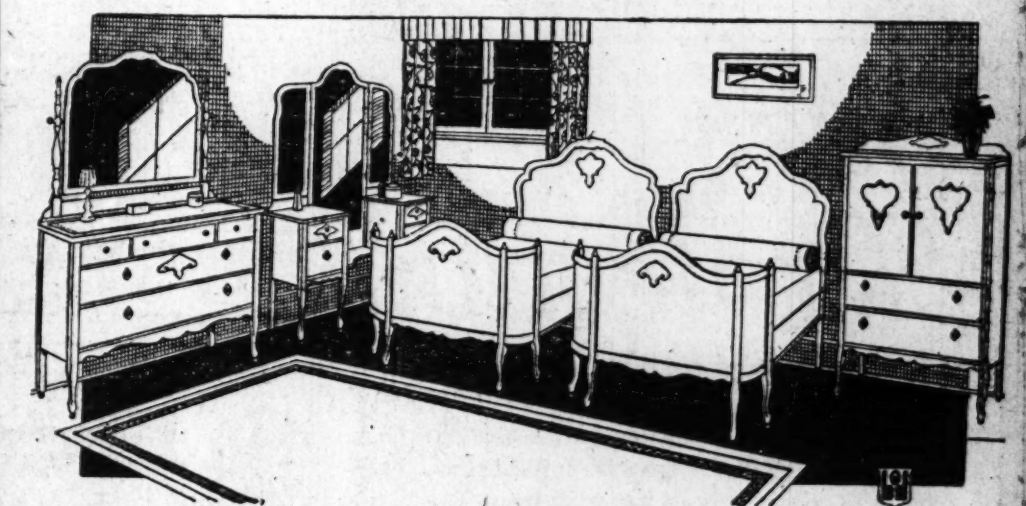

Water should be applied between rows and not on the plants. Zinnias are quite the style now since old style basque and full skirts are being worn by my lady. In passing through one of our beautiful cemeteries, I saw one of the prettiest floral offerings made of zinnias and snapdragons.

I also noticed the lasting quality of this flower. The flowers were withering away the zinnia was bright and beautiful and seemed to give a cordial greeting to all who passed by.

The commercial value of the zinnia is a thing worth considering. Large blooms sell at ten cents per dozen wholesale and many flower growers near cities have made a good profit in raising them.

Ten cents per dozen may seem a small amount to get for these blooms, but when you consider a few hundred plants and perhaps thousands of flowers that can be gathered from them from the last of May until frost, you will find it is no bad money maker.

Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.

American Walnut in this Beautiful Bedroom Suite

Most Exceptional Value

Our furniture buyer is well posted on furniture values, especially on high-grade furniture like this. When he tells us that this is the best made suite that can be bought at the price, we do not hesitate to assure you that such is true.

In Appearance it is indeed beautiful—well finished in a soft dark brown, showing the fine graining of the wood.

The cabinet work is splendid. Every detail of construction has been critically examined and found to be sound.

An Exclusive Set that cannot be seen elsewhere.

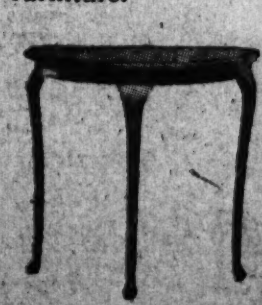

While the prices are uncommonly low, it is real quality furniture, built to last.

Attractive Terms May Be Arranged

Twin Beds, each.....	$63.00	Dresser, 46 inches....	$75.00
Double Bed	$63.00	Chiffonette, 36 inches..	$60.00
Chiffonette, 32 inches..	$50.00	Chiffonette, 40 inches..	$80.00
Dressing Table	$55.00	Rocker	$13.00
Vanity, 46 inches.....	$80.00	Chair	$12.00
Dresser, 52 inches.....	$90.00	Bench	$12.00

Here is a Queen Anne table in solid mahogany, whose quiet elegance of line will find a place with many different characters of furniture.

Specially priced$12.50

This solid mahogany end table in Louis XV design will appeal to those who have similar furniture. The design is not too pronounced to prevent its use with other styles.

A splendid value at.....$12.00

Furniture—Entire Fourth Floor

$100,000 Apparel Clearance

Nearly Half, Half and Less

—The list is given below—condensed and recapitulated. Everything is here—coats, suits, dresses, silk and wool, and capes.

—It is the most fashionable apparel of the season, the very finest our trained people know how to pick. It is here in enormous quantities, and almost infinite variety—$100,000 worth—and it goes to you in the very blush and pink of fashion at these preposterous Anniversary reductions.

Silk Dresses

- To $23 silk dresses, $11.95.
- To $30 silk dresses, $13.95.
- To $39 silk dresses, $19.95.
- $45 silk dresses, $26.95.
- $55 silk dresses, $37.95.
- $79.50 silk dresses, $49.95.
- $137.50 silk dresses, $59.95.
- To $147.50 silk dresses, $69.95.
- To $165 silk dresses, $78.95.
- To $197.50 silk dresses, $89.95.

Wool Dresses

- $29.75 wool dresses, $14.85.
- $35 wool dresses, $17.45.
- $49.50 wool dresses, $24.45.
- $69.50 wool dresses, $34.45.
- $89.50 wool dresses, $44.45.
- $97.50 wool dresses, $48.45.

The Suits

- $15 Jersey suits, $6.95.
- $19.75 and $22 tweed suits, $6.95.
- $25 to $35 sports suits, $12.45.
- $35 to $45 tweed suits, $19.45.
- $45 sports suits, $22.45.
- $55 tweed suits, $27.45.
- $29.75 wool suits, $14.85.
- $35 wool suits, $17.45.
- $45 wool suits, $22.45.
- $49.50 wool suits, $27.45.
- $69.50 wool suits, $34.45.
- To $75 wool suits, $37.45.
- To $137 wool suits, $47.45.

The Capes

- $15 capes, $6.95.
- To $27.50 capes, $14.45.
- $29.75 to $35 capes, $17.45.

- $45 to $55 capes, $27.45.
- $55 to $65 capes, $34.45.
- $69.50 to $89 capes, $47.45.
- To $125 capes, $57.45.
- To $147.50 capes, $69.45.
- To $175 capes, $94.45.

The Coats

- $12.50 coats, $4.75.
- $15 and more coats, $6.95.
- $19.75 coats, $9.45.
- $25 and $29 coats, $12.45.
- $35 coats, $17.45.
- $45 coats, $22.45.
- $55 to $69.50 coats, $34.45.
- To $89.50 coats, $47.45.
- To $125 coats, $58.45.
- To $137.50 coats, $69.45.

—Rich's, Second Floor

M. RICH & BROS. CO.

The Involuntary Vamp

Mildred Barbour

Who's Who in the Story.
Diana Langley, who just naturally has the knack of making men fall in love with her and possesses to a superior degree a quality of "lure" which was wished for her at her birth by her youthful aunt.
Marjorie Langley, herself a notable beauty, to whom Stephen Dale, a wealthy bachelor, has been devoted for years.

CHAPTER II.

Enter a Hero.

No one could remember when Stephen Dale had not been an admirer of Marjorie Langley. It started when the piquant Marjorie was sent off to Europe for a finishing course after boarding school. She met Dale on the Riviera where he was unwillingly in the tow of his family who were doing Europe much more thoroughly than people with their type of expensive yacht generally did. Young Stephen, who had been dragged from one famous ruin to another with very bad grace, suddenly developed a passion for inscriptions, stained glass windows, and moldy relics viewed through the reflection of Marjorie's crimson sunshade.

His devotion had persisted through the years. He had been constantly at the back and call of the capricious Marjorie who flitted from one fire to another, coming back always to the steady, unchangeable flame that glowed in Dale's quiet gray eyes.

There had been only one break in their friendship: for some unaccountable reason—unaccountable as far as the watching world was concerned—he had come off on the yacht, without adieu, for a year's cruise. Everyone said that Marjorie had given him his come at last, but he had come back at the end of the year as constant, as devoted as ever, but the first strokes of gray had appeared in the dark hair at his temples and there was in his eyes a curious weariness.

It was then that Diana, suddenly developed into womanhood, a little bit bored with the callow college youths of her acquaintance, really saw him for the first time. Previously she had regarded him as a member of the family to be depended on for chocolate and unending birthday gifts.

On this twentieth birthday Diana was filling in for Marjorie at a week-end country house party for which the latter had invented a toothache as a means of escape.

She came downstairs early the evening of her arrival, slimly youthful in a gown the color of sea foam. She was frankly yawning at the prospect of a stupid week-end.

The Bergain.
A low laugh from a dim corner of the unlighted drawing room brought her up sharply. She cupped a quick hand over her opened mouth and tried to pretend that she was forestalling a sneeze.

"You needn't!" said Stephen Dale's voice. "It's only I—not one of the swains."

Diana gave a little cry of delight. "Steve, I'm so glad! I didn't know you were to be here—Marjorie said it was going to be an impossible party. That's why she promised me a gold mesh bag if I'd understand for her."

Dale laughed and dragged his six-foot-two of white flannelled length from the depths of a capacious divan. Diana thought she had never seen anything more splendid looking than his little length and the strongly chiseled face with the tired eyes. It always made her heart beat unaccountably faster to look at him.

"So? Marjorie stoops to bribery, does she? I thought there was something queer about that toothache story. I suppose she is avoiding me."

Diana moved over to him impulsively. The drawing room was dim and cool in the midsummer twilight. It was filled with the scent of roses from baskets on the mantel. Outside in the garden the crickets had begun their evening chant and the ripple of the lake was faintly audible from the foot of the lawn.

"What's the matter, Steve? Haven't you and Marjorie quarreled again?"

WE MAY STILL HAVE THE POPULAR COLOR

It's no secret to say that pongee handkerchiefs have their shortcomings for all practical purposes. Getting around the difficulty in admirable fashion are linen handkerchiefs, pongee color, mind you.

He raised well-shaped brows as he lit a cigarette.

"Again?"

Diana made an impatient gesture. "You two are always quarreling and making up. Why don't you act like sensible human beings?"

Dale flung back his head and laughed.

"Out of the mouths of babes—" he began.

Like Peter Pan.

"Don't!" protested Diana, bodily. "You're always treating me like a kid and I'm not! I'm twenty!"

"Doddering!" he mocked. "Why, child, I'm thirty-eight! I remember when you were born."

"Marjorie's older than you—a lot," remarked Diana, irrelevantly. "Marjorie is the Peter Pan of women," he said gravely. "She will never be old. There's an elf called Eternal Youth who lodges in her heart."

Diana flung herself down on the divan by the long French windows that opened out into the garden. The crimson lights from the sunset slanted in upon her hair, turning it to pure copper. A languidly bee emerged from the heart of a hollyhock paused a moment to circle around her bright head.

"Why do people always want to be young?" she asked, petulantly. "I hate being young! Nobody pays any attention to you except silly boys who think they're terribly smart, and even they would rather go about with widows and divorcees!"

He smiled at her through the smoke of his cigarette.

"I haven't noticed any dearth of admirers in your direction."

She shrugged petulant shoulders.

"Who wants boys to play with? They're always around. Ergo, they're immature."

"Who do you want then?" he asked, amusedly, as he would view the antics of a frolicsome kitten.

The answer brought him to his feet, grave-eyed.

"You!" said Diana in a strained little voice through a throat that visibly quivered.

Another fine installment of this story tomorrow.

(Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

WHAT'S WHAT

By Helen Decie

There are times when a girl does not wish to dance with a certain man. In this she should not act according to whim, nor should she refuse to accept an invitation without adequate reason, for it is courteous to accept courtesy, even if one has no ardent friendship for the proffer.

Unless she wishes to "squelch" a man completely, a girl does not decline a dancing invitation without giving an explanation. Usually she says, "Thank you, but I am tired dancing." If, having said this, she accepts an invitation to dance with another man, it means either that she is thoughtlessly rude, or that she wishes to humiliate the first man by a public snub. Also, which is unusual, rather than unmanly, she shows that she doesn't mind telling a white lie. It is safe to follow the time-honored convention, which rules that it is discourteous to dance with one man immediately after refusing to dance with another.

The universal long skirts give a chance to show the ankle by stopping the lining before it reaches Victorian proportions, and such a trick conveys a certain link between what has been and what is to be. The drapery across the hips which every self-respecting lace frock has these days does away with the metallic belt, but it accentuates the immense tassels or ornaments of beads and quills which the continued Orientalization of clothes suggests. By such means, lace is

The world accepts it. It gives somewhat of a chance to escape from the sometimes dreary schedule of plain fabrics and solid colors. Its usage reveals one of the present-day theories of other ornamentation.

Embroidery is quite lovely this season, and there is much of it, but it is expensive and a slow process. The curious and imaginative schemes of other decorations snare the many who are on the watch towers, always, for whatever is new and different, but they are not readily taken to the heart by those who seek simplicity. Lace suits the latter class. Unfortunately, it also suits those who have not the slightest appreciation of its value as a decoration.

New frocks are teaching the public delightful ways to combine material and lace. The effect departs from the conventional paths. There is not the feeling that here is only another lace gown, or that the lace is there as an all-over frock of colored lace which have distinction, especially when well-made flowers are garlanded at the side or bunched at the hips, and the number of these are gray or silver Spanish lace, or rather the Paris weave of it.

There are some black lace gowns, but they do not dot the surface of society as frequently as it prophesied. Women appear to prefer the shining gray kind. There is a thin silver cloth lining even though summer approaches. Later, chiffon will be substituted unless the present way of modesty in dress deepens so that we return to the habits of other days which included linings of sturdy fabrics.

The universal long skirts give a chance to show the ankle by stopping the lining before it reaches Victorian proportions, and such a trick conveys a certain link between what has been and what is to be. The drapery across the hips which every self-respecting lace frock has these days does away with the metallic belt, but it accentuates the immense tassels or ornaments of beads and quills which the continued Orientalization of clothes suggests. By such means, lace is

The world accepts it. It gives somewhat of a chance to escape from the sometimes dreary schedule of plain fabrics and solid colors. Its usage reveals one of the present-day theories of other ornamentation.

Embroidery is quite lovely this season, and there is much of it, but it is expensive and a slow process. The curious and imaginative schemes of other decorations snare the many who are on the watch towers, always, for whatever is new and different, but they are not readily taken to the heart by those who seek simplicity. Lace suits the latter class. Unfortunately, it also suits those who have not the slightest appreciation of its value as a decoration.

New frocks are teaching the public delightful ways to combine material and lace. The effect departs from the conventional paths. There is not the feeling that here is only another lace gown, or that the lace is there as an all-over frock of colored lace which have distinction, especially when well-made flowers are garlanded at the side or bunched at the hips, and the number of these are gray or silver Spanish lace, or rather the Paris weave of it.

There are some black lace gowns, but they do not dot the surface of society as frequently as it prophesied. Women appear to prefer the shining gray kind. There is a thin silver cloth lining even though summer approaches. Later, chiffon will be substituted unless the present way of modesty in dress deepens so that we return to the habits of other days which included linings of sturdy fabrics.

The universal long skirts give a chance to show the ankle by stopping the lining before it reaches Victorian proportions, and such a trick conveys a certain link between what has been and what is to be. The drapery across the hips which every self-respecting lace frock has these days does away with the metallic belt, but it accentuates the immense tassels or ornaments of beads and quills which the continued Orientalization of clothes suggests. By such means, lace is

The world accepts it. It gives somewhat of a chance to escape from the sometimes dreary schedule of plain fabrics and solid colors. Its usage reveals one of the present-day theories of other ornamentation.

Embroidery is quite lovely this season, and there is much of it, but it is expensive and a slow process. The curious and imaginative schemes of other decorations snare the many who are on the watch towers, always, for whatever is new and different, but they are not readily taken to the heart by those who seek simplicity. Lace suits the latter class. Unfortunately, it also suits those who have not the slightest appreciation of its value as a decoration.

New frocks are teaching the public delightful ways to combine material and lace. The effect departs from the conventional paths. There is not the feeling that here is only another lace gown, or that the lace is there as an all-over frock of colored lace which have distinction, especially when well-made flowers are garlanded at the side or bunched at the hips, and the number of these are gray or silver Spanish lace, or rather the Paris weave of it.

There are some black lace gowns, but they do not dot the surface of society as frequently as it prophesied. Women appear to prefer the shining gray kind. There is a thin silver cloth lining even though summer approaches. Later, chiffon will be substituted unless the present way of modesty in dress deepens so that we return to the habits of other days which included linings of sturdy fabrics.

The universal long skirts give a chance to show the ankle by stopping the lining before it reaches Victorian proportions, and such a trick conveys a certain link between what has been and what is to be. The drapery across the hips which every self-respecting lace frock has these days does away with the metallic belt, but it accentuates the immense tassels or ornaments of beads and quills which the continued Orientalization of clothes suggests. By such means, lace is

The world accepts it. It gives somewhat of a chance to escape from the sometimes dreary schedule of plain fabrics and solid colors. Its usage reveals one of the present-day theories of other ornamentation.

Embroidery is quite lovely this season, and there is much of it, but it is expensive and a slow process. The curious and imaginative schemes of other decorations snare the many who are on the watch towers, always, for whatever is new and different, but they are not readily taken to the heart by those who seek simplicity. Lace suits the latter class. Unfortunately, it also suits those who have not the slightest appreciation of its value as a decoration.

New frocks are teaching the public delightful ways to combine material and lace. The effect departs from the conventional paths. There is not the feeling that here is only another lace gown, or that the lace is there as an all-over frock of colored lace which have distinction, especially when well-made flowers are garlanded at the side or bunched at the hips, and the number of these are gray or silver Spanish lace, or rather the Paris weave of it.

There are some black lace gowns, but they do not dot the surface of society as frequently as it prophesied. Women appear to prefer the shining gray kind. There is a thin silver cloth lining even though summer approaches. Later, chiffon will be substituted unless the present way of modesty in dress deepens so that we return to the habits of other days which included linings of sturdy fabrics.

The universal long skirts give a chance to show the ankle by stopping the lining before it reaches Victorian proportions, and such a trick conveys a certain link between what has been and what is to be. The drapery across the hips which every self-respecting lace frock has these days does away with the metallic belt, but it accentuates the immense tassels or ornaments of beads and quills which the continued Orientalization of clothes suggests. By such means, lace is

The world accepts it. It gives somewhat of a chance to escape from the sometimes dreary schedule of plain fabrics and solid colors. Its usage reveals one of the present-day theories of other ornamentation.

Embroidery is quite lovely this season, and there is much of it, but it is expensive and a slow process. The curious and imaginative schemes of other decorations snare the many who are on the watch towers, always, for whatever is new and different, but they are not readily taken to the heart by those who seek simplicity. Lace suits the latter class. Unfortunately, it also suits those who have not the slightest appreciation of its value as a decoration.

New frocks are teaching the public delightful ways to combine material and lace. The effect departs from the conventional paths. There is not the feeling that here is only another lace gown, or that the lace is there as an all-over frock of colored lace which have distinction, especially when well-made flowers are garlanded at the side or bunched at the hips, and the number of these are gray or silver Spanish lace, or rather the Paris weave of it.

There are some black lace gowns, but they do not dot the surface of society as frequently as it prophesied. Women appear to prefer the shining gray kind. There is a thin silver cloth lining even though summer approaches. Later, chiffon will be substituted unless the present way of modesty in dress deepens so that we return to the habits of other days which included linings of sturdy fabrics.

The universal long skirts give a chance to show the ankle by stopping the lining before it reaches Victorian proportions, and such a trick conveys a certain link between what has been and what is to be. The drapery across the hips which every self-respecting lace frock has these days does away with the metallic belt, but it accentuates the immense tassels or ornaments of beads and quills which the continued Orientalization of clothes suggests. By such means, lace is

The world accepts it. It gives somewhat of a chance to escape from the sometimes dreary schedule of plain fabrics and solid colors. Its usage reveals one of the present-day theories of other ornamentation.

Embroidery is quite lovely this season, and there is much of it, but it is expensive and a slow process. The curious and imaginative schemes of other decorations snare the many who are on the watch towers, always, for whatever is new and different, but they are not readily taken to the heart by those who seek simplicity. Lace suits the latter class. Unfortunately, it also suits those who have not the slightest appreciation of its value as a decoration.

New frocks are teaching the public delightful ways to combine material and lace. The effect departs from the conventional paths. There is not the feeling that here is only another lace gown, or that the lace is there as an all-over frock of colored lace which have distinction, especially when well-made flowers are garlanded at the side or bunched at the hips, and the number of these are gray or silver Spanish lace, or rather the Paris weave of it.

There are some black lace gowns, but they do not dot the surface of society as frequently as it prophesied. Women appear to prefer the shining gray kind. There is a thin silver cloth lining even though summer approaches. Later, chiffon will be substituted unless the present way of modesty in dress deepens so that we return to the habits of other days which included linings of sturdy fabrics.

The universal long skirts give a chance to show the ankle by stopping the lining before it reaches Victorian proportions, and such a trick conveys a certain link between what has been and what is to be. The drapery across the hips which every self-respecting lace frock has these days does away with the metallic belt, but it accentuates the immense tassels or ornaments of beads and quills which the continued Orientalization of clothes suggests. By such means, lace is

The world accepts it. It gives somewhat of a chance to escape from the sometimes dreary schedule of plain fabrics and solid colors. Its usage reveals one of the present-day theories of other ornamentation.

Embroidery is quite lovely this season, and there is much of it, but it is expensive and a slow process. The curious and imaginative schemes of other decorations snare the many who are on the watch towers, always, for whatever is new and different, but they are not readily taken to the heart by those who seek simplicity. Lace suits the latter class. Unfortunately, it also suits those who have not the slightest appreciation of its value as a decoration.

New frocks are teaching the public delightful ways to combine material and lace. The effect departs from the conventional paths. There is not the feeling that here is only another lace gown, or that the lace is there as an all-over frock of colored lace which have distinction, especially when well-made flowers are garlanded at the side or bunched at the hips, and the number of these are gray or silver Spanish lace, or rather the Paris weave of it.

There are some black lace gowns, but they do not dot the surface of society as frequently as it prophesied. Women appear to prefer the shining gray kind. There is a thin silver cloth lining even though summer approaches. Later, chiffon will be substituted unless the present way of modesty in dress deepens so that we return to the habits of other days which included linings of sturdy fabrics.

The universal long skirts give a chance to show the ankle by stopping the lining before it reaches Victorian proportions, and such a trick conveys a certain link between what has been and what is to be. The drapery across the hips which every self-respecting lace frock has these days does away with the metallic belt, but it accentuates the immense tassels or ornaments of beads and quills which the continued Orientalization of clothes suggests. By such means, lace is

The world accepts it. It gives somewhat of a chance to escape from the sometimes dreary schedule of plain fabrics and solid colors. Its usage reveals one of the present-day theories of other ornamentation.

Embroidery is quite lovely this season, and there is much of it, but it is expensive and a slow process. The curious and imaginative schemes of other decorations snare the many who are on the watch towers, always, for whatever is new and different, but they are not readily taken to the heart by those who seek simplicity. Lace suits the latter class. Unfortunately, it also suits those who have not the slightest appreciation of its value as a decoration.

New frocks are teaching the public delightful ways to combine material and lace. The effect departs from the conventional paths. There is not the feeling that here is only another lace gown, or that the lace is there as an all-over frock of colored lace which have distinction, especially when well-made flowers are garlanded at the side or bunched at the hips, and the number of these are gray or silver Spanish lace, or rather the Paris weave of it.

There are some black lace gowns, but they do not dot the surface of society as frequently as it prophesied. Women appear to prefer the shining gray kind. There is a thin silver cloth lining even though summer approaches. Later, chiffon will be substituted unless the present way of modesty in dress deepens so that we return to the habits of other days which included linings of sturdy fabrics.

The universal long skirts give a chance to show the ankle by stopping the lining before it reaches Victorian proportions, and such a trick conveys a certain link between what has been and what is to be. The drapery across the hips which every self-respecting lace frock has these days does away with the metallic belt, but it accentuates the immense tassels or ornaments of beads and quills which the continued Orientalization of clothes suggests. By such means, lace is

The world accepts it. It gives somewhat of a chance to escape from the sometimes dreary schedule of plain fabrics and solid colors. Its usage reveals one of the present-day theories of other ornamentation.

Embroidery is quite lovely this season, and there is much of it, but it is expensive and a slow process. The curious and imaginative schemes of other decorations snare the many who are on the watch towers, always, for whatever is new and different, but they are not readily taken to the heart by those who seek simplicity. Lace suits the latter class. Unfortunately, it also suits those who have not the slightest appreciation of its value as a decoration.

New frocks are teaching the public delightful ways to combine material and lace. The effect departs from the conventional paths. There is not the feeling that here is only another lace gown, or that the lace is there as an all-over frock of colored lace which have distinction, especially when well-made flowers are garlanded at the side or bunched at the hips, and the number of these are gray or silver Spanish lace, or rather the Paris weave of it.

AN HEIR AT LARGE

CHAPTER XXXIV.

A spirited and defiant Mary Brook left the office of James Stabb. She had voluntarily thrown over the best position in Adamant because the manager had attempted to dictate her choice of friends. She was leaving that hotbed of smug greediness, and was now trying to give the people goods at decent prices. Goodness knows I'd rather work for him for nothing than for the men who are trying to ruin him."

Her mother patted her hand sympathetically and strove to conceal her misgivings. Mary's salary had been their mainstay. Another position as good might mean another town and so her—breaking of all home ties. Their evening meal was one of alternating forced gaiety and brooding silence.

Neither was surprised at Harry Rasher's appearance soon after, but Mary, apprehensive herself, interpreted his cheerful greeting as a brave attempt to disguise a sense of impending disaster.

"We were out off today," he said, "and I just decided to leave."

"And you're really going to work for me?"

"I'm afraid you don't need me."

"Mr. Rasher, I telephoned before I thought I'm sure you won't be wanting to increase your expenses now."

"Why now?" he asked.

"But aren't you—Mr. Stabb said your store would surely fail in a week."

"By jove! And you left him to come to me with any prospect? But he looked at her searchingly—"but you didn't turn up. You thought better of it, and now you've burned made to stand out in glory. It is never considered a common-place thing to be worn on any and every occasion.

The sketch in the designers show in putting together fabric and lace for a summer's frock. White crepe de chine is the foundation. It is cut out in a deep V in front and omits sleeves; the long waist is held by a girder of the fabric with a bunch of white and purple grapes at the side; the slightly full tunic and the swinging Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and Renaissance periods in Italy, and dressmakers find themselves lacking in sufficient quantities of some of these weaves to supply orders for frocks, and it is a wonderful day when the American dressmaker comes face to face with this situation. The French know little of it, for the fabrics they want are on that side of the water. When a woman over here wants an afternoon frock of Renaissance lace because she likes the French model and the dressmaker's house has only three yards of it left and the camel and needle game is easy compared to the search for Elizabethan cape at the back are of white lace; not fine, but coarse.

There is an effort to reinstate the lace of the Venetian and

The Constitution's Novel-a-Week

HALF LOAVES

BY MARGARET CULKIN BANNING

Next Week, "The Heart of Canyon Pass,"
By Thomas K. Holmes

(Continued From Yesterday.)

Fliss established herself and Matthew, after a few months, in a house.
It was a very new house and its only sins were its newness and its rather elaborate interior decoration. Fliss had not quite learned the restraint of the inner circles of the wealthy.
Her house was a bit too complete and it showed that Fliss carried nothing over from the past. Though she had coveted some of the things in Matthew's rooms, she found to her dismay that she was not to be allowed to ransack his bachelor apartments.
In regard to those Matthew told Fliss that he thought he would keep the furniture for his rooms on the third floor of the new house.

"I think I'd like a place where I could study a bit by myself now and then. Let me have my sanctuary upstairs and then when you are entertaining people I don't care about, or too many of them, I'll sneak off there and not bother you."

Fliss had that divine gift of being able to leave a man alone. She puckered her brow a bit, sized up the fact that his wish was very real, and agreed.

"You are a very satisfactory person to have married," he finished.

"Do you like this place at all?"
asked Fliss, looking around her breakfast room with its old blue curtains, painted furniture and long windows at which two canaries sang charmingly.

"I like it a lot. I like to charm my eyes with it. It suits you exactly, but it's young and there may be times when I'll feel my age. Then the old furniture will rest me. Understand?"

"Yes," said Fliss, quite truthfully.
So it was arranged. And sometimes when the crowd of people who flocked to Fliss' house—an over-increasing crowd, whether they came for Red Cross work or for amusement—were too noisy or too heterogeneous for Matthew's taste, he undoubtedly found it sanctuary indeed. It kept him from getting tired of his home, too, kept him able to appreciate its color, its spirit, its accord with a gay, fashionable time. With all these things it was also always comfortable. Fliss could not cook, but she had discretion enough to hire a good cook, to spare no expense on her table, to have a housemaid who knew how to keep bedrooms fresh and clean and sweet smelling. Matthew used to like to come into her room, morning or night, and see her, elaborate in negligee, always pretty, always light, always with a smile for him. He called her a good investment and he never criticised her expenditures.

Matthew came first. Fliss was thoroughly honest about that. She attended to his wants with ungrudging pleasure. Then came her next interest, the business that intrigued her greatly and aroused less kindness and perhaps a slight feeling of revenge—establishing her position in Carrington society.

She gave little parties that were very gay and bright, and somehow different from other people's little parties—probably because Fliss gave individual attention to each of her guests, in selection and entertainment. She struck the note between the amusing and the risque and never wavered as she held it. To gain an end she was willing to be bored indefinitely. She went to the charitable affairs of older women, if they were important enough, and made a bright spot of color in the company, always deferential to the elder ladies, a little simple in her talk (she avoided pretense of intellectuality like the plague and played up a certain ingenuousness of ignorance that aroused the protective, educative instinct in others). She gave Matthew's money lavishly. She was backed by his real importance. Also she was willing to spend any amount of time on planning her clothes. She was always different from everyone else, never fading into the inconspicuous, but always managing to avoid being called cheap or tawdry. In her own way she was soon unassailable.
She became a figure on the social lists. She became important.

It ran through Dick's mind one day at intervals that perhaps he and Cecily were getting a bit too domestic.
He decided to take the matter up with her. There had been a fine recently when he had felt like flinging into society a bit more deeply than he had ever done since his marriage; when the allurement of light talk and loose manners had been strong for a few months. But the imminent coming of their third child had been announced and Cecily herself was too thoroughly out of sympathy with moods of lightness to even have him suggest that she join in them.

The impression lasted until he went into his house one night and then he felt suddenly absurd. Upstairs he could hear the sounds of the babies being put to bed. Around him everything was orderly and still, waiting for him. It was comfortable and quiet and the sense of possession which so often came over him as he entered his home quite destroyed that vague feeling that he and Cecily weren't quite getting all they might be getting out of things.

She came down the stairs a little abstractedly. Her mind was on the business of being a mother and a housekeeper—not on Dick, even when she kissed him. "They are all quiet now," she said. "If you must go up don't disturb them, will you?"

"No," he promised. Dick went past the nursery door, looking in to call to the two older children, then to Ce-cily's room to see the new baby, so pink and well cared for in its basket.
Finally he went to his own room. He felt a little lonesome and would have been amazed if he had analyzed his feelings far enough to know what it was that he felt. But that was what he wanted to be signed out for attention, and all he was getting was general care.

"I had lunch with Fliss Horton today—Fliss Allenby, I mean," he told Cecily when she faced him as usual over the pleasant table.

"Lunch with Fliss? How did that happen?"

"I ran into her at the Lennox restaurant. She was kicking about not seeing more of us. Rattled off a bunch of talk about this and that. Engagement she had for this week. And we asked to the things that go on—the Harris' reception and this big dance Leonard Polen is pulling off."

"Of course we are. I don't bother to show you the cards because we decided that we couldn't do that sort of thing now."

"Did you and Fliss ever quarrel?"

"Why, no, Dick. For a while, you know. I was a bit down—low in my spirits. I was feeling like that. I was so awfully gay—it used to irritate me. So I didn't ask her here any more. And that meant not asking Matthew of course, though I did miss him a lot. We don't somehow jibe in ideals—Fliss and I. She likes that endless party giving. I don't think she wants any children. But I was fond of Fliss, especially after she was so fine when Dorothea was born. You know we did entertain for her and tried to make her know a few more people when she was just married. But she doesn't seem to have much depth. Do you like a person who hasn't more depth than Fliss?"

"I have all traces of liking," pleaded Dick. "She's amusing."

"Well, if you feel so keenly about her," said Cecily. "I'll ask them to dinner this week. I'll be able to see Matthew and we'll have an old time party."

"Theater afterwards—maybe the Orpheum?"

"If you like," assented Cecily.
The talk seemed to bother Cecily.
She brought it up again later in the evening when they were giving the children a final inspection for the night. "Don't you think," she said softly, as she stood looking at them, that they are much more important than all the fun we might have had playing like Fliss?"

"You can't compare two such dissimilar things," said Dick.

"Of course they'll be better soon and then I can leave them to a nurse, but while I am still nursing the baby, I don't see how I can manage a lot of society."

"For heaven's sake, Cecily, don't be so absurd. Who wants you to do society? I wouldn't let you if you wanted to. Who could be happier than I am just as I am?"

Cecily sighed. "I know you're happy," she said, "and I'm happy. But this thing that came up tonight isn't new. I hear it from other people—people who talk about my being 'tied down' and say I ought to enjoy myself while I'm young; people who say that they never see you about any more and talk about how you used to enjoy dancing and such things; women who say they don't intend to have babies.
You've no idea how they talk."

"Now, look here, Cecily, you're tired out tonight. You just stop worrying about all this. We've been over it before, you know, lots of times, and we like our way of doing things. We may be a little out of fashion—we may not do things just as other people are doing them, but we are doing them the way we want to do them, and that ought to satisfy us."

VI.
Cecily started on a fairly determined round of gaiety for a few weeks. She found interesting at first and a bit boring afterwards. It was very difficult for her to take or even pretend to take casual interest in people, and casual interest was all that society wanted of her. She was not an inviting presence or a stimulating companion unless she was fully stirred to interest. But she could still amuse herself greatly with a pretty girl, because she was pretty; he enjoyed dancing and being foolish. Unlike Cecily, he did not always carry depths around with him. Cecily had to fit play into a scheme of life or she could not enjoy it. Dick just played.

Being misunderstood, Cecily saw many things of which she disapproved.
Her early training had been all toward a fastidiousness of manner and a perhaps exaggerated modesty, so that it hurt her to see the manners of the girls and women. They were great for notice, they were unreserved in thought and noisy in manner. Ugly-ly in thought and manner—she found them often. It bothered her that girls were not more delicate; it bothered her that married women did not seem to appreciate the possible joy in a husband's having children; it bothered her that she heard remarks that seemed to her to prove that the world was on its way to corruption.

The criticism which she felt of things around showed in her attitude toward her stepbrothers. They were in college now, boys of 19 and 20. Walter, the older boy, was extremely handsome; Gerald not so handsome, but even more spirited than his brother.
Mr. Warner's attitude toward his sons was to let them do pretty much what they would while they were finding themselves. Both boys had always been extremely fond of Cecily. They were proud of her and had a very good time with Dick. Cecily was equally proud of them, but they too worried her.

The two weeks before Christmas brought an unceasing round of parties, dances of one kind and another.
Cecily was tired before it began. She nearly suggested that they should decline all Christmas holiday entertaining, but neither Dick nor the boys gave her any chance for that. So she shopped for the children and made preparations all day for Christmas at home, and in the evening her only rest came while she leaned back against the cushions of the car as they drove to some clubhouse or hotel to dance and be gay for hours. When she got there she usually found her brothers there, too, for Carrington society was small enough to include all the possible young men from eighteen to thirty-five at its functions. Walter would be dancing with some pretty girl, held caressingly close in his arms, firing furiously. Gerald might be dancing or he might be standing on the side-lines looking dejectedly on, or worse yet, already adjourned to some dark corner with a girl. It amazed Cecily.
She could not let them alone. She wanted them to be reserved, dignified even, in their gaiety and they were

THE GUMPS—SELECTING THE JURY

WELL—I THINK YOUR ATTORNEY MADE A MISTAKE WHEN HE LET THOSE TWO OLD GUYS GET ON THE JURY—THEY'RE SOFT COKE
FOR WOMEN—THAT ONE
GUY WITH ALL THAT HAIR ON TOP OF HIS HEAD LOOKS LIKE AN ANARCHIST—

HE SHOULD BE OUT—HE HATES THE RICH—
NOTHING WOULD SUIT THAT GUY BETTER THAN TO SEE YOU STANDING IN THE BREAD LINE—THE JURY IS HALF THE BATTLE—WHAT YOU WANT ON THE JURY IS MARRIED GUYS WITH ABOUT 7 OR 8 CHILDREN—WITH A WIFE THAT MAKES ALL THEIR CLOTHES—DOES HER OWN WASHING AND SCOURING AND COOKING—AND THEN WHEN THEY COME HOME AT NIGHT THROW THEIR SHOES OUT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE ROOM—

THROW THEIR CLOTHES ALL OVER THE HOUSE—KNOCK THEIR PIPE ASHES ALL OVER THE WINDOW SILL—MAKE ALL
THE EXTRA WORK THEY CAN FOR HER—A MAN WHO HAS NO REGARD FOR A WOMAN—THAT'S WHAT YOU WANT—

not. Tomorrow she knew they would tell hilarious tales to each other about the very girls they were flirting so scandalously with. During these few weeks of semi-unwilling participation in "fun" she had come to formulate a philosophy which definitely excluded it. Where she had been indifferent, then all this—this fun—is wrong. You

"I hate it," cried Cecily, with a passion quite unlike her. "I hate the way all these problems—so you can help them. But you can't straighten them out by fretting."

"Or by bothering you."

"You couldn't bother me. I care for you," said Matthew with restraint and yet conviction. "I care for you the faces of happy people passing, all the setting made Dick and Cecily feel a magic in the air. In the car Dick turned Cecily's face up to his and kissed her, as he had not kissed her rarely—without any savor of duty or habit.

"Quite as if you wanted to," said
Cecily breathlessly.
"Quite," laughed Dick. "I always want to, but I'm a bit afraid of hurting you or you are busy with the children or have your mind on something else. Tonight you seem so particularly mine."
(Continued Tomorrow.)

SOMEBODY'S STENOG—"F. O. B."

MARY, I'M PUZZLED ABOUT ONE THING—I BOUGHT A CAR
"F.O.B." I PAID FOR IT
"F.O.B." WHAT EVER THAT MEANS—BUT WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

DON'T BE SILLY LIKE A DONKEY!

MEE HEE HEE
MEE HEE HEE
MEE HEE HEE
MEE HEE HEE
MEE HEE HEE

GEE—WHAT DO
IT MEAN?—
"F.O.B." MEANS FAT OLD BOSS!

NO POTATOES—NO SUGAR—
NO PORK—NO BUTTER—NO ICE CREAM—ONLY
SKIM MILK—NO CANDY—
VERY LITTLE OF ANYTHING—THAT WAY LIES A SLIM
WAIST LINE AND HAPPINESS!

HOME, SWEET HOME—Oh, Well, George Went Out of His Class

THIS HERE IVAN
DUMBOWICH OWES US FOR GIV' MONTE BECAUSE NONE OF
OUR COLLECTORS CAN TALK HIS LANGUAGE!

I GOT YOU, BOSS!
I'LL TAKE ONE OF THOSE TRICK TWO LANGUAGE BOOKS
ALONG AND TALK TO IVAN LIKE A FRIEND FROM HOME

SENOR DUMBOWICH,
GABOOKOV MUSHWA
BLANZOF MAH!
MAZURKA YOUNA
GOOBY BLAA OF WELL SUE YOU

WELL, HIS OWN LANGUAGE
WENT OVER BIG WITH IVAN!
I GUESS HE'S ASKING ME WHAT BECOME OF THE
TWO DOLLAR BILL HE LEFT
UNDER THE CLOCK
LAST

WE SAY WE NO WANTA BUY
ANY BOOKS TO DAY

WINNIE WINKLE,
THE BREADWINNER Unanimous

GOO-BYE MY
LIL' QUEEN!
AW' RINDOR!!

I'M PLEASED
TO HAVE MET
YOU, MR.
WINNIE!!

I ONLY MET EDGAR
WINNIE YESTIDAY,
AN' HE PUT IN LOVE
WITH ME RIGHT
TH' BAT!! AN' ME!!
AIN'T HE JES' TH'
SWEETEST BOY??!!

HAVE YOUR FOLKS
MET HIM YET
PATRICIA??

GOO-BYE MY
LIL' QUEEN!
AW' RINDOR!!

I'M PLEASED
TO HAVE MET
YOU, MR.
WINNIE!!

I ONLY MET EDGAR
WINNIE YESTIDAY,
AN' HE PUT IN LOVE
WITH ME RIGHT
TH' BAT!! AN' ME!!
AIN'T HE JES' TH'
SWEETEST BOY??!!

HAVE YOUR FOLKS
MET HIM YET
PATRICIA??

IT'S TOO BAD YOUR PARENTS OBJECT TO HIM—BUT DON'T YOU
THINK YOU COULD WIN THEM
OVER??

NOT A CHANCE!!
THAT'S TH' FIRST THING
MA'AN' PA HAVE AGREED ON, FOR YEARS!!!

GOO-BYE MY
LIL' QUEEN!
AW' RINDOR!!

I'M PLEASED
TO HAVE MET
YOU, MR.
WINNIE!!

I ONLY MET EDGAR
WINNIE YESTIDAY,
AN' HE PUT IN LOVE
WITH ME RIGHT
TH' BAT!! AN' ME!!
AIN'T HE JES' TH'
SWEETEST BOY??!!

HAVE YOUR FOLKS
MET HIM YET
PATRICIA??

GOO-BYE MY
LIL' QUEEN!
AW' RINDOR!!

I'M PLEASED
TO HAVE MET
YOU, MR.
WINNIE!!

I ONLY MET EDGAR
WINNIE YESTIDAY,
AN' HE PUT IN LOVE
WITH ME RIGHT
TH' BAT!! AN' ME!!
AIN'T HE JES' TH'
SWEETEST BOY??!!

HAVE YOUR FOLKS
MET HIM YET
PATRICIA??

IT'S TOO BAD YOUR PARENTS OBJECT TO HIM—BUT DON'T YOU
THINK YOU COULD WIN THEM
OVER??

NOT A CHANCE!!
THAT'S TH' FIRST THING
MA'AN' PA HAVE AGREED ON, FOR YEARS!!!

GOO-BYE MY
LIL' QUEEN!
AW' RINDOR!!

I'M PLEASED
TO HAVE MET
YOU, MR.
WINNIE!!

I ONLY MET EDGAR
WINNIE YESTIDAY,
AN' HE PUT IN LOVE
WITH ME RIGHT
TH' BAT!! AN' ME!!
AIN'T HE JES' TH'
SWEETEST BOY??!!

HAVE YOUR FOLKS
MET HIM YET
PATRICIA??

GOO-BYE MY
LIL' QUEEN!
AW' RINDOR!!

I'M PLEASED
TO HAVE MET
YOU, MR.
WINNIE!!

I ONLY MET EDGAR
WINNIE YESTIDAY,
AN' HE PUT IN LOVE
WITH ME RIGHT
TH' BAT!! AN' ME!!
AIN'T HE JES' TH'
SWEETEST BOY??!!

HAVE YOUR FOLKS
MET HIM YET
PATRICIA??

IT'S TOO BAD YOUR PARENTS OBJECT TO HIM—BUT DON'T YOU
THINK YOU COULD WIN THEM
OVER??

NOT A CHANCE!!
THAT'S TH' FIRST THING
MA'AN' PA HAVE AGREED ON, FOR YEARS!!!

GOO-BYE MY
LIL' QUEEN!
AW' RINDOR!!

I'M PLEASED
TO HAVE MET
YOU, MR.
WINNIE!!

I ONLY MET EDGAR
WINNIE YESTIDAY,
AN' HE PUT IN LOVE
WITH ME RIGHT
TH' BAT!! AN' ME!!
AIN'T HE JES' TH'
SWEETEST BOY??!!

HAVE YOUR FOLKS
MET HIM YET
PATRICIA??

GOO-BYE MY
LIL' QUEEN!
AW' RINDOR!!

I'M PLEASED
TO HAVE MET
YOU, MR.
WINNIE!!

I ONLY MET EDGAR
WINNIE YESTIDAY,
AN' HE PUT IN LOVE
WITH ME RIGHT
TH' BAT!! AN' ME!!
AIN'T HE JES' TH'
SWEETEST BOY??!!

HAVE YOUR FOLKS
MET HIM YET
PATRICIA??

IT'S TOO BAD YOUR PARENTS OBJECT TO HIM—BUT DON'T YOU
THINK YOU COULD WIN THEM
OVER??

JUST NUTS

DO YOU PREFER
QUACKS AGAINST THAT MAN?

NO YOUR HONOR—
I PREFER
CASH!

BY GEORGE!
I WONDER!

I'M ALRIGHT

BUT YOU
WONT EAT

HO MA.
HE'S SPOOFIN' ME—
ONE TREE
BY WINK

HOW DO YOU SPELL ANNOY?

YOU SPELL
IT WITH TWO T'S.

ARE YOU CRAZY?

NO! YOU SPELL ANNOY WITH TWO T'S—

THERE'S NO
T'S IN ANNOY—

ZAY GO!
WELL YOU LOOK UP
"ANNOY" AND
"VEX" IN THE DICTIONARY

AND YOU'LL FIND
"TO TEASE"

I HAVEN'T BEEN SWINGIN' BACK STRAIGHT
ENUF ON MY MASHE SHOTS

BY GEORGE!
I WONDER!

LOCALS BREAK LONG LOSING STREAK, BEATING VOLS

Suggs Hurls Superbly, Allowing Only 6 Hits, Blanking Doyle's Club.

Crackers Jump On Gallagher in First Inning for Three Runs—Another in the Third. Guyon and Mayer Fielding Stars.

BY BLINKEY HORN.

Nashville, Tenn., May 1.—(Special.) Mr. Dutch Bernsen is becoming more and more of a star on the diamond, as he has shown today. That Old Pop Time has been a discussion of agility and fleetness and so on. That's what they have been saying.

Yesterday down in the Dell Mr. Dutch Bernsen about ten minutes past five became very kitchy. He acted like a school kid. He turned three or four flips. He heaved his cap and glove upward in his glee. He amazed Old Pop Time by dancing a wild breakdown, which is a most severe test for aging bones.

Mr. Dutch Bernsen acted like the picture of a gent in the patent medicine ad who has thrown away his crutches or has just been trimmed with a set of good glands. Of course, there was a reason. The scoreboard in bold figures announced the Crackers had vanquished the Vols, 4 to 0.

Last time the Crackers won was eleven days ago. They dropped nine in a row. They were all the while so far behind they forgot how to invent a sacrifice hit. And yesterday the lengthy span of sorrow for Georgia ended. Jawa Suggs painted the musty lining with a silver tint, and it fell to the lot of Thomas Gallagher, who has yet to gobble a verdict as a Vol, to be in there when the Crackers were ranking themselves free from the bag.

Lucky He Wasn't Killed.

Tom Gallagher was not unlucky to lose. He was really fortunate that he did not receive fatal injuries. He did emerge with a pair of mangled mitts in his desperate effort to cripple smoking swats through the box, but for the brilliant scalping party which Joe Guyon staged in left field those mitts might not have shattered their string of misfortunes at that. The aborigine was particularly opposed to the hit efforts of Sir Miguel Burke. He came into the St. Louis, Miss., three times to deprive the home-grown flycatcher of tremendous thumps.

Once Mike Burke crossed the opposition by swatting a two-sacker to right field. Nobody dreamed he had any such intentions. Any of the whaling wallows which injured Joe Guyon pulled down would have gone for two and maybe lengthier hassock journeys. Twice this same aborigine robbed Chick Knaupp. Catching the idea that human flippers Jack Samuels Mayer flared a ponderous poke which spoke Emery, who was lead-off man, vice "Shag" Thompson sent out. The brilliant waterfowler of the Crackers appeared the furious dove out in the goat reservation beyond the sewer mouth. The wallow soaped so high and so far that Larry Doyle seemed a letter to his wife before the catch was made.

Three in First.

Those heretofore timid Crackers fell upon Tom Gallagher in the first frame as if they would make gulosh of him. So many swats were sent through the pitcher's box that Tom Gallagher tried to buy a mask to protect himself. Feverish pokes bounced off every part of his body save the soles of his feet. Four Crackers clubs were clustered in the opening frame. They netted a trio of tallies.

Joe Guyon outfaced a poke to Fabyer. Fred (photo) Graff sacrificed. Samuel Mayer doubled. Bernsen singled and took second on the throw to the plate. The ex-Baron tallied when Holden singled to center. Next two were easy outs. Sam Mayer singled as a starter in the third, reached second on an infield out, and reported when Bill Holden belted a one-bagger to right.

The expensive Mr. Sewell appeared in the ninth, after Gil Meyers had singled for Gallagher in the eighth. His whip still came, but he wiggled through without additional home runs. Chick Knaupp had another sale afternoon at second. He handled a down chance to first. He doubled. Roy Eiland made a sparkling clutch of Spoke Emery's twisting fly, which caught Guyon asleep. But thereafter the team was wide awake, and gave one of the rarest exhibitions of fielding ever splattered over the Dell.

The Box Score.

ATLANTA	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Guyon, 1f.	5	1	3	6	0	0
Graff, 3b.	4	0	1	0	2	0
Mayer, cf.	4	2	2	5	0	0
Bernsen, 1b.	4	0	1	0	0	0
Holden, rf.	4	0	2	1	0	0
Ritter, 2b.	4	0	0	2	3	0
Eiland, ss.	4	0	1	2	3	1
Schmidt, c.	4	1	1	1	1	0
Suggs, p.	4	0	1	0	0	0
Totals	33	4	11	27	10	1

NASHVILLE—ab. r. h. po. a. e.

Emery, 1f.	3	0	1	0	0	0
Morse, 2b.	4	0	0	2	0	0
Porter, rf.	4	0	1	0	0	0
Burke, cf.	4	0	1	1	1	0
Werre, 1b.	4	0	1	1	1	0
Knaupp, 2b.	4	0	0	4	8	0
Fahryer, ss.	3	0	2	2	3	0
Morrow, c.	3	0	0	2	1	0
Gallagher, p.	3	0	0	0	0	0
Sewell, p.	1	0	0	0	0	0
McMeyers, p.	1	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	32	0	6	27	21	2

Batted for Gallagher in 5th.

Score by innings: 000 000 000—0.

Summary—Two-base hits, Burke, Mayer, sacrifice hits, Graff, double plays, Fahryer to Knaupp to Werre; innings pitched, by Gallagher 8 with 10 hits and 4 runs; hit by pitcher, by Sewell (Holden); stolen bases, Guyon, Graff; left on bases, Nashville 5, Atlanta 10; bases on balls, off Gallagher 2, off Suggs 3; struck out, by Gallagher 2, by Suggs 1; wild pitches, Gallagher 2, Time, 1:40. Umpires, Tandy and Williams.

Score by innings: 000 000 000—0.

Summary—Two-base hits, Burke, Mayer, sacrifice hits, Graff, double plays, Fahryer to Knaupp to Werre; innings pitched, by Gallagher 8 with 10 hits and 4 runs; hit by pitcher, by Sewell (Holden); stolen bases, Guyon, Graff; left on bases, Nashville 5, Atlanta 10; bases on balls, off Gallagher 2, off Suggs 3; struck out, by Gallagher 2, by Suggs 1; wild pitches, Gallagher 2, Time, 1:40. Umpires, Tandy and Williams.

Score by innings: 000 000 000—0.

Summary—Two-base hits, Burke, Mayer, sacrifice hits, Graff, double plays, Fahryer to Knaupp to Werre; innings pitched, by Gallagher 8 with 10 hits and 4 runs; hit by pitcher, by Sewell (Holden); stolen bases, Guyon, Graff; left on bases, Nashville 5, Atlanta 10; bases on balls, off Gallagher 2, off Suggs 3; struck out, by Gallagher 2, by Suggs 1; wild pitches, Gallagher 2, Time, 1:40. Umpires, Tandy and Williams.

Score by innings: 000 000 000—0.

Summary—Two-base hits, Burke, Mayer, sacrifice hits, Graff, double plays, Fahryer to Knaupp to Werre; innings pitched, by Gallagher 8 with 10 hits and 4 runs; hit by pitcher, by Sewell (Holden); stolen bases, Guyon, Graff; left on bases, Nashville 5, Atlanta 10; bases on balls, off Gallagher 2, off Suggs 3; struck out, by Gallagher 2, by Suggs 1; wild pitches, Gallagher 2, Time, 1:40. Umpires, Tandy and Williams.

Score by innings: 000 000 000—0.

Summary—Two-base hits, Burke, Mayer, sacrifice hits, Graff, double plays, Fahryer to Knaupp to Werre; innings pitched, by Gallagher 8 with 10 hits and 4 runs; hit by pitcher, by Sewell (Holden); stolen bases, Guyon, Graff; left on bases, Nashville 5, Atlanta 10; bases on balls, off Gallagher 2, off Suggs 3; struck out, by Gallagher 2, by Suggs 1; wild pitches, Gallagher 2, Time, 1:40. Umpires, Tandy and Williams.

Score by innings: 000 000 000—0.

Summary—Two-base hits, Burke, Mayer, sacrifice hits, Graff, double plays, Fahryer to Knaupp to Werre; innings pitched, by Gallagher 8 with 10 hits and 4 runs; hit by pitcher, by Sewell (Holden); stolen bases, Guyon, Graff; left on bases, Nashville 5, Atlanta 10; bases on balls, off Gallagher 2, off Suggs 3; struck out, by Gallagher 2, by Suggs 1; wild pitches, Gallagher 2, Time, 1:40. Umpires, Tandy and Williams.

Score by innings: 000 000 000—0.

Summary—Two-base hits, Burke, Mayer, sacrifice hits, Graff, double plays, Fahryer to Knaupp to Werre; innings pitched, by Gallagher 8 with 10 hits and 4 runs; hit by pitcher, by Sewell (Holden); stolen bases, Guyon, Graff; left on bases, Nashville 5, Atlanta 10; bases on balls, off Gallagher 2, off Suggs 3; struck out, by Gallagher 2, by Suggs 1; wild pitches, Gallagher 2, Time, 1:40. Umpires, Tandy and Williams.

Score by innings: 000 000 000—0.

Summary—Two-base hits, Burke, Mayer, sacrifice hits, Graff, double plays, Fahryer to Knaupp to Werre; innings pitched, by Gallagher 8 with 10 hits and 4 runs; hit by pitcher, by Sewell (Holden); stolen bases, Guyon, Graff; left on bases, Nashville 5, Atlanta 10; bases on balls, off Gallagher 2, off Suggs 3; struck out, by Gallagher 2, by Suggs 1; wild pitches, Gallagher 2, Time, 1:40. Umpires, Tandy and Williams.

Score by innings: 000 000 000—0.

Summary—Two-base hits, Burke, Mayer, sacrifice hits, Graff, double plays, Fahryer to Knaupp to Werre; innings pitched, by Gallagher 8 with 10 hits and 4 runs; hit by pitcher, by Sewell (Holden); stolen bases, Guyon, Graff; left on bases, Nashville 5, Atlanta 10; bases on balls, off Gallagher 2, off Suggs 3; struck out, by Gallagher 2, by Suggs 1; wild pitches, Gallagher 2, Time, 1:40. Umpires, Tandy and Williams.

Score by innings: 000 000 000—0.

Summary—Two-base hits, Burke, Mayer, sacrifice hits, Graff, double plays, Fahryer to Knaupp to Werre; innings pitched, by Gallagher 8 with 10 hits and 4 runs; hit by pitcher, by Sewell (Holden); stolen bases, Guyon, Graff; left on bases, Nashville 5, Atlanta 10; bases on balls, off Gallagher 2, off Suggs 3; struck out, by Gallagher 2, by Suggs 1; wild pitches, Gallagher 2, Time, 1:40. Umpires, Tandy and Williams.

Score by innings: 000 000 000—0.

Summary—Two-base hits, Burke, Mayer, sacrifice hits, Graff, double plays, Fahryer to Knaupp to Werre; innings pitched, by Gallagher 8 with 10 hits and 4 runs; hit by pitcher, by Sewell (Holden); stolen bases, Guyon, Graff; left on bases, Nashville 5, Atlanta 10; bases on balls, off Gallagher 2, off Suggs 3; struck out, by Gallagher 2, by Suggs 1; wild pitches, Gallagher 2, Time, 1:40. Umpires, Tandy and Williams.

League's Storm Center Passes C. Frank's Career Is Reviewed

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF

CHARLIE FRANK

The retirement of Charlie Frank from the managerial seat of the Atlanta ball club marks the passing from southern baseball of its most picturesque and, at one time, its most commanding figure.

Frank was one of the organizers of the Southern league 21 years ago. Previous to that time he had been a Southern league player, noted for both pitching and hitting prowess.

He controlled the Memphis franchise when the circuit was formed in 1901 and immediately became a storm center of southern baseball politics. Though a great player in his day and a successful manager, Frank achieved league pre-eminence by being a baseball lawyer. He took the keenest pride in his ability as such and was constantly engaged in some sort of furious baseball litigation.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

BUCKED COMMISSION.

In the second year of the league's existence, he came near to destroying the organization. In some way he obtained the services of Pitcher Jimmy St. Vrain, who was claimed by a Pacific Coast club. The national commission ruled against Frank, but he insisted on using the player in absolute defiance to the commission's order, rushed into the court, and finally lost his legal battle.

Then he determined to organize an outlaw league, got financial backing in Memphis, and actually formed a circuit. So strongly was he entrenched and so weak was the league at that time, that the league finally had to meet all of Frank's demands and pay him heavily besides.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Boston Wins Another.

New York, May 1.—The Boston Americans won their third consecutive game from New York here today, 5 to 2. May was hit hard in the early innings, while Ferguson, released by New York to Boston last winter, held the American league champions to four hits. It was his second victory of the series.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Boston,021 100 001—5 10 0 New York,000 001 001—2 4 0 Batteries—Ferguson and Ruel; Mays and Schang.

Tigers Lose, 6 to 5.

Detroit, May 1.—Chicago defeated Detroit, 6 to 5, today, making a clean sweep of the four-game series. The White Sox outbatted the Tigers and also profited materially of the locals' errors. Hodge was taken out in the ninth inning, when he walked the first two men to face him, and Russell succeeded in holding Detroit scoreless.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Chicago,121 200 000—6 13 1 Detroit,010 110 200—5 8 3 Batteries—Hodge, Russell and Schalk; Cole, Dawes and Woodall.

Browns to First Place.

St. Louis, May 1.—The Browns moved into first place in the American league race today, winning their fourth straight game from Cleveland, 13 to 2, while New York was being defeated by Boston. The Browns pounded three Indian pitchers for sixteen safeties, including three doubles, two triples and a home run by McManus.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Cleveland,000 010 010—2 9 2 St. Louis,026 000 23—13 13 1 Batteries—Uble, Lindsay, Potts and O'Neill, Schmandt; Kolp and Severid.

Athletics Win, 8-5.

Philadelphia, May 1.—Home runs by Walker and Dykes aided Harris today in subduing Washington by the score of 8 to 5. Harris allowed but eight scattered hits and in addition contributed two safeties.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Washington,001 200 002—5 8 2 Philadelphia,021 121 01x—8 14 3 Batteries—Frisco, Eulheart and Gharriy; B. Harris and Perkins.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pittsburgh Wins.

Cincinnati, May 1.—Bowler, batting for Adams in the eighth inning, delivered a triple which settled today's game in favor of Pittsburgh, 7 to 6. Laque was hit hard all the way. Morrison lasted only two innings. Adams pitched well and was taken out to make way for a pinch hitter.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Pittsburgh,200 210 020—7 11 2 Cincinnati,510 000 000—6 9 1 Batteries—Morrison, Adams, Ham-

LECTURES ON RADIO FOR COLLEGE BOYS

Southern Radio Corporation
100 Marietta St., Cor. Hartow

Radio Equipment
DeForest Line Complete—All

for Dealers Standard Accessories
LIVORIES — & Sales Co.

Mr. Perry was named as arbiter of the state after the company had exercised its right for an arbitration and had named C. B. Conyers, of Brunswick, as its representative. Mr. Perry and Mr. Conyers will hold a conference soon to determine the valuation of the properties for taxation.

Members N. Y. Stock Exchange
ATLANTA OFFICE, 9 TRUST COMPANY OF GEORGIA BUILDING
STOCKS AND BONDS
HERBERT H. BROWN MOB. IVT. 6851

ATLANTA TRUST COMPANY
ATLANTA, GA.

FOUNTAIN PENS
GOODHART-TOMPKINS
83 PEACHTREE

Mr. Perry was named as arbiter of the state after the company had exercised its right for an arbitration and had named C. B. Conyers, of Brunswick, as its representative. Mr. Perry and Mr. Conyers will hold a conference soon to determine the valuation of the properties for taxation.

Members N. Y. Stock Exchange
ATLANTA OFFICE, 9 TRUST COMPANY OF GEORGIA BUILDING
STOCKS AND BONDS
HERBERT H. BROWN MGR. (VT. 685)

ATLANTA, GA.

REPORTERS DASH INTO BIG MIRROR IN FIRE ALARM

Washington, May 1.—Fire breaking out in the apartment of Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, at the Portland, an apartment hotel at Fourteenth street and Thomas circle, northwest, today resulted in the turning in of four alarms, a great deal of excitement, a general exodus of guests but little damage, except that caused by water.

Several members of congress, including Senators McKellar, Dillingham, of Vermont, Cummings, of Iowa, and Townsend, of Michigan, make their home at the Portland, together with several members of the Japanese embassy staff. Miss Margaret Cummins, sister of the Iowa senator, who was confined to her bed by illness, was brought down to the lower floor.

Confusion resulting from the fire caused several firemen and newspapermen to dash headlong into a large mirror, twenty feet wide by forty feet long thinking it was the entrance into the cafe of the hotel.

THEATERS

FORSYTH PLAYERS

(Theatre)

Present This Week
David Belasco's Great Play

"Tiger Rose"

A Massive Scenic and Superbly Mounted Melodrama of the Great Northwest.

Matinee Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday at 2:30
Adults, orchestra, 50c
Adults, balcony, 35c
Children, any seat, 25c
Nights at 8:15-8:30, 8:45, 9:10, 9:30, 9:50
These prices include war tax
RESERVE YOUR SEATS NOW
PERMANENT RESERVATIONS BOOKED—PHONE IVY 211

BEKEITH'S
LYRIC THEATRE
WORLD'S BEST VAUDEVILLE
MAYNARD DALLAS
NIGHTS—7:30, 9:30, 11:30, 1:30, 3:30, 5:30, 7:30, 9:30, 11:30
NOW PLAYING
BILLIE LAMAR
In a "GABRIEL DE LUXE"
A Grand Musical Comedy
A Musical Comedy
GRINDELL & ESTHER
A Study in "The Great Divide"
JOHNNY SMALL & SISTERS
In "PUFFY LOVE"
OTHER KEITH FEATURES

LOEW'S
GRAND CONTINUOUS SHOW
VAUDEVILLE 8:30, 7:30, 9:30
Afternoon 1:30-2:30, 3:30-4:30
TODAY AND WED.
ALL-STAR SHOW
Maude Elliott & Co. Offer
"Girls of the Altitude"
5-BIG LOEW ACTS—5
On the Screen
Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven
In "Marry the Poor Girl"

MAT. 10c and 20c
NIGHTS 10c and 25c

"THE BRIDE'S PLAY"
MARION DAVIES IN A PARAMOUNT PICTURE
Round 4—"THE LEATHER PUSHERS"—Round 4
THE INTERNATIONAL NEWS

MOTION PICTURES

CRITERION

NOW PLAYING
Daily—10:45-12:30-2:15
4:00-5:45-7:30-9:15

BERT LYTELLE

"THE RIGHT THAT FAILED"

Also—BUSTER KEATON

"THE PALEFACE"

METROPOLITAN

TODAY

DAILY—12:30-2:15-4:00-5:45-7:30-9:15

Norma Talmadge

Smilin' Through

Her greatest!

8 reels of Storm and Sunshine

LOEW'S

GRAND CONTINUOUS SHOW

VAUDEVILLE 8:30, 7:30, 9:30

Afternoon 1:30-2:30, 3:30-4:30

TODAY AND WED.

ALL-STAR SHOW

Maude Elliott & Co. Offer

"Girls of the Altitude"

5-BIG LOEW ACTS—5

On the Screen

Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven

In "Marry the Poor Girl"

MAT. 10c and 20c

NIGHTS 10c and 25c

"THE BRIDE'S PLAY"

MARION DAVIES IN A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

Round 4—"THE LEATHER PUSHERS"—Round 4

THE INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Amusement Directory

THEATERS MOVIES

Loew's Theatre (Keith Vaudeville)—See advertising for program.

Loew's Grand (Vaudeville and Pictures)—See advertising for program.

Forsyth Theatre—All week. Forsyth Players in "Tiger Rose."

Howard Theatre—All week. Lois Wilson in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

Criterion Theatre—All week. Bert Lytell in "The Right That Failed," and other screen features.

Tudor Theatre—Tuesday, Frank May in "The Man Who Married His Wife," and other screen features.

Alpha Theatre—Tuesday, Dorothy Davenport in "The Arm of the Law."

Metropolitan Theatre—All week. Norma Talmadge in "Smilin' Through," and other screen features.

Strand Theatre—All week. William S. Hart in "Travelin' On," and other screen features.

Radio Theatre—All week. Marion Davies in "The Bride's Play," and other screen features.

ing cast is especially fine and includes such popular favorites as T. Roy Barnes, Lila Lee, Lois Wilson, Walter Hiers, Adolphe Menjou and Tully Marshall.

"Smilin' Through."

(At the Metropolitan.)

Norma Talmadge has played two hundred roles since she began her screen career at the age of 14; her portrayals represented the best in motion pictures. Now she has contributed to the vaudeville class that for beauty and nobility surpasses anything she has yet done.

"Smilin' Through," the Allen Leighton Martin play made famous by Jane Cowl on the stage, is the production that has the distinction of presenting the picture in Atlanta.

"Smilin' Through" is a superb dramatic vehicle; but it is much more than that. It is a tender romance, that breathes the optimism of unselfish love and undying devotion.

"The Right That Failed."

(At the Criterion.)

A joyous leap away from the conventional run of motion pictures is found in "The Right That Failed," the new Metro picture starring Bert Lytell, which opened at the Criterion theatre Monday.

Author P. M. Marquand, whose story first appeared in "The Saturday Evening Post," has got away from the stereotyped plot and developed a set of character new to the screen with a humorous and fresh observation that holds the audience in its grip.

It is good, clean, wholesome fun, with plenty of action and breathless suspense.

The story was transferred to the screen by Lenox Coffee Bayard, author of "Within the Law" and "The Thirteenth Chair," and "The Thirteenth Chair" picture for Metro, has done the best work of his career in making the story live as a merry life of love.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the proverbial nutshell, the latest William Fox production.

"Travelin' On," which was presented at the Strand theatre Monday, is a picture of the mind struggles of two distinct types of men, both coveting a woman who is the wife of another man, a preacher of the word of God. There is a rivalry between the two men, and it is this rivalry which precipitates the thriller. Both men are fearless and in the matter of adventure, they demonstrate an art which has long since ceased to be a novelty.

William S. Hart himself, Ethel Grey Terry, Mary Jane Irving and Brimley Woodhouse among those present in the cast.

"Travelin' On."

(At the Strand.)

Bulldozed thrill upon thrill right up to the end, "Travelin' On," a picture of a most unusual nature, describes, in the

Famine's Gaunt Shadow Hovers O'er Flood Area

Relief Workers Still Struggle to Feed Homeless Victims of Inundation.

New Orleans, May 1.—Relief organizations were continuing to work today to prevent hunger, exposure and disease among the tens of thousands of homeless in the stricken flood zones of Louisiana and Mississippi. Particular efforts were directed to the area in central, eastern Louisiana where a lake of more than 1,400 square miles now exists on erstwhile fertile farm lands and thriving commercial towns as a result of the breaking of the levee of the Mississippi river near Ferriday, La. Harrisonburg, La., far west of the river but yet in the flood zone, continues to present the most serious problem. Food is the crying need of the thousands of residents and several thousands of refugees who fled to that town or were brought there by their rescuers.

Stocks of local merchants have become exhausted. Today it was reported that a boat from neighboring communities which it is hoped will last until a boat with food which left New Orleans last Saturday arrives in addition to those in need at that town, it was reported today that boats laden with 1,000 more refugees were en route there.

Already Hungry. Old men and women and children upon their arrival at Harrisonburg already showed the effects of under nourishment as the back waters from the rivers had been creeping into their homes for many days before they decided to flee.

There is a serious shortage of shelter at Harrisonburg. Only fifty tents are available and many are sleeping on the ground in the open. There is also a lack of medical supplies.

The distress among the flood sufferers has been aggravated by the refusal of many inhabitants of the lowlands to abandon their homes until the water forced them out. In southern Louisiana, where the river is continuing to spread a crevasse in St. Bernard parish, refugees are being brought to the outskirts of New Orleans, where better shelter, medical attention and food can be given them. Relief camps established in the flood zone have, in many instances, been abandoned as the result of the spreading of the waters.

Many Marooned. In central western Mississippi renewed efforts were going forward to rescue the marooned in the Yazoo basin, where a stretch of land covering 1,700 square miles is today a mighty lake. Relief bodies are being taxed to capacity to provide for the refugees who continue to pour in at the isolated high spots and larger towns. Food, shelter, clothing and medical supplies must be supplied for 17,500 of these in that devastated area, it is estimated.

With the crest still to come in the lower and central reaches of the river, scores of towns and villages in Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana are covered with water to a depth in some instances of twenty feet, while many larger communities have encircled themselves in hastily constructed embankments which they hope will hold the water out, in the meantime being isolated from the world with the exception of communication by boats.

Wake Up Daddy Club Will Work For Watkins Plan

The seventh ward's "Wake Up Daddy" organization was revived Monday night to work for passage of the Watkins charter. This body of voters played a conspicuous role a few years ago in the successful campaign to elect the board of education by the people, and again in the bond issue campaign last year.

At a meeting at the home of Murray Howard, 57 Howell street, the "Wake Up Daddy" members gathered and pledged their efforts for the Watkins plan on account of its provision for the schools. The Atlanta plan of Mr. Watkins protects the teachers in their positions after two years of satisfactory service, and gives the schools in revenue 4 per cent more than the Choate and present charters, which do not increase the existing 26 per cent of current receipts.

F. C. Rice was named chairman and another meeting will be held at the People's Street school Friday night.

Three-Cornered Debate. A three-cornered joint debate Monday night at the Ormeau Presbyterian church in Ormeau, and an invitation by the Choate forces to consider the Choate plan, which the councilman spurned and denounced, were other features of the campaign.

At the Ormeau meeting Councilman Horace Russell, advocating the plan of Councilman Edgar Watkins, was the first of the charter speakers. He said that in the early days of American history the worst spot in the country's government was its system of city government.

About 10 years ago there was an awakening, he said, and a plan similar to the Watkins or Atlanta plan was adopted as the outgrowth of years of study of the municipal government problem. He said that the plan is now conceded by students of municipal government to be the best, and that it is in use in more than 200 cities. Not a single city has ever abandoned it after trying it, he said.

Councilman Watkins said the Atlanta charter provides for a more representative form of government than the present charter, for the reason that the board of aldermen is in absolute control of the city's policies and operations and because it requires important measures such as tax rate increases must be submitted to the people, whereas at present council can raise the rate without having it voted on by the citizens.

Defends Present Plan. Attacking the power the mayor would have under the Choate plan, Attorney C. W. Buchanan, representing the present charter, declared the composite charter would provide "an awful foundation for the city's government." He said that to adopt the charter and give the mayor so much power "it would be like going back to a king."

Attorney Buchanan said that if the voters would go to the polls tomorrow and vote intelligently, "there would be no room for trouble," and the present charter with amendments would be adequate for the city's needs.

Insisting the Choate plan will preserve a representative form of government, Mrs. Rogers Winter addressed the meeting in behalf of the composite charter. It is representative, she said, because the administration is headed by the mayor, who is elected by the people, and who is directly responsible to the people, in whose power it is to recall him. Department heads are also subject to recall by a two-thirds vote of council, she said.

Mrs. Winter's Plan. Answering the charge that the mayor had too much power, Mrs. Winter pointed out the checks on the mayor provided in the Choate charter. She pointed out that as he could not succeed himself, he would have no reason for desiring to build himself up a political ring.

Miss Eleanor Raul, president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, made a brief impromptu speech, endorsing the Watkins charter and urging its acceptance. The meeting was well attended, and each speaker was given a very attentive hearing.

Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock a Watkins rally will be held at the Luckie Street school. Julian Boehm, Henry Quillian and Mrs. Sanford Gay will speak.

Wednesday night a charter mass meeting will be held at the Georgia Avenue school. Speakers representing the three charter groups will talk.

BURGLARS ENTER FOUR HOMES HERE ON MONDAY NIGHT. Burglars entered four Atlanta homes Wednesday night and obtained substantial sums of money and jewelry according to reports made to police headquarters Monday night.

The residence of Solomon Travachin, 215 Franklin street, was entered by thieves who took $30 and several other articles of value. No arrests were made in the case but police were working on several clues.

Two negro boys were caught in the act of stealing a suitcase full of clothing from the home of L. A. Wise, 233 East Sixth street Monday night. Mrs. W. C. Kirkpatrick, a neighbor, Mrs. Kirkpatrick fired two shots at the negroes as they fled. She gave the police a good description.

The home of J. H. Reed, 77 Drewry street, was entered by burglars who obtained $11 in cash, a ladies gold watch, a cameo pin, and other jewelry. Burglars entered the residence of Mrs. A. J. Johnston, 575 Highland avenue late Monday night and took two watches, a small savings bank containing several dollars and other articles.

BOLSHEVICK MACHINE CHARGE IS DENIED. Chicago, May 1.—Charges that a secret machine is working to undermine the American Federation of Labor, made here Saturday by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, were denied today by William Z. Foster, secretary-treasurer of the trade union educational league.

Let's Lunch at THE DAFFODIL. That's an invitation that is welcome news to any woman's ears. And we'll say that she needs no second invitation.

After a hard morning's work, palatable food, savory and wholesome, such as we serve here—in the best of refinement it's a pleasure to eat here.

The Daffodil 111 North Pryor Street

Our famous candies and cakes are sold at 803 Peachtree street also. Ask at the food founts.

MAGNOLIA, The Model Cemetery, Office 58 Peachtree Arcade, Ivy 1188.

PROFESSIONAL CARD. R. H. Brewster, Mark Blanding, Albert Howell, Jr., Hugh Howell, H. M. Dorsey, W. P. Bloodworth, Arthur Hayman, R. G. Stephens, Dorsey, Brewster, Howell & Hayman, 607 to 623 Connally Building, Atlanta.

MELL PLUMBING CO. Joe Stewart, Prop. HEATING AND PLUMBING 50 S. Pryor St. Main 301

We bring our tools and materials with us on every repair job.

STENOGRAPHERS charged with the responsibility of getting out good letters, and who take a pride in their work, are invited to try our service.

Atlanta Multigraphing Co. Letter Specialists. 610 Flatiron Building. Tel. Ivy 1388.

WE SELL FORD CARS A. L. BELLE ISLE-IVY 507

TILE CO. HURT BLDG. 41 Peachtree Street, Ivy 5071

RECEIVER'S SALE. Pursuant to an order passed by P. H. Adams, Referee in Bankruptcy, we are offering for sale on May 3rd, at 11 o'clock A. M., in the office of Judge P. H. Adams, at 512 Grant Bldg., the store and meat market fixtures belonging to the estate of Dunn & Hucks, Bankrupts, said property being located in a certain store building at 315 Edgewood Avenue, Atlanta, Georgia.

A complete inventory is on file with the Referee, and inspection of the property can be had by calling at 315 Edgewood Avenue. Terms of sale cash, and said sale subject to confirmation by the Court.

W. O. SLATE, Receiver, 715 Citizens & Southern Bank Bldg., Atlanta, Georgia.

$20 REWARD. For the capture of Jack Henderson, white, sent up from Forsyth County for selling whiskey. He formerly lived in Gainesville, Ga. Age about 24 years, weight about 145 pounds. Last seen wearing red sweater.

T. L. HARRIS, County Commissioner, Gwinnett Co., Georgia.

Sale of Bankrupt Stock Goods. The undersigned hereby invites bids for the stock of G. W. Brown, bankrupt, Lexington, Ga., and assets, and other personal and real property. Bids to be considered at the public meeting to be held on 6th day of May, 1932, at 11 o'clock, at the Court House, Georgia. Bank of Georgia and Citizens National Bank, Atlanta, Ga.

Further information, write 3081 CLOUD, Roswell, Ga.

Mortuary

Miss Irene Mosley. Miss Irene Mosley, age 21 years, of 137 Crew street, died Monday at a local hospital. She is survived by her grandmother, Mrs. S. L. Mosley, of Atlanta and Mrs. Mary Strickland, of Highland, N. C. H. H. Patterson & Son in charge.

S. M. Knox. S. M. Knox, age 74 years, died Sunday at the residence 19 Euclid Terrace. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. H. H. Harris, and Mrs. B. W. Egan; two sons, C. S. and R. B. Knox, and two sisters, Mrs. Ark Wyatt and Mrs. Mack White, both of Summerville, Ga. H. H. Patterson & Son in charge.

Mrs. Sarah Barfield. Mrs. Sarah E. Barfield, age 63 years, died Sunday at the residence, 41 Crew street. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. E. H. Van Norden, and Misses Dollie and Lila Barfield, and three brothers, Frank, George and John Peters. Harry G. Poole in charge.

Mrs. C. B. Irwin. Mrs. C. B. Irwin, of Inman Yard, died Sunday at a local hospital. She is survived by her husband, two sisters, Mrs. H. M. Ashley, and Mrs. S. L. Holcomb.

Spain today possesses 500,000 tons of shipping, one-half of which is now idle.

NO MORE DICTIONARIES AFTER NEXT SATURDAY. The few remaining days of our great dictionary distribution will probably attract crowds that have been dilatory in possessing one of the most useful volumes that has ever found its way into the homes of our readers. To say that we are pleased at the reception of the work is but mildly to express our feelings. It will be consulted in every instance thousands of times by its lucky owner, and always on some point that will add to his storehouse of knowledge.

We know of no book that could be more instructive. In addition to its accurate definitions of thousands of words, old and new, and its dialectical markings of each word, it has a compendium of thousands of facts that should be known by every student of contemporary history, a list of over ten thousand synonyms and antonyms, and statistics from the latest United States and Canadian census. We can only express our regret that our contract expires this week—and indulge the hope that not a single reader will be without the volume which under our terms is practically a gift. The coupon elsewhere in today's paper explains the terms of its acquisition.—(adv.)

"Selling Yourself" BY WILLIAM WISE. You can't sell a shabby car or a run-down house, and you can't "sell" yourself, on a business deal for yourself or your employer, if your looks are not right.

"The apparel of the man," says Bill Shakespeare, and Bill knows. "Neat but not gaudy," urges Bill. He must have been thinking of a Talbot-Tailored suit at $50—which looks like a $100 suit—fits like it and wears like it—because it is like it.

C. P. TALBOT CO. 2% Auburn St. Upstairs

Funeral Designs A Specialty. Try it with Flowers. Stallings FLOWER SHOP. 125 Peachtree Street, Ivy 7919

RECEIVER'S SALE. Pursuant to an order passed by P. H. Adams, Referee in Bankruptcy, we are offering for sale on May 3rd, at 11 o'clock A. M., in the office of Judge P. H. Adams, at 512 Grant Bldg., the store and meat market fixtures belonging to the estate of Dunn & Hucks, Bankrupts, said property being located in a certain store building at 315 Edgewood Avenue, Atlanta, Georgia.

A complete inventory is on file with the Referee, and inspection of the property can be had by calling at 315 Edgewood Avenue. Terms of sale cash, and said sale subject to confirmation by the Court.

W. O. SLATE, Receiver, 715 Citizens & Southern Bank Bldg., Atlanta, Georgia.

$20 REWARD. For the capture of Jack Henderson, white, sent up from Forsyth County for selling whiskey. He formerly lived in Gainesville, Ga. Age about 24 years, weight about 145 pounds. Last seen wearing red sweater.

T. L. HARRIS, County Commissioner, Gwinnett Co., Georgia.

Sale of Bankrupt Stock Goods. The undersigned hereby invites bids for the stock of G. W. Brown, bankrupt, Lexington, Ga., and assets, and other personal and real property. Bids to be considered at the public meeting to be held on 6th day of May, 1932, at 11 o'clock, at the Court House, Georgia. Bank of Georgia and Citizens National Bank, Atlanta, Ga.

Further information, write 3081 CLOUD, Roswell, Ga.

W. O. Jackson; two brothers, G. O. and J. H. Henderson, and her mother, Mrs. J. B. Henderson, H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

S. L. Holcomb. S. L. Holcomb, 63 years old, died Monday at 5:30 o'clock at a private hospital. He is survived by his widow, one son, Davis Holcomb; four daughters, Mrs. M. M. O'Sullivan, Misses Annie L., Elizabeth and Carolyn Holcomb; two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Reed and Mrs. G. W. Howell, and one brother, J. A. Holcomb, of Rockmount, Ga. A. C. Hemphry in charge.

Card of Thanks. Mrs. Elizabeth Dean and family wish to thank their friends for the kindness and sympathy shown them in the recent illness and death of their husband and father.

RECEIVERS' SALE. The Savoy Apartments, No. 11 W. Baker St.

We will sell before the courthouse door on Tuesday, May 2nd, at 10 o'clock, the above property, to the highest bidder. The lot is 50x100 feet, and is only 132 feet from Peachtree street. The improvements consist of a three-story brick apartment house containing six apartments of six rooms each. Five of these are rented for $400 per month net of heat, light and water. The other is vacant. Terms of sale, cash. Purchaser to assume taxes for 1932, and to be furnished, free of charge, a title certificate from the Atlanta Title and Trust Company. Plats can be obtained at our office.

ADAIR REALTY & TRUST COMPANY RECEIVERS

Mortgage Money. We are prepared to handle loans on business and residence property at lowest prevailing rates. We can also finance buildings in course of erection.

FOUNDED 1890 WEYMAN & CONNORS Ivy 942 623-4-5-6 Grant Bldg.

Special Allsteel Equipment. We are glad to submit a complete layout for any kind of special steel equipment for courthouse, bank vault, etc.

Our experienced designer of equipment of this kind will be pleased to co-operate with you.

FOOTE & DAVIES COMPANY "The Business Man's Department Store" "Five Seconds from Five Points"

Loans on Central Business Property and First-Class Residences desired for an Eastern Insurance Company. W. CARROLL LATIMER Attorney-at-Law Atlanta, Georgia

ARCADÉ STORES For Rent APPLY ROOM 200 PEACHTREE ARCADE

Business expansion forces two Arcade tenants to subrent excellent Peachtree level store, 13x40. Attractive display window.

ARMOR & HUNTER, Greensboro, Ga.

COAL COAL COAL. We are offering some Whitwell Steam Coal for prompt shipment. We take it for granted you know the superiority of this coal.

WHOLESALE ONLY. TRUITT COAL AND IRON COMPANY Long Distance Phone, Ivy 753 ATLANTA, GEORGIA

ALONZO RICHARDSON & COMPANY Certified Public Accountants Atlanta, Ga. Phone Ivy 5493

ATTENTION IS DRAWN TO OUR Special Tax Audit Service WHICH INCLUDES The preparation of tax returns; reviewing returns for past years, including reports of Government Agents on such returns; the preparation of replies to Government Agents' reports, including Audited returns, Claims, Appeals, etc.; personal presentation of tax cases before the Income Tax Unit of the Treasury Department at Washington.

FOR SALE Flat newspaper paper suitable for small publishers and job printers. The price is right.

P. O. Box 1731, Atlanta, Ga.

KRYPTOK BIFOCALS

The Ballard Make. Has proven a revelation to those who need glasses—absolutely invisible while on the face, no distracting lines to indicate old age, no looking over your glasses or taking them off to see distant objects. Wear them a few days and forget you even use glasses. The better oculists are glad when you tell them you want Ballard to fill your glass prescription—JUST ASK THEM. There is no use going to a first-class oculist and then have your glasses made by a second-class optician. We are in position to take care of all your wants in high-class optical service.

Walter Ballard Optical Co. 105 Peachtree St., Atlanta, Ga. (Clock Sign).

Misses Annie L., Elizabeth and Carolyn Holcomb; two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Reed and Mrs. G. W. Howell, and one brother, J. A. Holcomb, of Rockmount, Ga. A. C. Hemphry in charge.

Card of Thanks. Mrs. Elizabeth Dean and family wish to thank their friends for the kindness and sympathy shown them in the recent illness and death of their husband and father.

RECEIVERS' SALE. The Savoy Apartments, No. 11 W. Baker St.

We will sell before the courthouse door on Tuesday, May 2nd, at 10 o'clock, the above property, to the highest bidder. The lot is 50x100 feet, and is only 132 feet from Peachtree street. The improvements consist of a three-story brick apartment house containing six apartments of six rooms each. Five of these are rented for $400 per month net of heat, light and water. The other is vacant. Terms of sale, cash. Purchaser to assume taxes for 1932, and to be furnished, free of charge, a title certificate from the Atlanta Title and Trust Company. Plats can be obtained at our office.

ADAIR REALTY & TRUST COMPANY RECEIVERS

Mortgage Money. We are prepared to handle loans on business and residence property at lowest prevailing rates. We can also finance buildings in course of erection.

FOUNDED 1890 WEYMAN & CONNORS Ivy 942 623-4-5-6 Grant Bldg.

Special Allsteel Equipment. We are glad to submit a complete layout for any kind of special steel equipment for courthouse, bank vault, etc.

Our experienced designer of equipment of this kind will be pleased to co-operate with you.

FOOTE & DAVIES COMPANY "The Business Man's Department Store" "Five Seconds from Five Points"

Loans on Central Business Property and First-Class Residences desired for an Eastern Insurance Company. W. CARROLL LATIMER Attorney-at-Law Atlanta, Georgia

ARCADÉ STORES For Rent APPLY ROOM 200 PEACHTREE ARCADE

Business expansion forces two Arcade tenants to subrent excellent Peachtree level store, 13x40. Attractive display window.

ARMOR & HUNTER, Greensboro, Ga.

COAL COAL COAL. We are offering some Whitwell Steam Coal for prompt shipment. We take it for granted you know the superiority of this coal.

WHOLESALE ONLY. TRUITT COAL AND IRON COMPANY Long Distance Phone, Ivy 753 ATLANTA, GEORGIA

ALONZO RICHARDSON & COMPANY Certified Public Accountants Atlanta, Ga. Phone Ivy 5493

ATTENTION IS DRAWN TO OUR Special Tax Audit Service WHICH INCLUDES The preparation of tax returns; reviewing returns for past years, including reports of Government Agents on such returns; the preparation of replies to Government Agents' reports, including Audited returns, Claims, Appeals, etc.; personal presentation of tax cases before the Income Tax Unit of the Treasury Department at Washington.

FOR SALE Flat newspaper paper suitable for small publishers and job printers. The price is right.

P. O. Box 1731, Atlanta, Ga.

KRYPTOK BIFOCALS

The Ballard Make. Has proven a revelation to those who need glasses—absolutely invisible while on the face, no distracting lines to indicate old age, no looking over your glasses or taking them off to see distant objects. Wear them a few days and forget you even use glasses. The better oculists are glad when you tell them you want Ballard to fill your glass prescription—JUST ASK THEM. There is no use going to a first-class oculist and then have your glasses made by a second-class optician. We are in position to take care of all your wants in high-class optical service.

Walter Ballard Optical Co. 105 Peachtree St., Atlanta, Ga. (Clock Sign).

THE regular convocation of Mt. Lebanon Chapter No. 181, R. A. M., will be held this (Tuesday) evening, May 2, 1932, in Lebanon, Temple, beginning at 8 o'clock. All members of the chapter are invited to attend. The Master's degree will be conferred. All duly qualified candidates are shown them in the recent illness and death of their husband and father.

By order of the High Priest, FRANK M. TERRILL, Secretary.

A regular communication of Kirkwood Lodge No. 848, F. & M. S., will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. Work in the Fellow Craft degree. All duly qualified brethren cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, ERNEST HOWARD, W. M. A. B. McPHERSON, Secretary.

A regular communication of the Atlanta Chapter No. 26, F. & M. S., will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All duly qualified brethren cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, J. E. ALLEN, Secretary.

A regular communication of Georgia Lodge No. 90, F. & M. S., will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All duly qualified brethren cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, J. E. ALLEN, Secretary.

A regular communication of the Atlanta Chapter No. 26, F. & M. S., will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All duly qualified brethren cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, J. E. ALLEN, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.

By order of the High Priest, WM. H. TURNER, JR., M. C. LEE A. WIGGINS, Secretary.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held this (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock. All qualified members are cordially invited to meet with us.